Foreword

Posterity will long remember the Class of '65 as being the cornerstone of a tradition of Fairmont West graduates. Truly, 1964-65 is a year of emerging traditions, and they apply to a school as new in spirit as the ink on the seniors' diplomas.

Kettering's forty-second yearbook chronicles a revitalized enthusiasm for a new school. Fairmont's stadium has been filled to capacity with excited Dragon fans cheering with indefatigable vigor at every football game. Each spirited scene was the same at athletic contests throughout the year.

Members of the Class of 1965 are the first to graduate from Fairmont West, and the first to sing the strains of a new alma mater. To all those who have shared in the molding of this kaleidoscopic year go the knowledge and pride of having left behind a legacy for future classes.

Fairmont West's story of that legacy is depicted in the following pages.

Senior Cheerleaders: Ann Cushwa, Judy Fenton, Nancy Giffin, Dayna Frame, Joan Tanner and Jean Roush, provide leadership for all sports.

To Thee We Sing

Commencement will be held this year for the first graduating class of Fairmont West. Although these seniors will no longer walk the campus, they will never leave behind the memories of the rainstorms, the pep assemblies, the first time they proudly sang a new alma mater. As they take their place in the world, the seniors pass the torch in the hope that those who follow will find the inspiration they have found and cherished at Fairmont West in 1965.

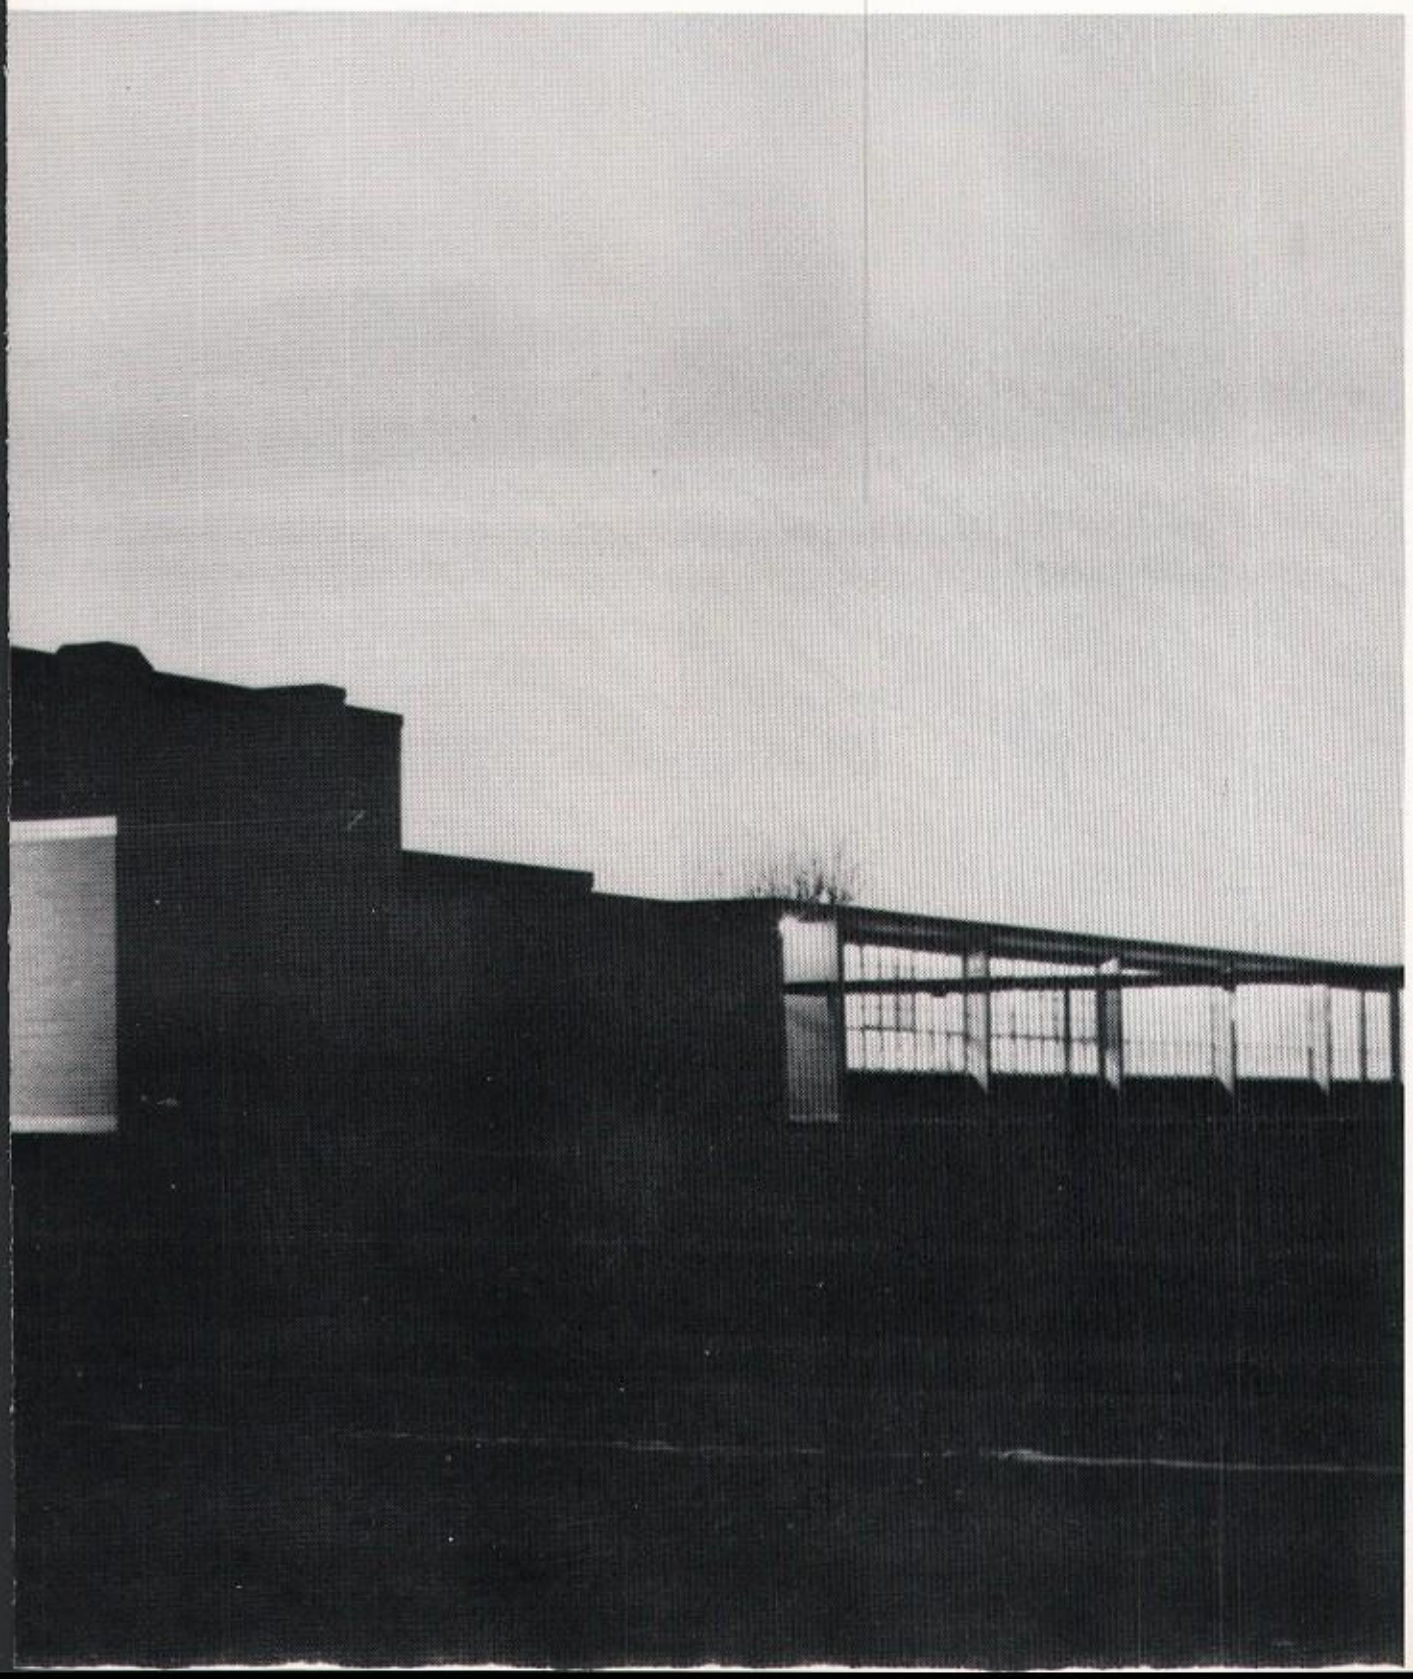
Mr. Charles Power captures the beauty of Fairmont West in his aerial view of the campus.

Administrators: Richard Sultzbach, James Robinson, Charles Ramey, Alfred Bolender and Paul Wagner, spend busy hours coordinating the many minds and hearts that call Fairmont West home.

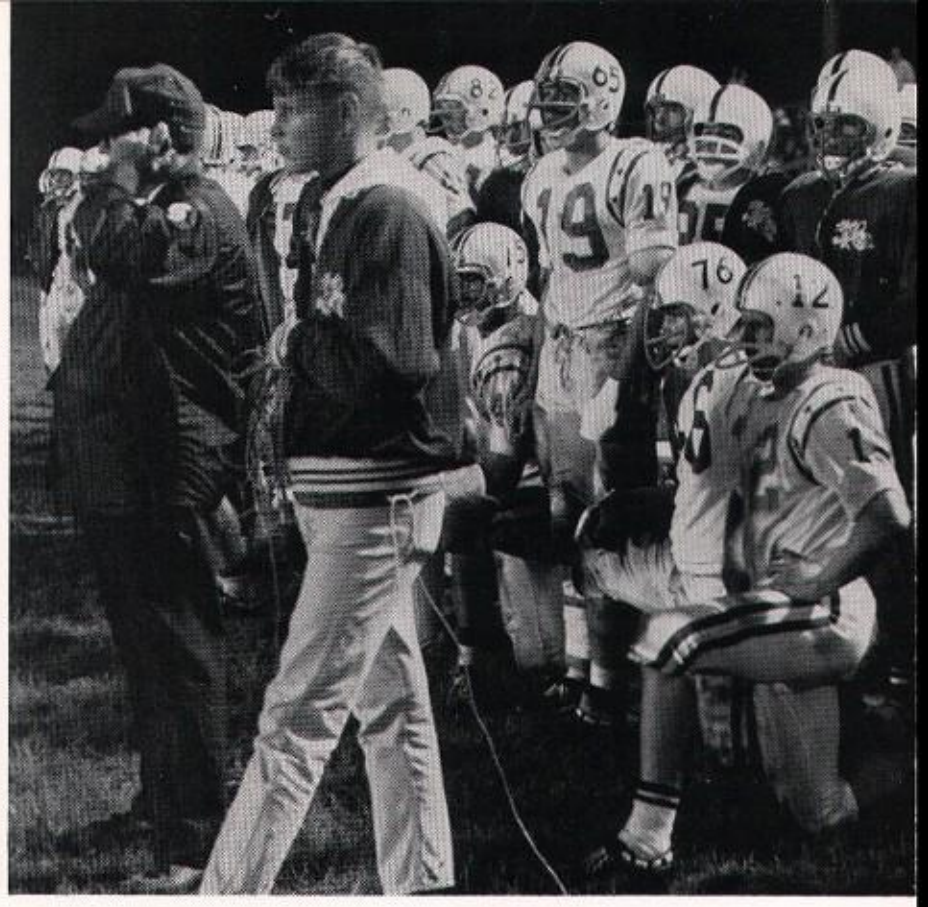
Life at West is a team effort.

Dusk is a transitional period over the campus, just as Fairmont West is in the lives of its students.

Dedicated teachers, Elby Tackett, William Arnold, and Paul Baker, contribute to the well-rounded academic life of Fairmont West students.



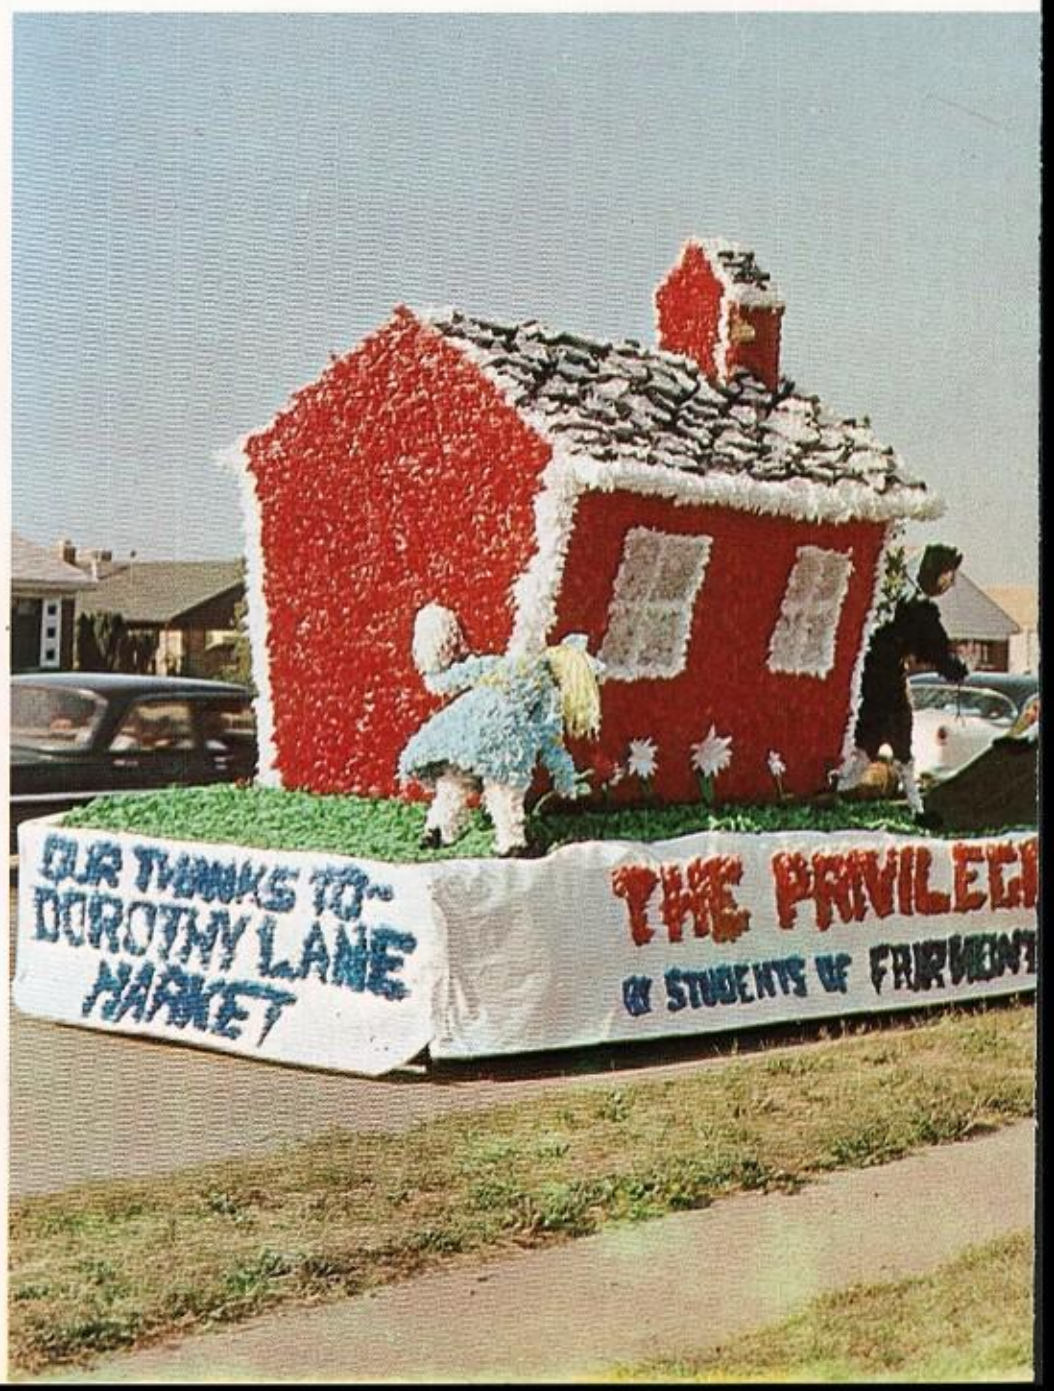
Finesse and talents of rhythmette officers: Pam Ruth, Cindy Jones, Joanne Kinzig, and Jill Irvin produce an outstanding marching corps.



People behind the scenes often hold the key to success.

West students appreciate the Privilege

Rigid routines and masterful music blend when West's marching band enters the field.



of Education

Creating something "on your own" is one of life's greatest rewards.

Dedication, hard work, sentiment and student pride constitute Kettering Holiday at Home's award-winning float.

. . . know no bounds

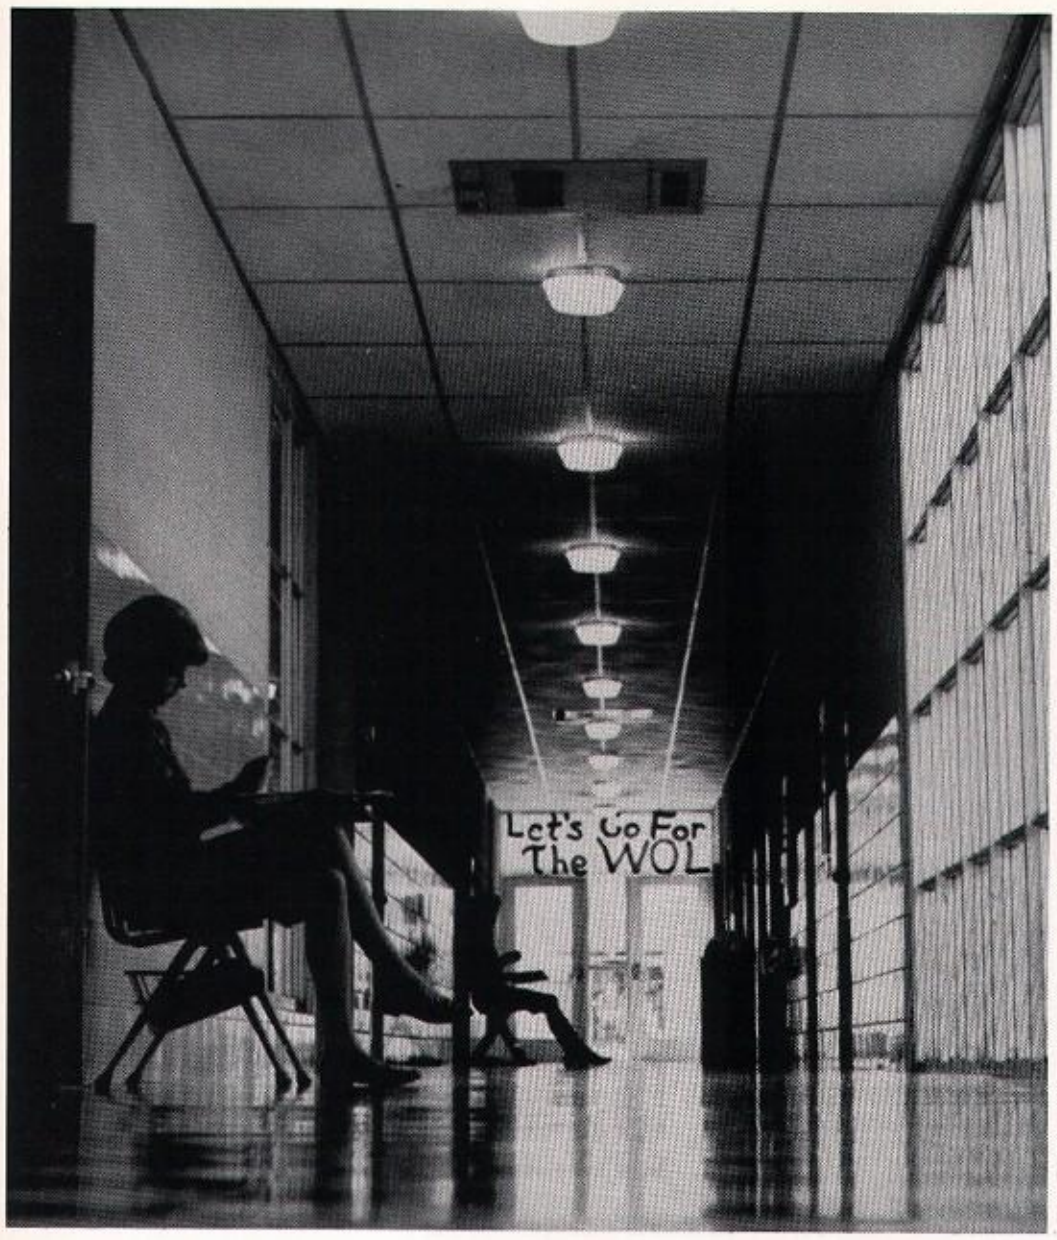
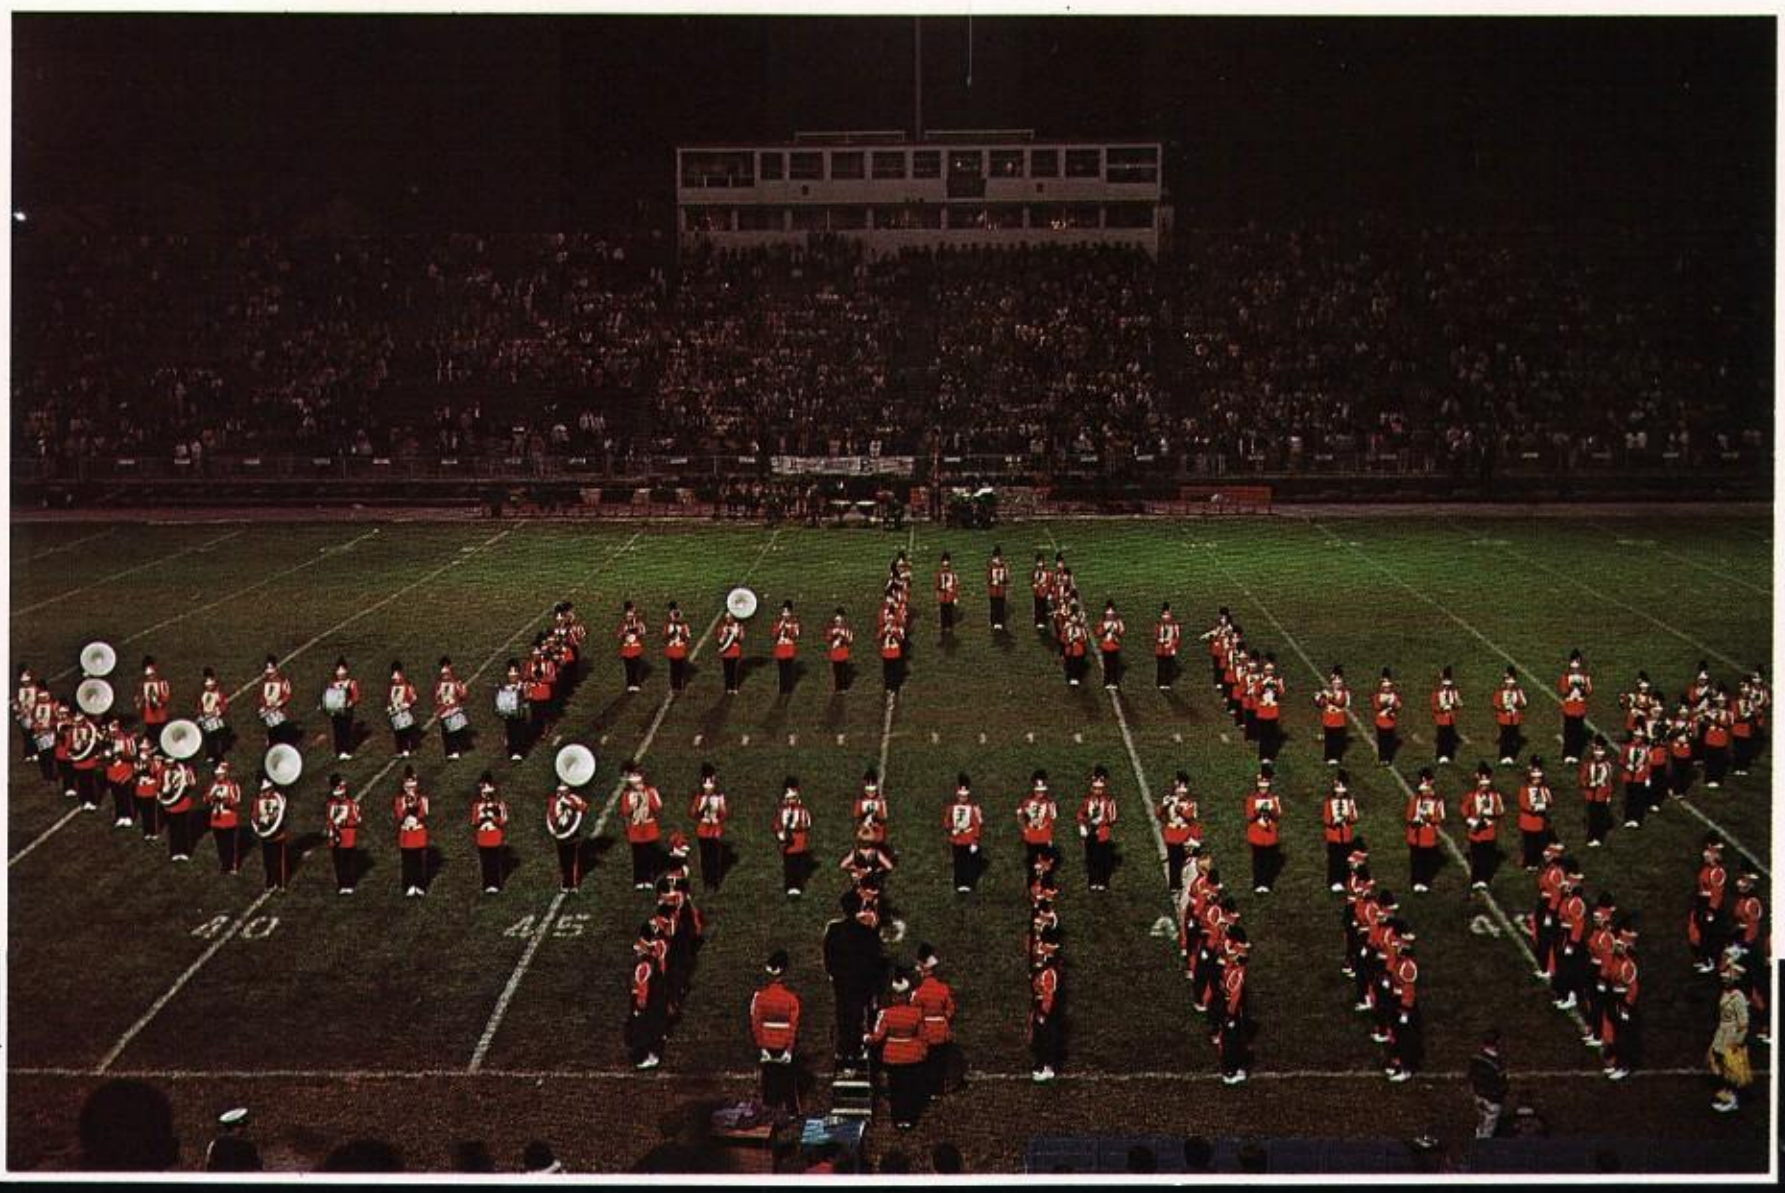
West offers many a chance to fulfill the most important requirement of education—that of realizing our place in the world.



"Growing up" is a personal experience . . .

personal because each chance to try something new or perfect something old will forever leave its mark, a mark that will be a little different for each of us.

Student monitors are silhouetted in West's silent corridors.



Hours of practice account for feeling of pride in hearts that beat to marching feet.

Senior dramatists make their debut in West's production of "The Mouse That Roared."

Fairmont West offers a treasury of opportunity to each of her students—to each his own chance to improve his talents, to pursue his interests, whether they be in music, art, drama, service, or social activity. By devoting his best efforts, his hard work and sacrifices, a student finds in this treasury the richest of experiences in learning and living.

Radiant with regal honors are Homecoming Queen, Karen Moore, and her court: Barbara Schellhase, Jill Irvin, Ann Cushwa, Judy Fenton, and Joan Tanner.

STUDENT LIFE

Karen Moore's smile radiates royalty

Dragons' first victory of the season makes the 1964 homecoming a complete success.

Outstanding performance by the Band and Rhythmettes is climaxed with the crowning of Queen, Karen Moore. Band members salute "Her Majesty" and court with the song "Tonight" as the float whirls the royalty off the field.

Familiar faces once again dot the stands, ranging from recent graduates to alumni of 1947. Alumni agree no matter how long away from their alma mater, its traditions of unity never fades from their hearts.

Following the game, the Student Council sponsored the dance entitled "Westward Ho!". It was truly a fun-filled finale to a memorable evening.

1964 Homecoming Queen candidates, Joan Tanner, Barb Shellhase, Jill Irvin, Karen Moore, Judy Fenton, and Ann Cushwa are filled with anxieties as they await half-time ceremonies.

Victory makes gala homecoming complete

All are sincerely pleased as a deserving queen is named.

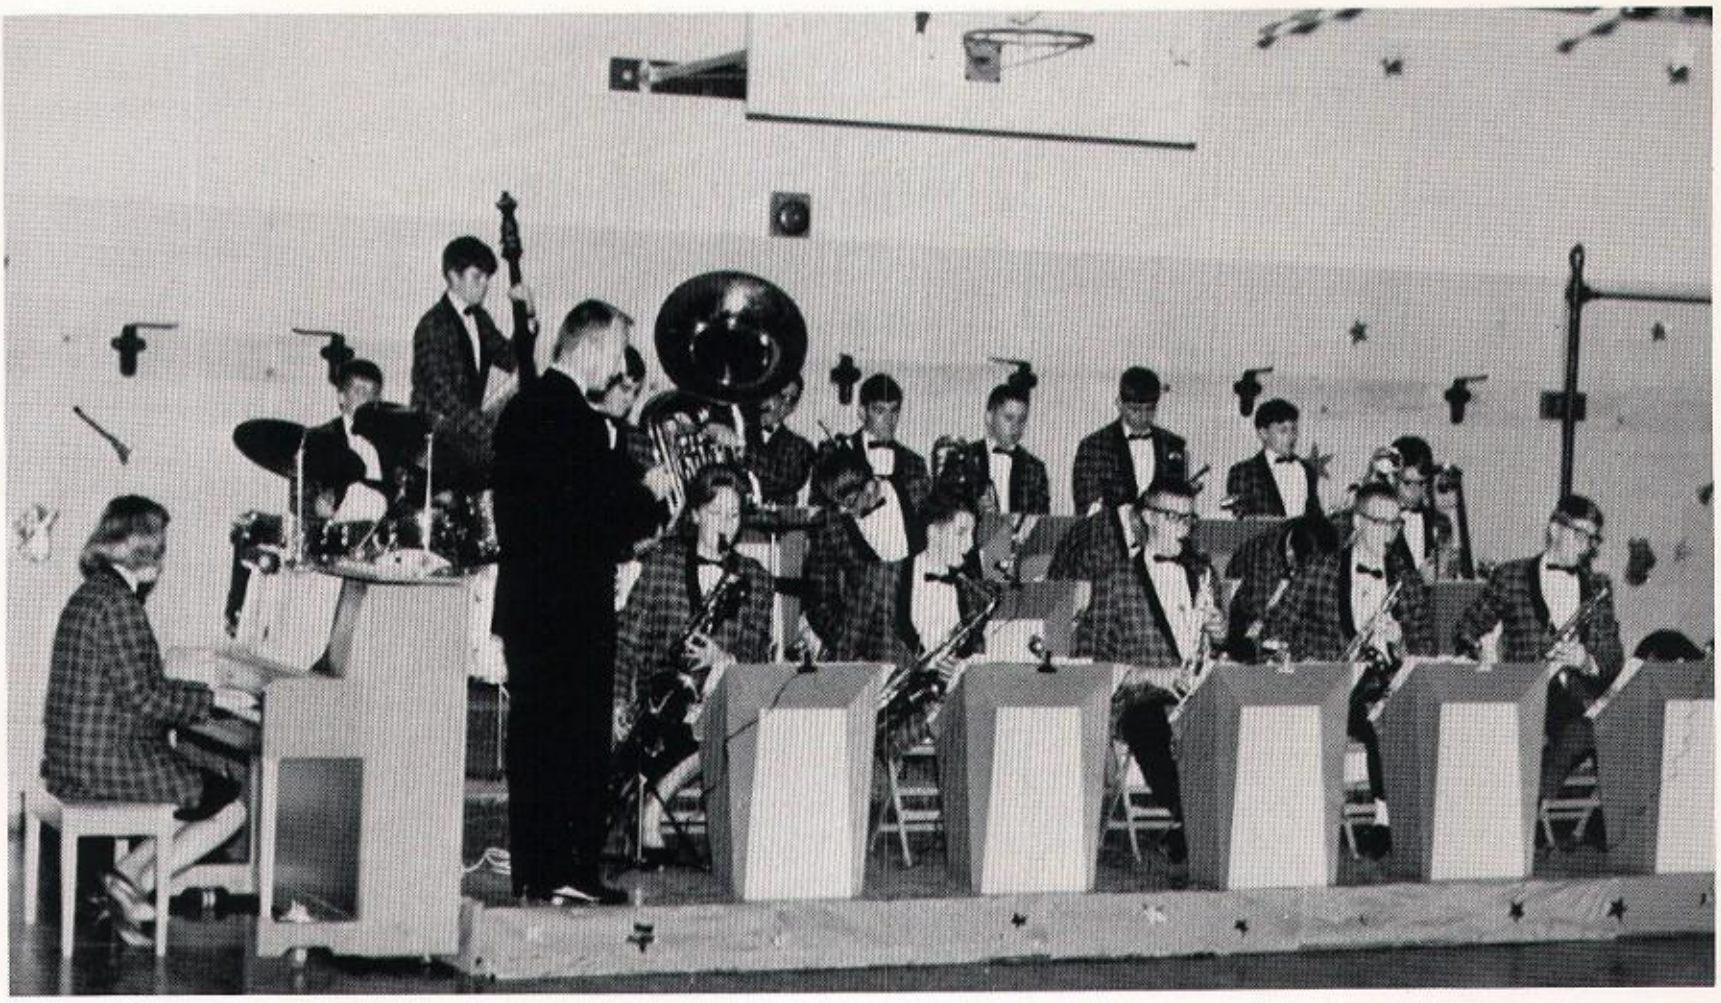
Student Council president Tom Bohardt amuses all as final moment approaches.

All look anxiously for half-time ceremonies to commence.

Beauty and Dragon spirit welcome alumni

Class of '47 attests to statement that at Fairmont "the spirit lingers on."

Larry Wick, Jim Serianni, Dick Parsons, Jeff Hinkley, Mike Eckhart, and Jim Todd lead their respective clubs in the campaign for homecoming queen.



Fairmont West's own Jazz Band, Continentals, under direction of Mr. Wesley Haines, sway dancers to their enticing rhythm.

"My Blue Heaven" swings with Continentals

Stars, angels, and moon beams made an enchanted night for G.A.A. members. Slow dreamy music added to the heavenly atmosphere which pervaded each couple's evening. Decorations were cleverly done by a committee headed by Joan Tanner. Many nights were occupied with energetic girls cutting out stars, notes, and angels, or drawing large murals of "cloud nine" and Gabriel blowing his horn. Warm glow of success filled each hard-working girl's heart as she danced with her chosen date to the strains of the Continentals.

Pat Humphreys and Dennis Kyte take break to find their names among golden notes.

G.A.A. officer, Sarah Wagner, and her date, Mike Waggoner, wait to receive couples to "My Blue Heaven."

Spectacular and ingenious drills by the Fairmont West Marching Band and Rhythmette Corps highlighted the halftime ceremonies during each football game. Directed by Mr. David Finkham the band inspired the student body to new heights of school spirit. Monja McAfee, in her first year as the adviser of the rhythmettes corps, was an invaluable service to the officers and the girls.

At each football game, the snappy blow of the whistle began the colorful arrangements which held the attention of all the spectators. Fairmont West is very proud of its Band and Rhythmettes and rightfully should be. Their practice brought many intangible rewards to both themselves and the school. Stebbins High School was the site of the annual United States Twirling Association drill team competition. West's Rhythmette Corps captured first place in another excellent showing.

Besides excellent concert performances, the one hundred members of the band participate in district and state contests as well as making guest appearances.

Consisting of a full family of woodwind, brass, and percussion instruments, the symphonic band plays selections ranging from classical to contemporary works.

Annually, band members submit original compositions in competition for a scholarship up to two hundred dollars which is donated by the parents.

Quality and tone are something to be envied, as each year these vocal groups continue to achieve superior ratings in state competition.

Under the superb direction of Mr. Gene Seeberger, the choruses present a series of concerts. Highlight of the year's activities culminates in Fairmont West's "Better-than-Broadway" spring musical. Time, effort, and patience are expended to attain the highest plateau of harmony.

November was highlighted by the presentation of the Senior class Play, "The Mouse that Roared." Setting of the play was the small duchy of Grand Fenwick located in the French Alps. Glenn Ekey did a fine job in the male lead of Tully Bascomb as did Sandy Harding and Linda Williams in the female lead of Queen Glorianna.

Grand Fenwick, having financial difficulties because California was fraudulently stealing their wine market, decided to declare war on the United States and intentionally lose in order to be rehabilitated by their conquerors.

Through a series of comical mistakes fifteen Fenwick soldiers managed to subdue New York City and capture the most powerful weapon in the world, the Q-bomb. With this power as bargaining, Grand Fenwick regained its financial standing and Tully, because of his leadership, becomes Queen Glorianna's consort.

Many weeks of practice by a crew of 67 people, under the excellent direction of Miss Leah Funk, were rewarded by outstanding performances.

Combined talents of the chorus and orchestra presented the smashing Broadway musical, The Sound of Music, to five capacity-filled audiences. Written by experts Rodgers and Hammerstein, the setting is in Nonnberg Abbey in Austria in 1938.

Busy nuns are going about their daily tasks while postulant Maria prepares to become temporary governess to children of Captain von Trapp. Captain has become a martinet since the death of his wife and his children are little more than tiny machines. Maria teaches them to sing and enjoy life.

Captain and Maria discover they are in love and are married in the Abbey. When they return to Trapp Villa, they find Nazis have invaded Austria.

Captain is summoned into Nazi service, and Maria gains time for him by agreeing the whole family will sing in a music festival at concert hall. Maria leads her family into their exit song and one by one they disappear. They hide in the gardens of the Abbey as soldiers search for them, and finally make their way to freedom as nuns wish them Godspeed.

Under direction of Mr. Gene Seeberger, Mr. Don Detrick, Mr. Leland Hall, and student directors, Polly Price and Mary Jo Rembold, the sensational musical was an overwhelming success.

Anticipation and excitement mounted with the selection of the cast for the musical, Sound of Music. Cynthia Jones, a three-year chorus student, was a natural selection for the outstanding character role of Maria. Cindy portrayed the "Mary Martin" role with the charm and dignity of a Broadway professional in her vocal renditions of "My Favorite Things," "Do-Re-Me," "The Lonely Goatherd," "Farewell," and "Sound of Music."

Long after the final curtain, the strains of these tunes will resound in the halls of Fairmont West.

Looking forward to the last day of school before Christmas vacation presented pleasurable anticipation for members of the student body. Seniors, sparkling with enthusiasm and excitement, transformed the West Gymnasium into a winter wonderland complete with snowflakes and sleigh for the Senior Dance, "Sleighride."

Dancing to the refrains of the New Blues Messengers achieved the atmosphere of a perfect evening, but the true joy was shown by each student's adding to the Christmas spirit. Glistening lights on the traditional Christmas tree reflected the shimmering presents filled with toys for the less privileged children of the area.

Glen Ekey's "sleight of hand" provided the diversion for the evening's intermission as many curious students were intrigued with the dexterity of Fairmont West's own magician.

Leaving the dance filled with the idea of sharing the true Christmas spirit endowed the students with a wonderful beginning for the holiday season.

Early-season losses could not dampen the sky-high spirit of the 1964 Fairmont West football team. Coach Hildreth was justified in saying that spirit was the best he had seen in five years. Facing five teams which had been, at one time or another, represented in the state's Top Ten ratings, West failed to win a game until midseason.

Then things began to click; the key was jolting line play, unseen before homecoming. First, the Dragon passing attack began to work, and, as the holes started to open, the ground game also picked up. After tasting victory for the first time at homecoming, the squad pledged itself to winning the schedule's remaining four games. It took one of the most stunning about-faces in Fairmont grid history, but the team climbed from the cellar of the new Western Ohio League to second place. Twice the offense produced as many points in two quarters as had been scored in the first five games, and the defensive team allowed only one touchdown while shutting out three of the last five opponents in attaining the .500 goal that had once looked so far away.

Strong finish gives Dragons 5-5 record;

WEST DROPS OPENER TO MIDDLETOWN

Traveling to Middletown to open the season, the Dragons ran into a very stubborn Middie squad. Soon after the opening kickoff, Middletown marched down the field to chalk up their first score. West retaliated with a sixty-nine yard drive but failed to score when an off-tackle play fell inches short of a first down at the seventeen. Solid defense shut Middletown out through the second quarter, but the home team was equally tough. The half-time score was 6-0, Middletown.

Two touchdown passes, one a short aerial that turned into a 61-yard play after nearly being snagged by two defenders, iced the game for the Middies in the third period. West continued to get streaks of good running from both halfbacks, but was unable to score. Tightening up, the Dragon defense stopped the Middies in the fourth quarter, but the damage was done and Middletown coasted to a 22 to 0 victory on the strength of a slashing ground game.

STRONG FINISH FAILS TO CATCH CHAMINADE

Strong second half play, particularly on defense, was not quite enough to bring the Dragons back after Chaminade held Fairmont to a paltry eleven yards for two quarters. Chaminade capitalized on a fumble at the 33 and engineered a long drive for touchdowns in each of the first two periods. West stopped a third Green drive at the one as the clock ran out at halftime.

Picking up where they had left off, the Dragon defensive platoon contained the Eagles easily through the second half. An erratic passing attack kept West from scoring until far into the final period when Marv Hill hit John Hart with a fourth-and-sixteen pass. Getting behind the defense, halfback Hart sprinted down the sidelines for a 60-yard touchdown, but Chaminade's lead was insurmountable with only two minutes to play. West was on the scoreboard, but could only watch the last minute melt away as the Eagles won this battle of rivals, 14-6.

With tacklers closing in, John Hart bulls for a little extra yardage.

Fullback Tom Bohardt (34) blasts for a good gain as Jeff Kernan (75) watches.

DRAGONS BATTLE BUT SPRINGFIELD SOUTH WINS

Facing one of Ohio's real gridiron giants, West played an excellent game against a big, fast Springfield South outfit. After allowing a short pass to break loose for a long, early South T. D., the purple and white dug in and virtually stopped Springfield cold for more than two quarters. West's only scoring threat ended when a penalty nullified a 33-yard pass to the three. Highlights included Steve Alexander's blocking of a Wildcat field goal attempt and Marv Hill's interception in the end zone to kill a Springfield drive.

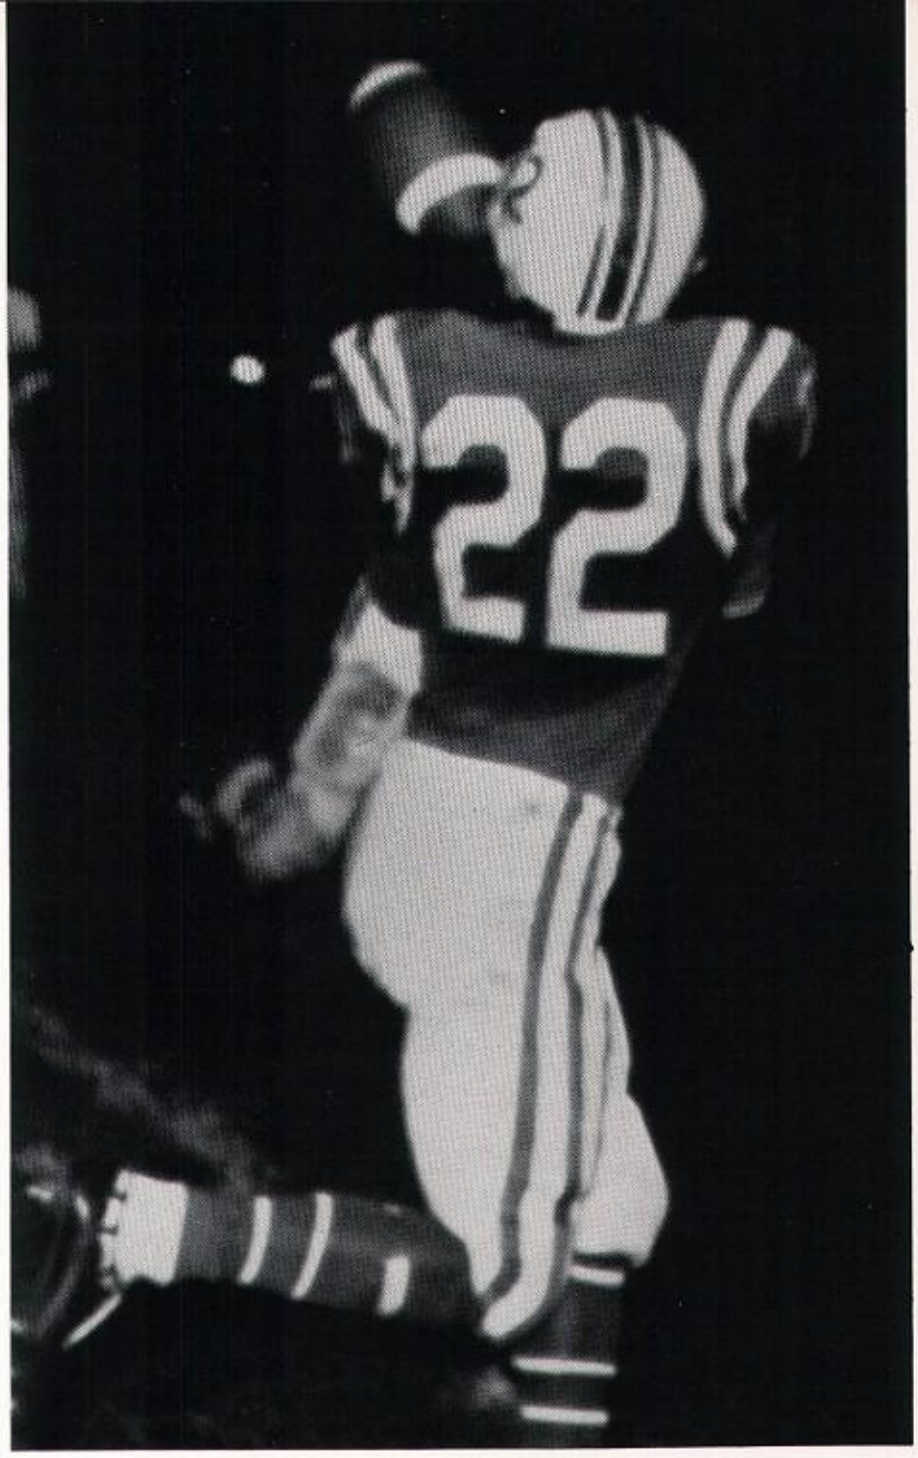
South's Wildcats controlled the ball for all but four minutes of the third quarter, but a hard-hitting defense kept them in check. With West tiring in the final period, Springfield racked up two touchdowns to win 22 to 0. Fairmont had proven to be much stiffer opposition than had been expected, handing South what Coach Hildreth termed "a physical beating."

Bob Skinner is in the clear after a completed sideline pass.

DRAGONS DROP FIRST IN WOL TO WAYNE

Fairmont West's first real show of offensive power was not enough as Wayne's rampaging Warriors ruined the Dragons' Western Ohio League debut. Strong passing was the key to West's two touchdowns as Marv Hill was on target to five receivers for 208 yards. Forced to come back after an eighty-yard run put the Warriors in front, the Dragons tied the game when Hill pitched to Skinner at the ten; the quarterback scored four plays later. Before the half ended, West was again knocking at the door, but two fullback power plays couldn't get the last yard, and Fairmont trailed 14-8 at the half.

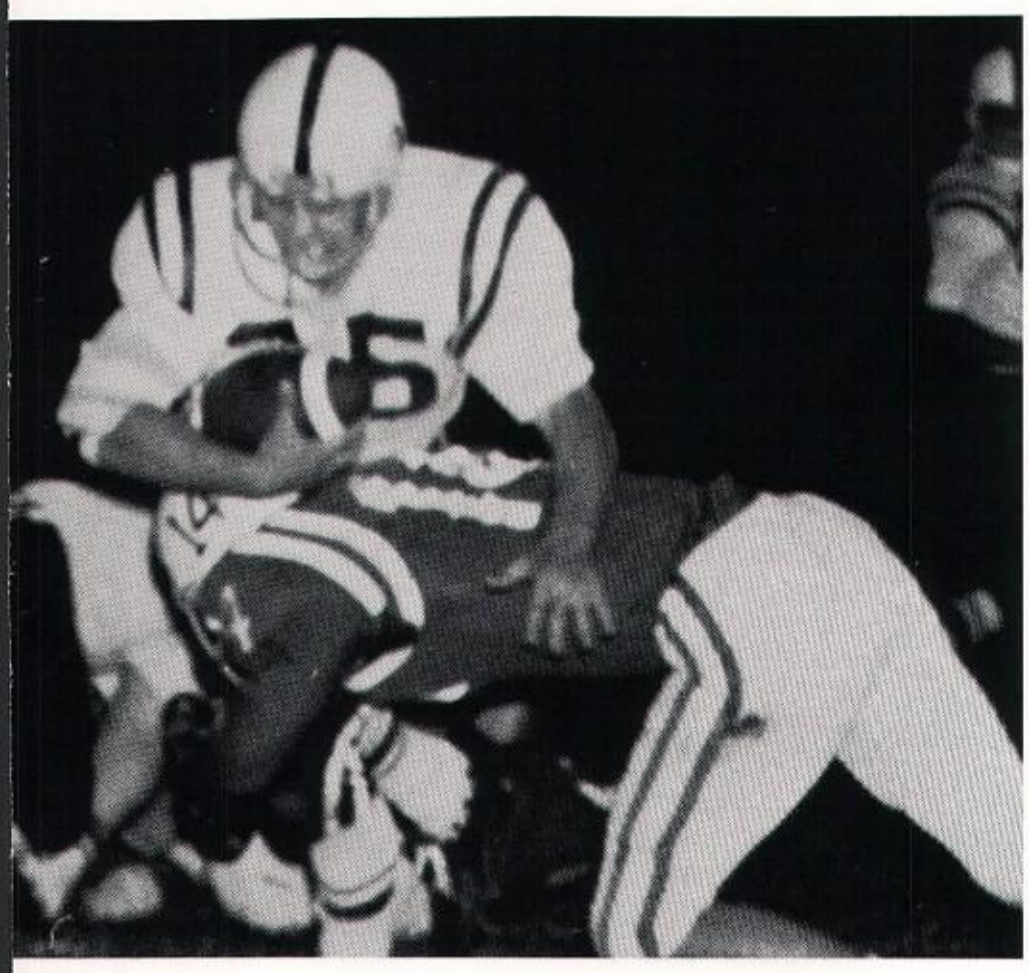
Second-half action saw West go into the driver's seat for the first time when passes to Withrow and Hart netted another touchdown to tie, and a third toss made it 16-14. Fourth-quarter play brought the axe down on Fairmont ambitions when a Warrior back scampered 95 yards on a punt return. Piling up 300 yards and gaining nearly twice as many first downs as Wayne, the Dragons were still unable to hang onto a slim lead, and lost the game, 20 to 16.



Hauling in a Hill pass, John Hart is off on a 20-yard touchdown jaunt against Wayne.

Dragons drop first five of tough schedule

Marv Hill's hard-hitting tackle is typical of a rugged Fairmont defense.



POWERFUL XENIA TOPS FAIRMONT WEST

Facing one of the top WOL powers, West had a tough time as Xenia's Buccanneers took advantage of good breaks to down the Dragons. Recovering a fumble, Xenia had to drive only thirty-four yards for their first T. D. A pass interception at the eighteen accounted for another X-town score.

Fumbling again proved costly in the third period when Xenia came up with the ball fifty-five yards from the goal line. Lightning struck in one play as a Buccaneer took a pass and simply outran the defense to score. Dragon defense was much tougher than the lopsided score indicated as Bob Skinner came up with a lunging interception of a long pass and other backs knocked down Xenia passes to nearly stop a scoring thrust. West gave up no sustained drives, but could do nothing against the burly Buc line, and dropped number five, 20 to 0.

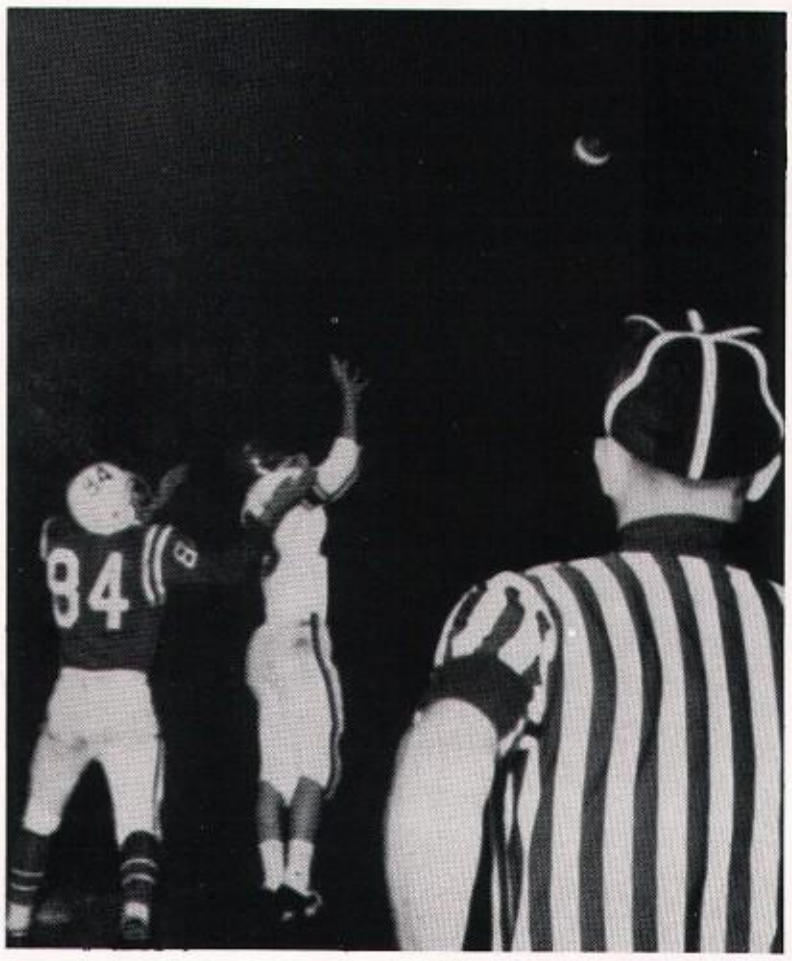
HOMECOMING: FAIRMONT 14; BEAVERCREEK 0!

Amid the colorful pageantry of Homecoming, the Dragons put together an impenetrable defense and a steady offense to take win number one, over Beavercreek's Beavers.

West nailed its first tally when Steve Alexander picked off a Beavercreek pass at the twenty-five. Moments later, Marv Hill found Bob Withrow wide open in the end zone for a touchdown. Key pass completions to Sharritt and Andrews sparked a 90-yard drive to paydirt, West's longest sustained drive of the season.

Much improved line work made the Dragon ground game click as West pushed the pigskin to the one and fullback Alexander plunged over.

Continued rugged defense in the second half made the lead stand up as West was often deep in Beaver territory but did not score, and Fairmont shut out Beavercreek with a classy 14 to 0 performance.



Jim Todd (84) waits to pull in a long, arching pass.

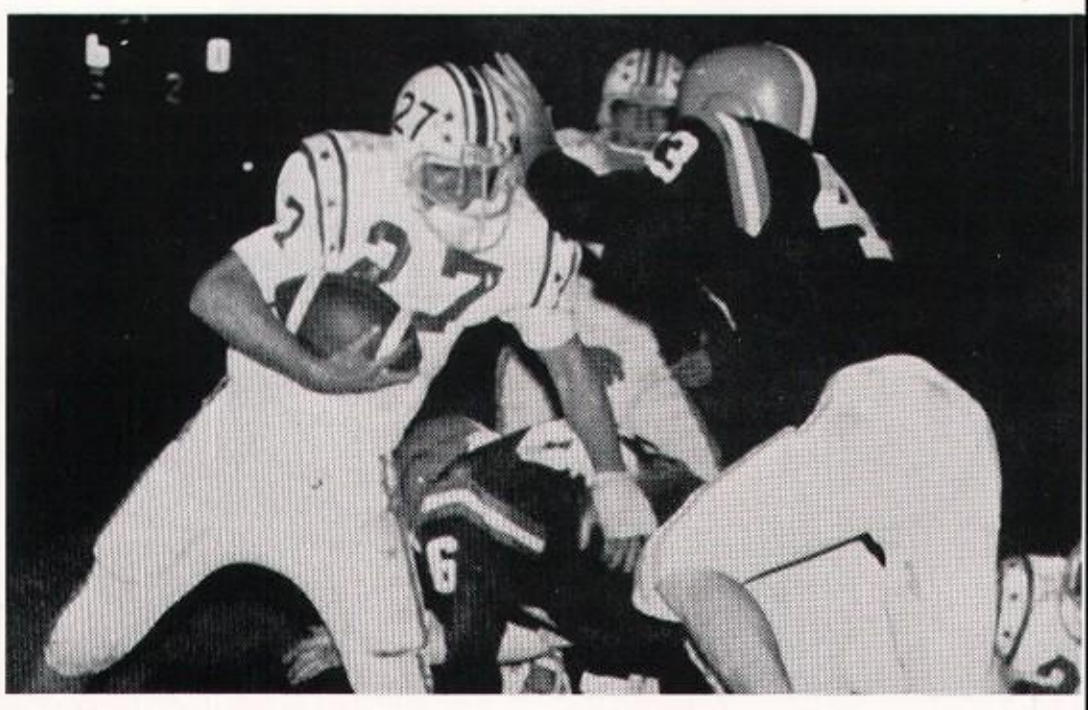
DRAGONS OVERWHELM STEBBINS

Dads' Night proved to be a big one for Fairmont West football as the Dragons completely dominated the Stebbins' Indians to take over second place in the WOL.

Pouncing on a fumble on the opening kick-off, John Hart set up West's first quick touchdown. Bob Withrow grabbed a deflected pass in the end zone for score number one, and added another when he caught a 33-yarder from Hill in the second quarter.

After a holding penalty nullified another Dragon tally, the Hill-to-Withrow combination again proved deadly as the slippery end eluded three defenders to pave the way for Tom Sharritt's three-yard touchdown burst.

Late in the game, Tom Madliger snared a Stebbins pass and raced 47 yards to score. With sophomore fullback Bob Krynzel providing most of the power, Fairmont drove for another fourth-quarter touchdown. Strong defense, which completely bottled up Stebbins' explosive backfield, and West's best offensive performance, highlighted by Marv Hill's 9-for-14 passing exhibition, led to a memorable 34 to 0 win.



Sliding off a tackler, Steve Alexander contributes yardage to a strong running game.

FOURTH QUARTER COMEBACK BEATS FAIRBORN

Dragons were tough in the clutches and came on late to knock off Fairborn. Fairborn's early offensive thrusts kept the pressure on West's defense, but a timely penalty, an interception, and an aggressive line held the Flyers twice inside the fifteen before a third drive broke through to make it 7-0, Fairborn.

Power running by Madliger and Alexander accounted for seventy-one yards on a 77-yard drive before Madliger galloped seven yards to score. West's extra-point try fizzled and the Dragons still trailed, 7-6.

Late in the last period, West got the ball, but two attempted-pass plays lost eight yards before Bob Skinner got under a 53-yard bomb and was collared only one stride from the goal line, setting up a Tom Sharritt T. D. run. Fairborn stormed back to the twenty, but West's third key interception stopped the drive to seal a 14-7 Dragon victory.

All-District pass-catcher Bob Withrow scores the first of his two touchdowns against Stebbins.

DRAGONS TRIUMPH IN FIRST EAST-WEST CLASH

One of the biggest nights in the history of Fairmont football was November 7, 1964, when the two Fairmonts initiated a gridiron rivalry often compared to the Steele-Stivers battles of another day.

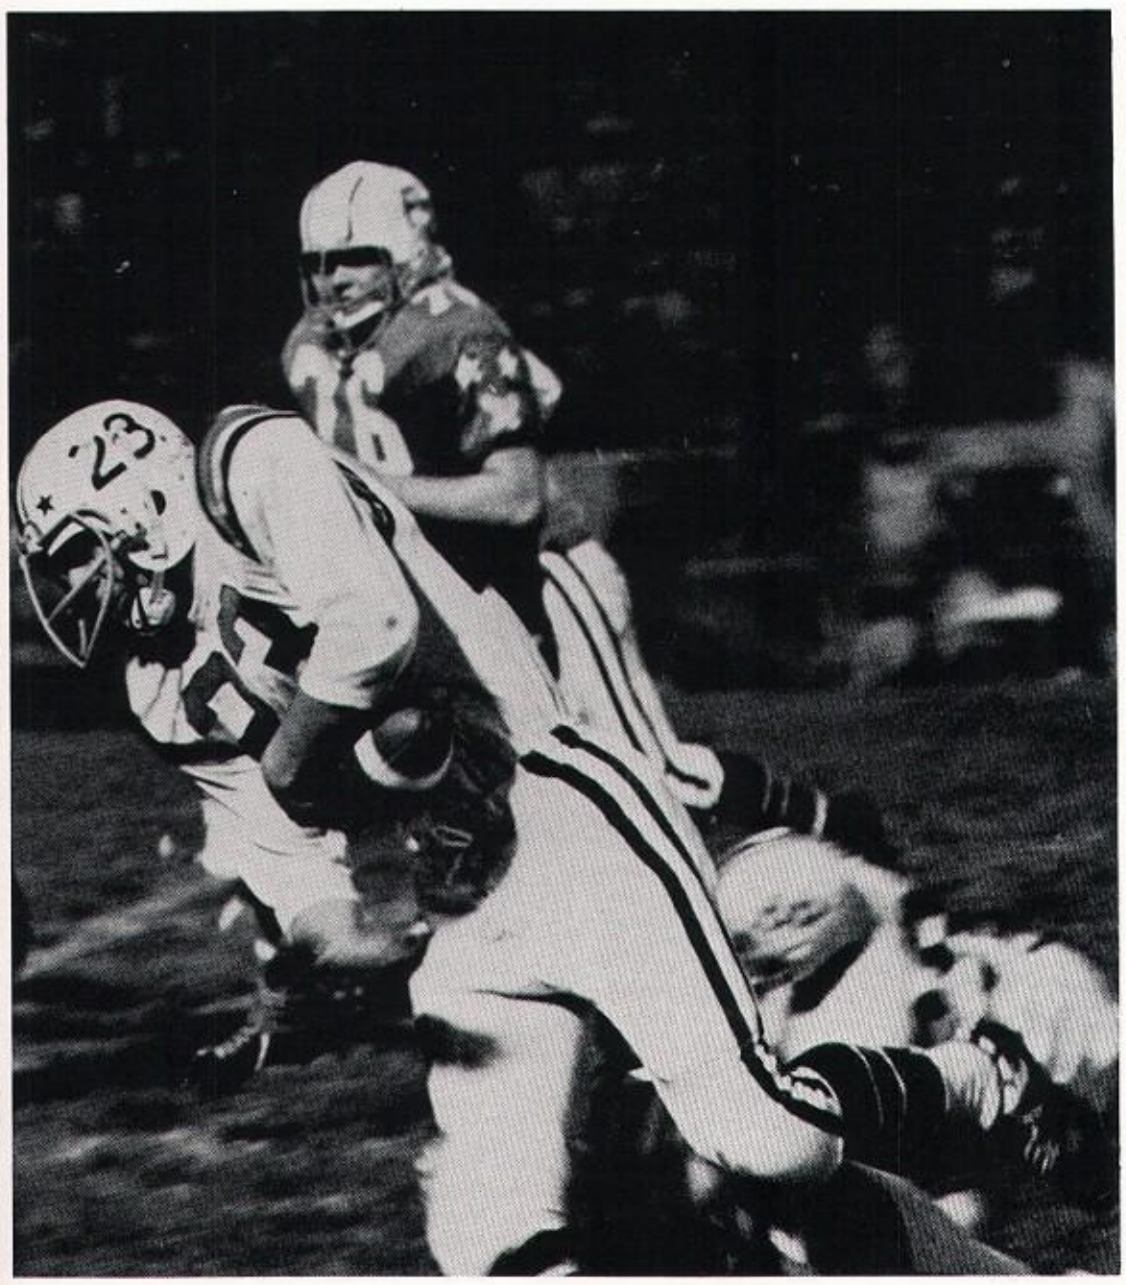
West proved superior to the newer school by an impressive score as Bob Withrow continued his classy pass-catching. Hill hit Withrow in the end zone twice after the rangy end stretched to pull in the game's first T. D. on an Alexander pass. Alex added West's other tally on a two-yard plunge after Bob Skinner leaped high to pick off a Falcon toss, and literally flew 55 yards with the stolen pass. All of this scoring was packed into the first half.

Neither team scored in the last two periods as the game settled into a bruising defensive struggle. Guard, Mike Denka, on offense, and tackle Jeff, "The Demon" Jacobs, recently switched from offense to defense, led rugged Dragon lines that more than held their own against East's sizeable squad. Looking very sharp, the defensive platoon forced East's Hogan to drop back into a shotgun formation to pass, and held the shifty quarterback to two completions. Time ran out on the Falcons' only drive at halftime, and a near-capacity crowd at U. D. watched the Dragons take the edge in this great rivalry, 26 to 0.

Smashing the East line, Steve Alexander drives for a score.

Five in a row, win over East cap season

Hard-running Tom Sharritt breaks loose for a long gainer.



FIFTH STRAIGHT WIN CLOSES SEASON AGAINST PANTHERS

Catching fire in the second half, the Dragons overcame the Springfield North Panthers. Settling into a defensive struggle, neither team scored before intermission. North blocked a punt to set up a third-quarter field goal, but Fairmont pulled ahead on a scoring drive; Marv Hill's quarterback sneak scored after Alexander was thrown back at the one.

Hart romped for another T.D. on a 63-yard pass, West's longest play of the season. Hill ran for both extra points to make the final score 16-3.

Dan McGilvery (leading) and Lee Hildebrandt lead as they begin final leg of their run.

Sheer determination and hard work to bring about steady improvement led to a highly successful season for Coach Bateson and his cross country runners in 1964. With only two returning lettermen, the distance-men got strong performances from underclassmen as well as seniors to win four of six meets, and were the first Dragon men's athletic team to defeat Fairmont East. Lee Hildebrandt was first in each of Fairmont's first four meets.

Although failing to win a major meet, the runners placed respectably every time they ran, (Dragons finished ahead of at least four-fifths of their opponents in all major meets), and the record included several close seconds. West finished second to Xenia at the Chaminade Invitational. Belmont, fourth in the state, bettered West at Fairview; the Dragons came within seven points of the first Western Ohio League championship, and missed the District's number one spot by only five points.

Xenia captured the WOL. trophy in spite of a McGilvery-Hildebrandt sweep of the first two spots and Hinkley's eighth-place finish. West came within a breath of upsetting Belmont's Bisons at the District, crushing the area's other Class A powers —Xenia (who had beaten Fairmont no less than three times during the season) and Dunbar—to earn a crack at the State crown. Hildebrandt (3rd—9:51), Hinkley (13th—10:14), Ken Owen (16th—10:22), and Mike Galloway (17th—10:23) all turned in their best times of the season. Dan McGilvery took fifth place with a classy 9:59 clocking.

Making a good showing at Columbus, Fairmont West ranked among Ohio's top ten in cross country for the third consecutive year. McGilvery set the pace for the Dragons and finished 17th; Hildebrandt was 24th; Galloway, 82nd; Owen, 90th; and Jeff Hinkley gamely lasted out the two miles with a pulled muscle to come in 117th.

Fall banquet honors successful athletes

Athletes, coaches, and cheerleaders were spotlighted at Fairmont West's annual fall sports banquet. Features of the evening were a fine meal and an awards program in which nine cross country runners and thirty-four footballers received Varsity F's.

Coach Bateson presented Lee Hildebrandt his Most Valuable award, thus making Lee the honorary captain of the 1964 cross country team; Dan McGilvery was named as Most Improved.

Passing out one more than the normal allotment of seven football trophies, Mr. Hildreth honored Bob Skinner (Best Defensive Back), Tom Sharritt (Most Improved), Steve Alexander (Most Coachable), Marv Hill (Best Offensive Back), John Hart (Best Defensive Lineman), Bob Withrow (Best Offensive Lineman), and Jim Todd, who received the coveted Most Spirited award. Saying that the recipient of the eighth award had been seriously considered for five of the other seven trophies, the football coach gave Jeff Jacobs a special trophy inscribed "110% Effort." Dragon gridders Bob Skinner, Jim Todd, Bob Withrow, and Joe Fiedler were recognized for being selected to the All-Western Ohio League squad. Mr. Alfred Bolender accepted cross country's second-place trophy from the District meet, and a memorable evening was climaxed with the announcement that juniors Joe Fiedler, Tom Madliger, and Rick Andrews had been named to captain the 1965 football team.

Size, depth characterize 15-4 roundballers

Basketball '64 got off to a rousing start as the Dragons made a spectacular comeback after being down by ten points with three minutes to play to dump the Lima Spartans. Senior Tom McCormick showed that the improvement which had gained the captainship of the varsity after two years on West's reserve squad was not a myth; his 26 points and 15 rebounds were the backbone of an opening game win, although it was the foul shooting, under pressure, of Doug Maxwell and Bob Viets that decided the 75-72 battle.

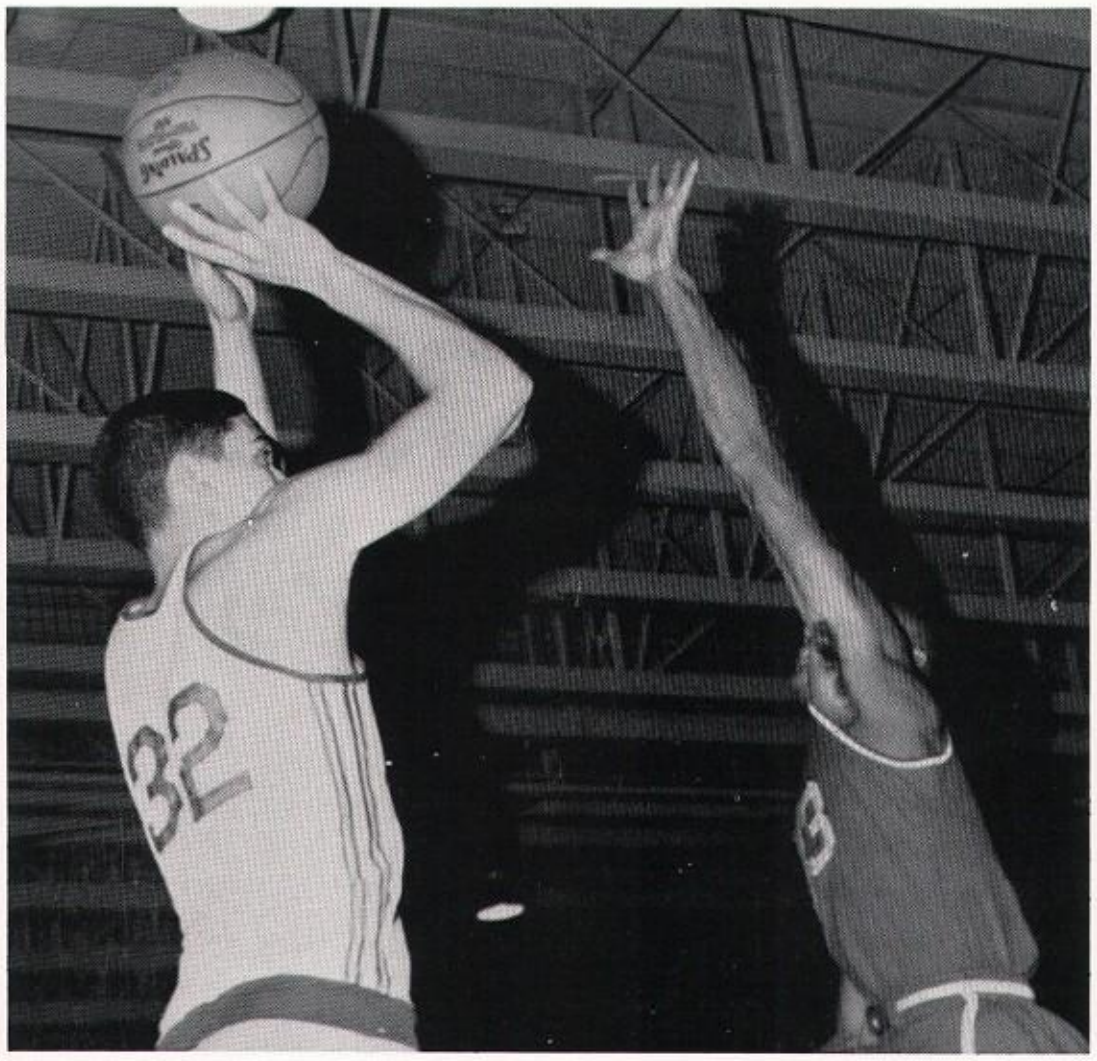
Wilbur Wright's Pilots gave the Dragons quite a scare before West ran up 32 points in the third quarter to make up a half-time deficit and go on to a rout. Hot shooting (seven-for-seven) by Bob Viets in the second half and Doug Maxwell's 17-point total led the way to an 81-61 victory.

Fairmont pulled into an early lead against Belmont and continued to stretch it as the game progressed. Another showing of outstanding bench strength and a rash of Bison fouls which allowed the Dragons to cash in on 14 of 18 free throws in the final period contributed to a 73-56 win, snapping the State Champions' 18-game win string.

West and Chaminade provided a noisy crowd with a typical nip-and-tuck struggle between those long-time rivals. Out-rebounded and shooting mediocrely from the charity stripe, the Dragons managed to stay in the contest all the way with sparks of aggressive defense and heads-up play that cut the Eagles' eight-point lead to three before time ran out on a 49-52 defeat.

Catching three defenders flat-footed, Doug Maxwell (34) throws in another basket.

Opposite: Tom McCormick and Doug Maxwell (34) take a rebound away from Eagle Gary Arthur (51).



Dave Helm connects from his favorite spot in the corner.

Oxford-Talawanda was no match for the Dragons as West hit 32 of 43 foul shots, including 13-for-14 by Doug Maxwell. Highlight of the game was the defensive play of 5-foot-7 guard Pete Thompson who once intercepted three consecutive passes and drove the Braves nearly to distraction in the 78-61 win.

Hamilton Garfield used speed and good shooting to upend Fairmont. Four Dragons scored in double figures, but it wasn't enough as Garfield's potent offense prevailed, 82-73.

First-round action in the sixth annual Kettering Holiday Tourney saw Wilmington fall to the Dragons. West was hurt by 15 turnovers and connected on only 29% from the floor, but Doug Maxwell's 26 counters carried Fairmont into the championship game after Oakwood squeaked past Akron Central.

Hitting about half of their shots the next night, the West cagers promptly took a twenty-point lead against the tournament's defending champs and proceeded to leave the Lumberjacks far behind. Aggressive rebounding, and hot outside shooting by Mark Donahue, who shared scoring honors with Tom McCormick at 20, were key factors in bringing the first place trophy back home, 89-66. Akron nosed out Wilmington's Hurricanes for the number three spot.

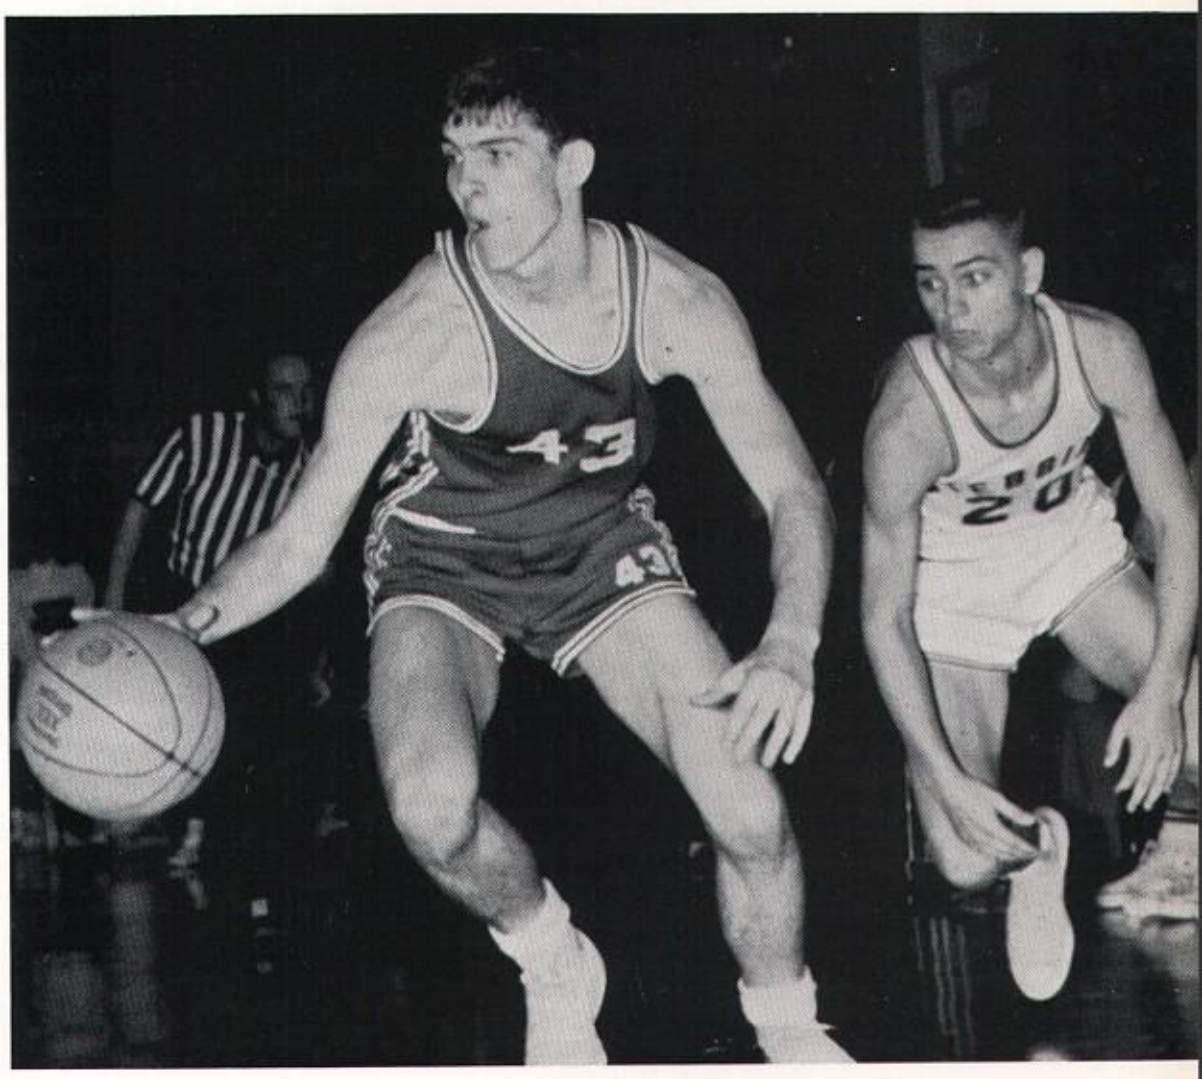
W.O.L. race as Bucs, Beavers, Indians fall

Opening the league season with her three toughest foes, Fairmont West got off to a good start in WOL competition with a win over a former MVL rival. Xenia came off second best after the Dragons blew a 19-point lead; Coach Stuckey credited Pete Thompson with pulling West together to hang onto a 68-59 triumph.

Fouls forced two Dragon starters out of action for a quarter, and West suffered a fourth-period collapse, but Maxwell (28 points) continued his scoring spree and Fairmont walked off with a 71-67 win against the Beavercreek Beavers.

Billed as the probable WOL title tilt, the West-Stebbins game lived up to expectations. Never ahead until the final minute, Fairmont trailed by six with 1:39 to go, but closed the gap quickly. Tom McCormick's reverse lay-up tied the score, and Pete Thompson hit both ends of a one-and-one with his underhanded free throw to give the Dragons a two-point victory margin.



Bob Withrow, whose 17 points kept West in the Stebbins game, dribbles around the Indians' Tom Ralston.

Defensive standout Pete Thompson contributes to the offense with a jumper.

Springfield South was the scene of a similar clif hanger. Trailing by five after three quarters, Wes needed 28 points in the last quarter to catch the Wild cats, but came through to chalk up a 69-67 win.

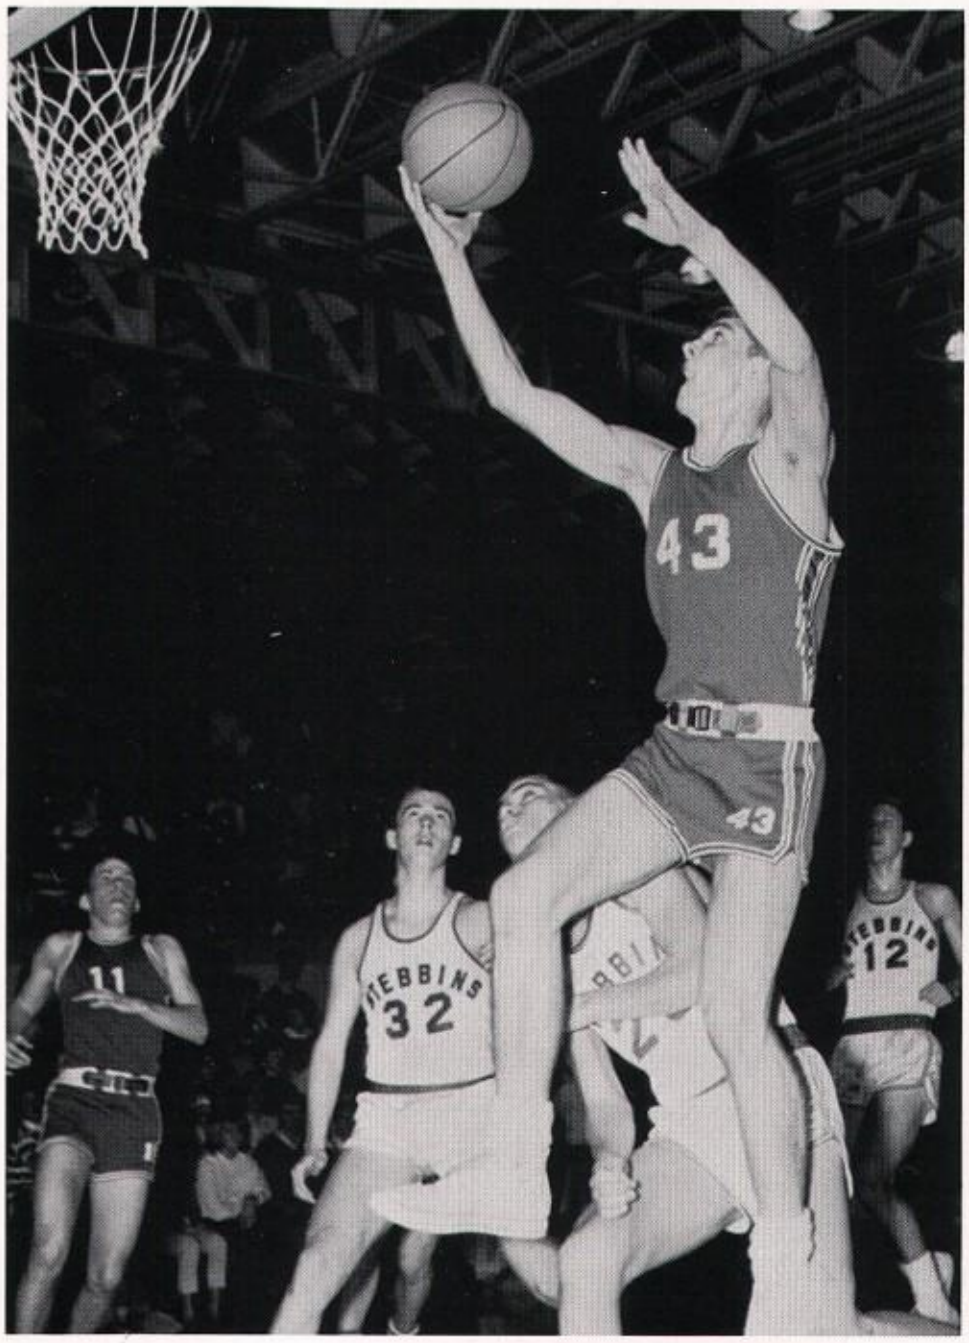
Fairmont's fourth league game brought West u against Wayne. McCormick and Maxwell both score 20 on the same night for the first time and West wa never in serious trouble, downing the Warriors 82-68.

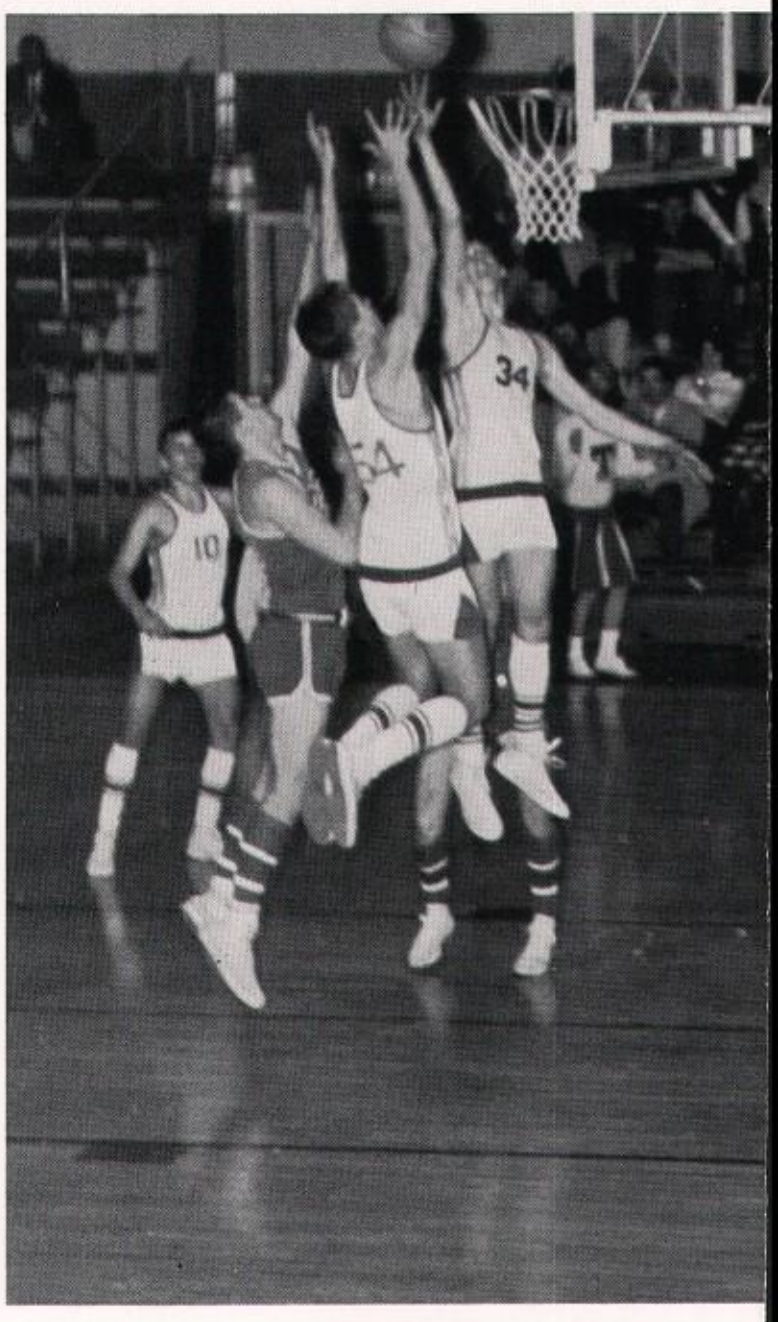
Meeting Fairmont East for the first time, the Dragon proved their superiority beyond doubt. Maxwell an McCormick again carried the bulk of the scoring loa as they drilled the Falcon defense for 47 points. Wes outscored Fairmont East 23 points to one for a stretc and led 48-18 at intermission. Every member of the var sity got into the 74-46 drubbing at U. D. Fieldhouse.

"M and M" had a field day at the expense o Springfield North as West clinched a share of the WO title. Doug Maxwell did everything but kick a field goa in the Dragons' sixth consecutive league win; he smashe a school record with 39 points. Tom McCormick riddle the defense for 36, also eclipsing Wig Baumann's mar in 1962. Ninety-three also surpassed the regulation gam team high as the Panthers took a 20-point trouncing.

West tops in W.O.L.

Bob Withrow's smooth, classic layup is good for two points.



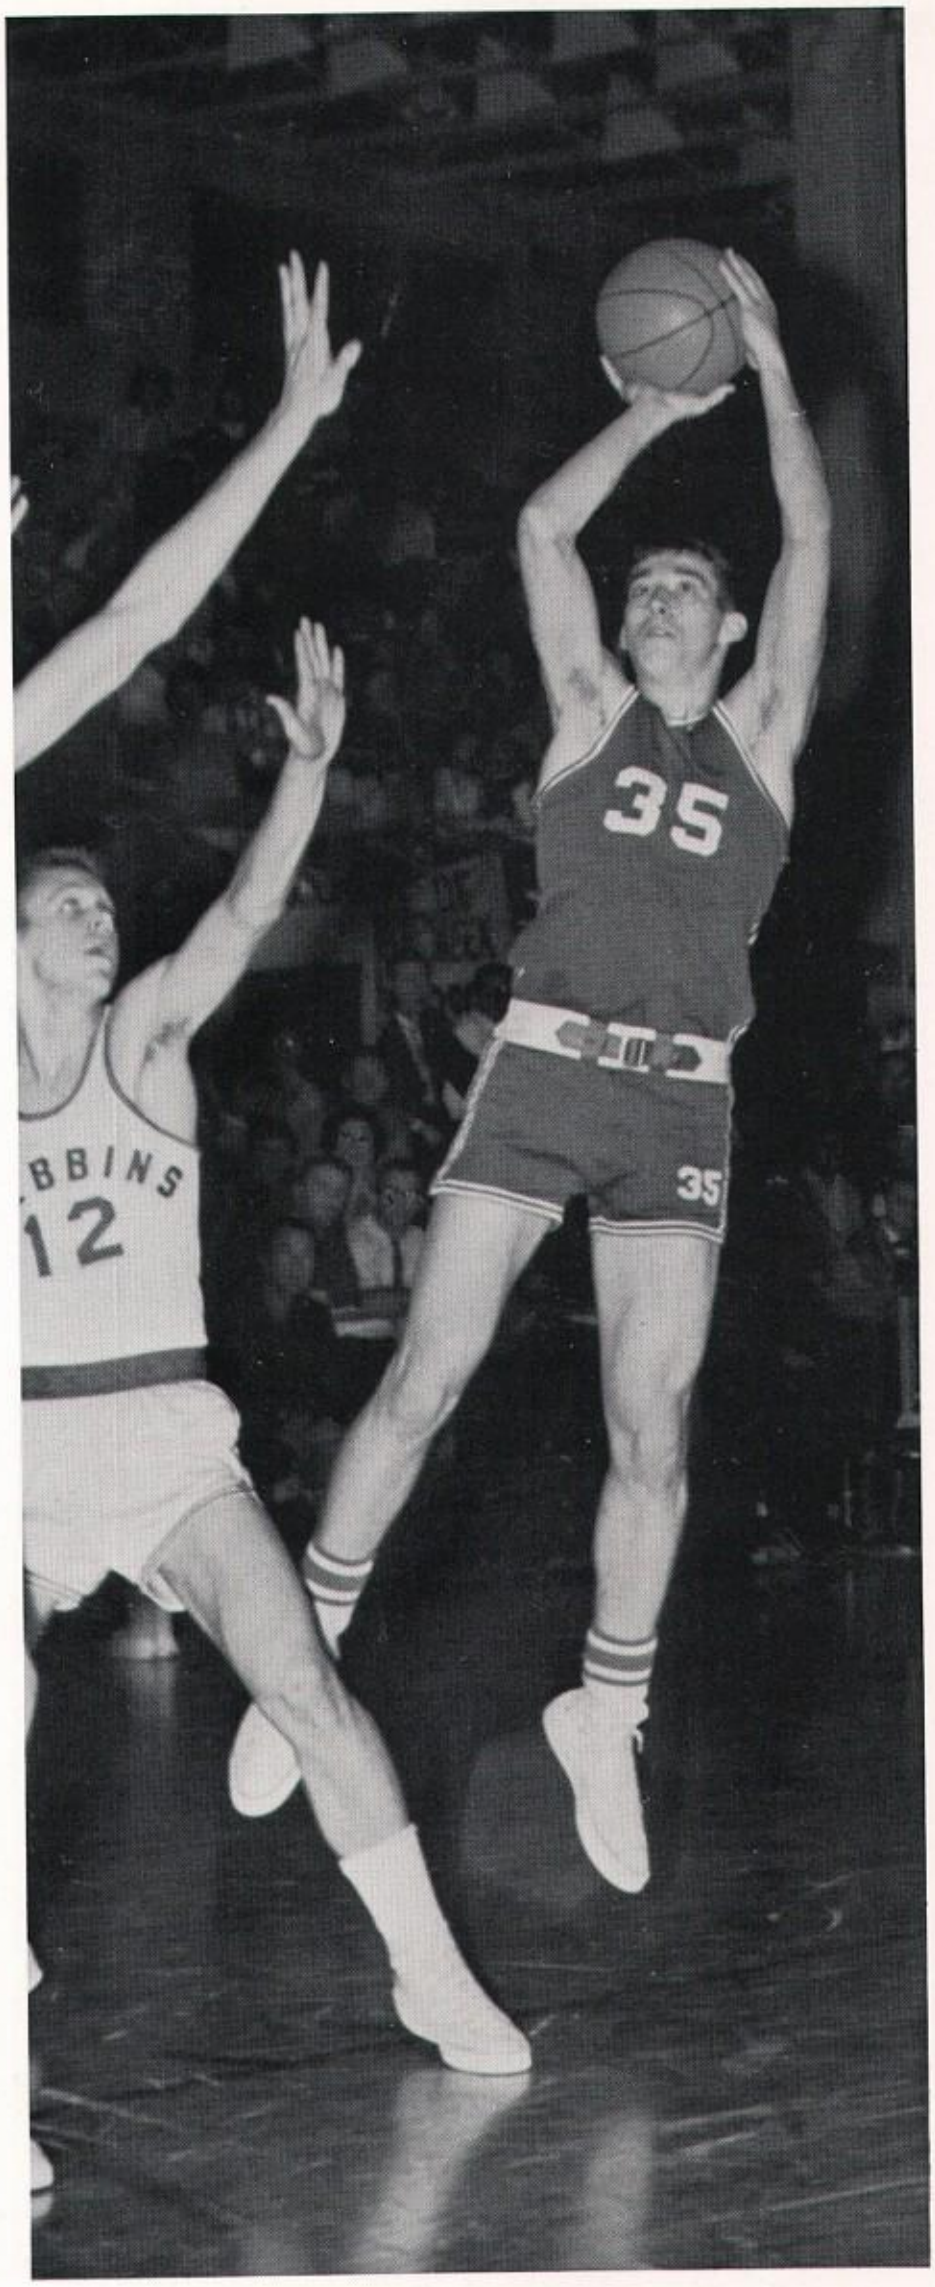


Contrasting with the previous night's two-man circus, the Colonel White game was a real team effort, with seven men in the scoring column. Dave Helm provided a second-half shot-in the-arm with four baskets. West outscored the Cougars, 20-9 in the fourth period to break open a close game and win 68-53 for number ten in a row.

Fairborn was really fired up, hoping to improve a mediocre record at Fairmont's expense. West spent the entire evening catching up with the Flyers, whose pinpoint outside shooting proved to be a dangerous weapon. Fairmont continued to battle right to the final buzzer, making a tremendous lunge at Fairborn in the last two minutes, but the Dragons fell just short to lose a 64-63 heartbreaker which dropped the Dragons into a first-place tie with Xenia in the Western Ohio League.

Getting back on the right trail with some help from the hapless Kiser Panthers, the West hoopsters breezed to their fifteenth triumph. Never in any trouble, the Purple and White showed fine form. McCormick and Maxwell split 55 points about equally and spearheaded an assault that beat Kiser 78-57 and sent the Fairmont West Dragons into the District Tournament with a classy 15-and-3 record.

Max collects 39



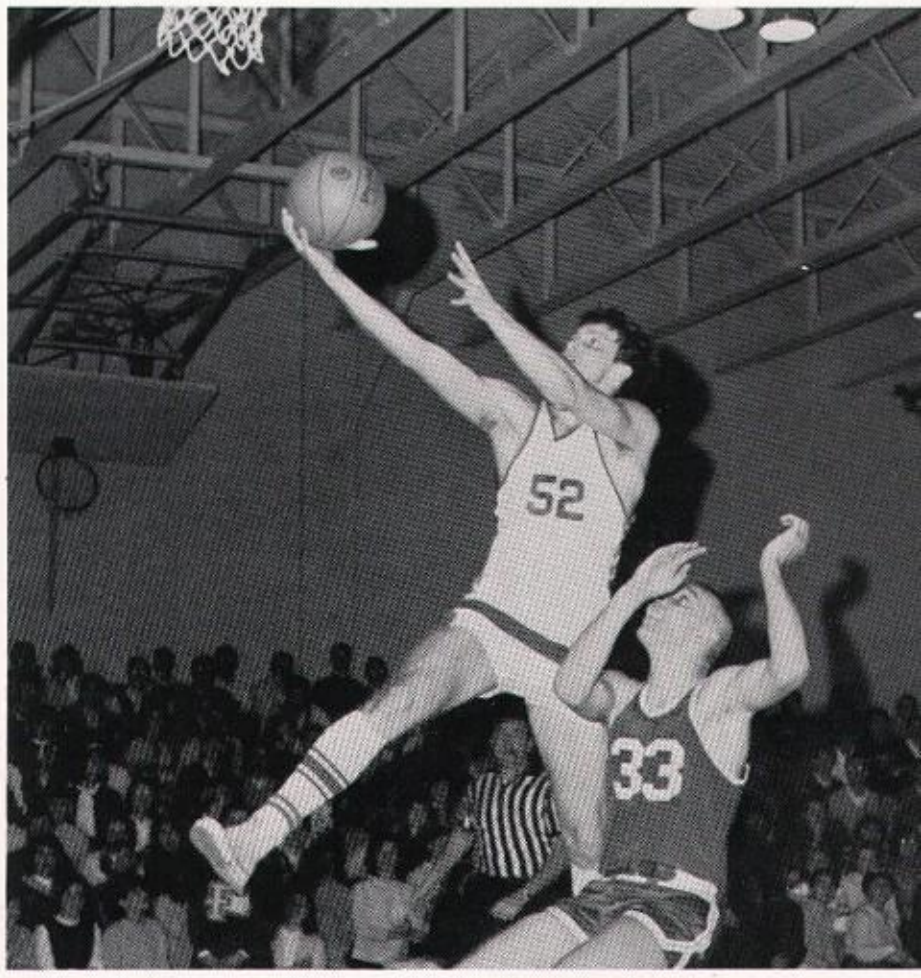
Doug Maxwell makes it look easy as he stretches to drop in a bucket.

Everyone feels tension as bench and crowd are alert to action on the floor.

Proving that any team can beat any other team on a given night, the Wilbur Wright Pilots, a former Dragon victim, promptly derailed West's district title hopes in first-round play.

Falling behind after taking an eight-point lead in the first quarter, the Dragons struggled to keep pace as various individuals strove to hold the team together. Dave Ruth had his best scoring night and kept Fairmont in the game singlehandedly when, in the middle of the second half, he matched baskets evenly with the Pilots for several minutes.

Later, All-W. O. L. selections Pete Thompson and Doug Maxwell came back after being briefly benched to spark the Dragons and tie the game at 62-all, but West ran out of gas and finally swallowed a bitter 72-67 defeat, accepting a disappointing end to a grand season.



Dave Ruth blazes past a Wayne forward to score.

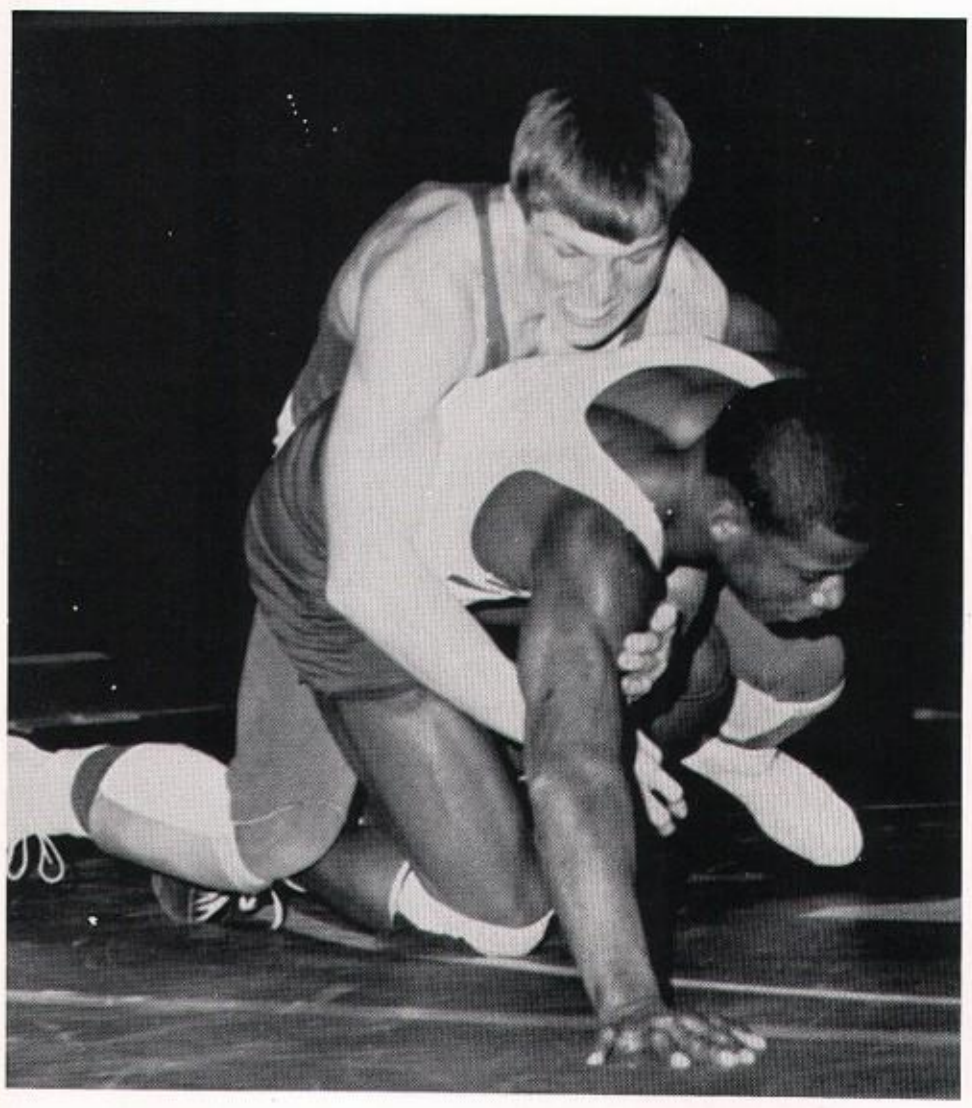
Wrestlers nail 7-1 record with 1st in West



Led by some of the Dayton area's top wrestlers, Fairmont West compiled one of its most outstanding records. Third in the Beavercreek Invitational was an improvement over last year as Bob Odom (120), and Tom Haught (154) defended their titles, and Larry Dietz added a first for Fairmont in the 145 pound division to give West as many individual champions as the first place Beavers.

Boasting eight teams and eleven undefeated individuals, the Fairmont West Invitational was one of the top area meets. With a fine team showing (all boys finished fourth or better), the "Purple Raiders" outpointed Roosevelt, the only team to beat West in a dual meet, and Beavercreek, eventual W.O.L. champ. George Esposito (133), Dietz, and Haught took their weight divisions to pave the way for West's second win of her own invitational.

Four individual winners copped second place in the league; Dietz and Haught ended regular season competition unbeaten as W.O.L. 145 and 154 kings, while Bob Odom and Jim Todd (165) also topped their classes. Winning an overtime decision, Bob Odom took the 120-pound championship as West placed third in the district. Dietz, Haught, Todd, and Tom Sharritt (175) chipped in with second-place showings.

Continuing in the fine tradition which has given the Dragons the state championship in gymnastics for two consecutive years, Coach Don Perry's men rattled off nine straight dual-meet victories before being barely upset by Fairview. New this year, the Fairmont Invitational, was another highlight of the season; it was held at East and will alternate between Kettering's two Fairmonts in the future. Sporting ten real powers from Ohio and outside the state, this meet could develop into one of the biggest in the Midwest.

Mike Brandenburg tallied 15.5 points and took second in all-around competition to spark the Dragons to second-place honors in the Western Ohio League. Fairmont East won eight of nine events to grab the championship, but George Anglemyer's "first" on the side horse, coupled with solid efforts by Joe DeHaven (2nd—high bar), Fred Rowland (2nd—trampoline; 3rd—tumbling), Bill Bradford (3rd—trampoline), and Mike Miller (2nd—parallel bars) kept West in contention while the rest of the league fell far astern.

Ending the season in fine style, the gymnasts ranked eleventh in state competition. Defending his state crown, George Anglemyer was Fairmont West's only medalist as he turned in a second-place showing.

and sportsmanship

For those whose skill or limited time prevents playing on interscholastic teams, intramurals provide the chance to participate in their favorite sports.

Girls' intramurals are open to all who are members of G.A.A. Sports included are tennis, softball, hockey, volleyball, table tennis, badminton, basketball, fencing, and bowling. Girls compete for points which earn them letters, pins, and trophies.

No restrictions are placed on boys who want to compete in intramurals. They can choose from such sports as football, bowling, wrestling, tennis, softball, basketball, and track. New sports added this year for the boys are fall golf and archery.

Intramurals promote team effort and a spirit of competition.

Skill, determination, and hard work combine to give the 1964 varsity hockey team a winning season. Team members opened in a tie game with Lebanon. Dragonettes lost a hard-fought battle to Centerville but gained victory over Madison and Wayne. In their first game with neighboring Fairmont East, West's team.drove to a tied score. Jefferson was forced to bow to the girls of Fairmont West and the West Carollton game was added to the list of victories. Final meeting of the season was held with Oakwood, traditional rivals of the Dragonettes. Both teams battled to a tie and West completed its season on a victorious note.

Reserve team members fought their way to a season record of five wins and three losses.

New for the team this year were the purple tunics which they wore for each game.

Fairmont West girl's volleyball team finished a successful season with a record of six wins and two losses. Opening with a loss to Troy, the girls worked hard to strengthen the team and defeat their next four opponents—Miamisburg, Wayne, Lebanon, and the neighboring Oakwood Jills. The Dragonettes suffered a hard loss to Fairmont East but came back to win their next game against Trotwood Madison. West's meeting with tough Centerville completed the season with a victory.

Reserve team members finished their season with seven wins and one loss. Miss Moritz, the coach for both reserve and varsity teams, expressed high hopes for them as the next varsity team.

Dragonette wins a tip-off for West.

Teamwork is the key word to the success of a winning team. Fairmont West's basketball team had that cooperation and the drive to establish an outstanding record. Miss Forman, the girls' coach, instilled in them a strong determination to win. The success of the team was due to the tremendous efforts they put forth to be "tight" defensively, and to their ability to be a "team". They overcame the main problems of ball handling and lack of consistent shooters with steady improvement.

The season began with victories over Northridge, Centerville, Lebanon, and Wayne. The games steadily increased in difficulty and play improved with each game. The Miamisburg game was the best, continuing the victorious ways of the Dragonettes. Jefferson also was defeated by West. High points of the season were the games against Fairmont East and Oakwood, with team effort in that game surpassing all others. Reserves followed the winning path blazed by the varsity team.

glamour and ability

Girls' gymnastics began at Fairmont West four years ago, originating with intramurals. Under the direction of Coach Don Perry, the girls began competition three years ago. West's team placed seventh in the Taft Invitational, competing against teams from four states.

Events in which girls participate are: free exercise, balance beam, tumbling, trampoline, and sidehorse vaulting. All are olympic events except tumbling and trampoline.

Six girls compete in each event. Scoring ranges from six points for first place, four points for second place, consecutively down to fifth place. Thus, one girls receives no points. High scorers for West are Nancy Urban with 107 points in seven meets and Barb Bartley with 70 points in six meets.

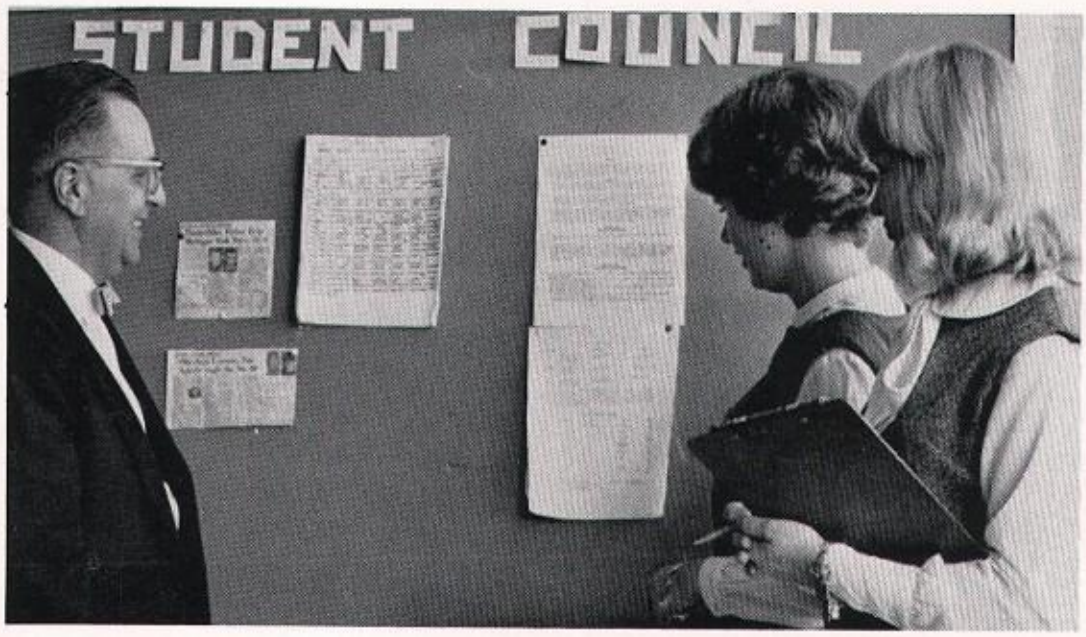
Student Council motivates Alma Mater



Mr. Louis Zaremski, Student Council sponsor, and students Karen Kline and Judy Horstman, examine council bulletin board for news on Fairmont West's alumni.

Fairmont West's student council has burst the bonds that had formerly restricted its influence to Fairmont West. It has aided in the establishment of an interscholastic student council for the members of the Western Ohio League. W.O.L.'s council serves as a forum for the exchange of ideas to improve our individual schools and student councils.

By far the most outstanding achievement of Fairmont West's Student Council is the sponsoring of an alma mater contest. Fairmont West's sportsmanship creed is completed and publicized in the hope that the school's outstanding reputation for good sportsmanship will be maintained. Another opportunity provided at Fairmont West is the availability of purple and white blazers with the school's insignia.

Carrying out the traditional activities of the Student Council has also been well done this year.

Activities of Torch and Keystone were highlighted by a combined meeting of the honor societies of Fairmont East and Fairmont West. Purpose of the meeting was to build and strengthen good rapport between the two student bodies. Over one-hundred-fifty members convened to exchange ideas concerning the activities and events of the 1964-1965 school season.

Seniors ranking in the upper 25% of the graduating class were tapped, bringing the total membership to 87. Formal initiation was held in December, speeches were given by the officers and advisers. Goals of the honor society and the responsibilities of its members were explained in these speeches.

Christmas season was celebrated by the annual dinner, hosted this year by the East unit members. Entertainment consisted of Christmas carols and fictitious letters written to Santa Claus by members of the administration. Members enlightened the Christmas season by bringing gifts for the children at Shawen Acres Children's Home.

May is a busy month for senior members with the induction of 1965-1966 members and the spring picnic. Mr. Paul Wagner is adviser for Torch and Keystone.

Local chapter also participated in the High School Institute and Mock General Assembly, sponsored by the Dayton Council on World Affairs.

New on the list of activities is a radio program on WAVI, sponsored by the Fairmont West J.C.O.W.A. in co-operation with Junior Achievement. Purpose is to give listeners opportunity to hear reports on topics not likely found in other news media, such as "polycentrism" (the depolarization of the Soviet empire).

French Club generates enthusiasm in foreign culture

Fairmont West's French Club, perennially one of the largest clubs, stimulates a fresh interest in the French language and culture.

One of the main reasons for the new interest was the group of sixty students who studied and lived six weeks in Leysin, Switzerland, this summer. Students benefited from their experiences, and their enthusiasm has generated visions of continental living for other students. Beautiful color slides at one of the meetings illustrated an interesting talk made by a few travelers.

Native speakers strained students' ability to understand spoken French by telling of life across the ocean. "A Song to Remember," a movie about the life of Chopin, added a little of the culture element, as the annual carnival and picnic completed a well-rounded program. Miss Mary Belle Warren is the adviser.

German Club finances pins through bakesale

Fairmont West Deutscher Verein (German Club) is a club composed of students interested in learning more about German Culture. To extend to its members the knowledge of and interest in Germany, its language, and its people, is the purpose of the club.

At the September meeting, Carolyn Smith, a former Fairmontonian who was an exchange student to Germany, spoke about her year with a German family. Other fall meetings were spent discussing a project of the club to finance pins by means of a Kuchenuerkaufen (bake sale). Samples were placed in teachers' mailboxes to promote sales.

Two highlights of the German Club year are the Weinachtsfest at Christmas and the Ausflug in the Spring. For the Weinachtsfest this year, Brigit, an exchange student from Bonn, Germany, who is attending a local high school, spoke on Christmas in Germany.

Murdering of Caesar, portrayed by members of the Latin Club, gives dramatic insight to Roman history. Through skits such as these, Greek mythology and Roman culture vividly live in the minds of the members.

Latin Club's success stems from the 100% participation of its members. One requirement for membership is that each individual must contribute in some way to the year's activities.

Get-acquainted games and mixers utlizing Latin words and derivatives further increase one's language ability.

Slides of Italy taken by members on their recent tour of that country will be an innovation to the program this year.

Inspiring and maintaining the interest of the members is the result of the efforts of the two Fairmont West's enthusiastic faculty advisers, Miss Merrilla Davis and Mr. Frank Monnin.

Fairmont West's National Forensic League has been for many years the leading chapter in western Ohio, averaging eighty-five members a year. Membership requires twenty-five points earned in service, speaking before adult groups and in Saturday competition.

Speech thus has its own Saturday seminar. Individual contestants compete in interpretation—humorous, dramatic, and oratorical; in original oratory, requiring delivery of one's own composition; and extemporaneous, demanding up-to-date coverage of world events, politics, economics, and national and international tensions and trends. Advisers for NFL are Miss Leah Funck and Mr. Joseph Kuldau.

Debate has teams haunting the library, researching on the desirability of putting nuclear weapons under control of an international organization.

Headache of the affirmative is to adequately answer these questions: What kind of organization? How many nations? What organic structure? For what purpose—further armament or complete disarmament?

Negatives must be able to show the flaws in the plans and the dangers of national surrender of any nuclear capability. It is a challenging topic for the young adults of our nation.

Debaters must rise early on most Saturdays to participate in tournaments held one hundred miles or more from Kettering. After a bumpy, back-roads ride in a school bus, debaters must exemplify freshness and poise.

After three rounds of competition, winning teams are announced before an assembly of all participants. When the name Fairmont West is mentioned in the same sentence with the winning trophy, Dragon debaters forget the many inconveniences and look forward with anticipation to a repeat performance the following Saturday.

"College Beckons" — insight to teaching

Future Teachers of America is one of the largest pre-professional groups at Fairmont West. Speakers from the different academic areas of science, speech, social studies, language, English, and music give talks and lead discussions on the requirements of teaching in their chosen fields.

Officers and members participated in a county workshop at West Carrollton High School in October. Representatives from West attended the State Conference at Otterbein College.

College Beckons Night, a joint project with the Parent-Teacher Association, was a best in F.T.A.'s year. An International Dinner and senior visitation day provided special opportunities to learn. West's annual Future Teachers' picnic highlighted the year's activities. Miss Mary Belle Warren, Miss Shirley Bensinger, and Mr. Gary Crawford advise F.T.A.

Barb Lynch and Sarah Wagner make plans for another interesting meeting.

American Field Service is a new organization at Fairmont West. Although West has participated in the American Field Service Exchange program for several years by having foreign exchange students, many students and teachers felt that the student body was not benefitting to the fullest extent from the exchange program.

A.F.S. was formed in order to help the student body benefit more from the foreign students who attend Fairmont West and to stimulate interest and desire among students in the exchange program.

West's chapter, led by Barbara Lynch and Sarah Wagner, last year's candidates for the A.F.S. exchange program, is composed of students who are interested in meeting exchange students and learning from their experiences. Carmen Noseda from Argentina and Randi Aagesen from Norway were welcomed to Fairmont West.

One of the highlights of the A.F.S. program was A.F.S. Day, November 25. Invitations were sent to the nine area A.F.S. exchange students, who spent a full day at Fairmont West. Special assembly gave the student body an opportunity to hear each exchange student bring greetings from his country. Mr. Chester A. Roush, Superintendent of Schools, spoke on his recent travels in Europe.

Fairmont West's A.F.S. chapter had a progressive dinner, featuring many foreign dishes, and a dance.

A.F.S. students attending Dayton schools visited Fairmont West.

Red Cross initiates speakers' committee

Concern for others is the keystone of Fairmont West's Red Cross chapter. Students searching for a chance to give a part of themselves for the service of others find in this club a means to satisfy their desire to help.

Fairmont West's Red Cross officers attended a leadership training camp this summer and as a result of this camp session the chapter is sponsoring a Red Cross speaker's committee. This group composed of orotorically talented students effectively relates to adult service clubs and student groups the organization of the Red Cross.

Early in the year the chapter sponsors a dance to raise money for a disaster chest. Before Christmas, members of the chapter decorate the Veterans' Administration, hoping to bring a little holiday spirit where often there is only despair. In these and in many other ways the chapter has proven itself a credit to Fairmont West. Miss Rachel Urich advises Red Cross.

Promoting service and friendship are goals established by the Fairmont West Y-Teen Club, a girls' organization affiliated with the YWCA.

Emphasizing service to the community, this club sponsors many charitable projects. Selling potato chips aids them in financing these worthwhile undertakings.

Meetings are both entertaining and educational. Throughout the year they are supplemented by various speakers who acquaint members with the program.

Mums, sold at homecoming, helped to beautfy this long-awaited event. Perhaps one of the most important happenings of the year is the annual Y-Teen slumber party which affords a chance for the girls to become better acquainted. Mrs. Francis Homer and Mrs. Jean Funkhouser are the advisers.

Kappa Beta brightens life of needy family

Kappa Beta Hi-Y has begun a new tradition of sponsoring a dance following both our football and basketball games with our number one rival, Fairmont East.

Showing their compatibility, the Kappa Beta members have joined with the Centerville Hi-Y in a productive meeting. They met for a swim at the Kettering Y at a later date.

As a service to the community, Kappa Beta undertook the project of aiding a needy family at Christmas.

For enjoyment of all, a party is held at Christmas. As the year draws to a close, the seniors say farewell at a party in their honor. Mr. George Tarzinski is adviser.

Aim of Theta Hi-Y — "That Deaf May Smile"

With an attitude of fun and good will, Theta Hi-Y has participated in a number of service projects and social activities.

Highlighting the social aspects of Theta Hi-Y, have been the annual hay ride in the fall, the Christmas party, and the club picnic in the spring.

"Youth in Government Day" is represented each year by two delegates chosen from the members of Theta Hi-Y. These members travel to Columbus to take part in the state-wide project.

Club participation in service projects of many kinds has proved very profitable. Theta Hi-Y members have collected for muscular dystrophy and heart fund. Annual project of collecting license plates for the Kennedy School for the Deaf was also undertaken.

As a money-making project and also a spirit promoting one, victory cards are sold on days previous to football games.

Mr. Carl Ferguson is adviser.

Pep Club evokes West's school spirit

Pep Club, more than ever before, has experienced a new challenge. Establishment and attainment of Fairmont West's reputation for 110% spirit has to be successfully accomplished.

"Block F" has been instrumental in leading the school to its goal. Appearing at every game, these girls encouraged the student body to cheer the team to victory.

Caravans to important games, as well as many spirit contests, have been sponsored by Fairmont West's Pep Club. Honoring all fall sports, Pep Club held a dance after the last football game. Mr. Terry Mallett aids Pep Club.

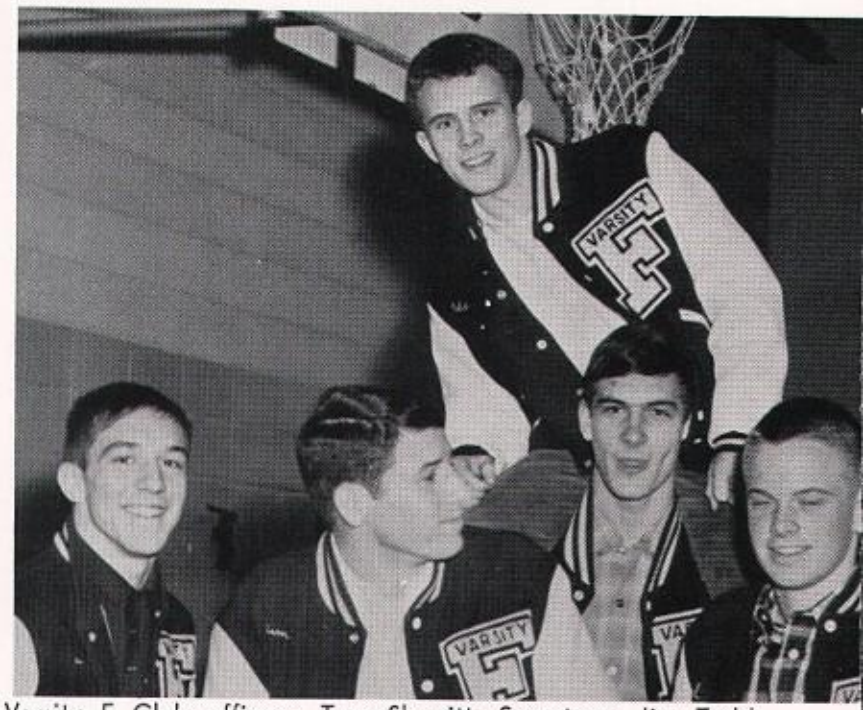
Varsity "F" has grown from the previous honorary status to become one of Fairmont West's most active clubs. Boys who earn varsity letters in one of the nine interscholastic sports at Fairmont West are eligible for selection to membership.

Varsity "F", led by a strong board of student directors, has become an integral part of all activities at Fairmont West. Homecoming found members of this organization supporting the winning candidate, Karen Moore. Many Westonians are seen with key chains displaying a fighting Dragon, a project of Varsity "F". Basketball games find members selling programs and holding ropes to keep fans off the basketball court.

Activities for this club will be climaxed when the members present the "best athlete trophy" to the most deserving boy at the Spring Sports Banquet. Mr. Sherwin Bauser advised the club members.



Varsity F Club officers: Tom Sharritt, Secretary; Jim Todd, President; Bob Withrow, Sergeant-at-arms; Bob Odom, Vice President; and Paul Wycoff, Treasurer, encourage support of West's numerous athletic activities.

Each year G.A.A. letters, trophies, and pins are presented to the most outstanding girls in each activity. At the end of the year a special trophy is awarded to the senior girl who has joined in the greatest number of G.A.A. activities during her three years at Fairmont West.

Other than these sport activities, G.A.A. sponsors several annual social events. Each interscholastic sport holds a banquet for its team members after the season is over. Spring dance and a trip to Coney Island are enjoyed by G.A.A. members. Miss Joanna Moritz advises G.A.A.

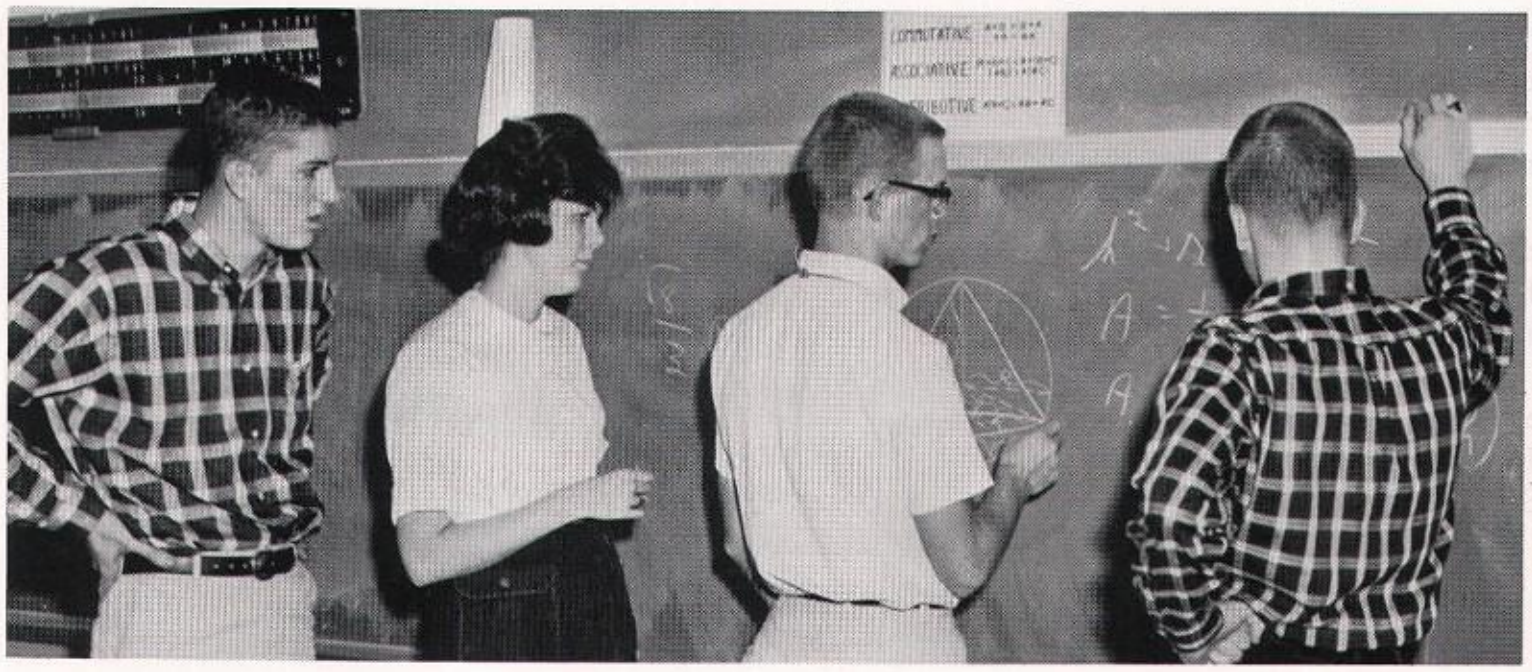
Modern math motivates meticulous minds

Mitch Jameson, George Nassif, Dick Wilson find there is more than one method of solving a complicated formula.

Mathematically-minded students of Fairmont West satisfy their desire for advanced knowledge by extra study and discussion in the Math Club. Members study subjects which are too complicated or obscure to be included in the regular school curriculum.

Subjects of interest such as topology, spacial geometry, and universal sets are discussed under the leadership of Mr. Alvin Funderburg and Mr. Walter Balster and with vigorous participation of club members at regular monthly meetings.



Doug Walther, Linda Auwers, Dale Stemple, Paul Wycoff prove theorems and solve problems as a supplement to the regular mathematics program.

Tom Stork, Vice President; Myron O'Hara, President; and Dee Hudson, Secretary-Treasurer; complete experiments of incubating bacteria as a supplement to regular biology courses.

Science Club members have future in focus

Membership in the Fairmont West Science Club provides an opportunity to learn more about the fields of biology, chemistry, and physics, and to view a possible vocation for the future.

By separating into these three groups of science, club members have the opportunity to study more intensively the areas which are of particular interest to them.

Activities of Science Club include speakers, movies, and stimulating discussions and experiments. Mr. Elby Tackett, Mr. Lauren Kludy, and Mr. Milburn Hinds aid Science Club members.

Language students set sights on Europe

Travel-minded students returning from six weeks study with the National Foreign Language League during the summer of 1964 had little difficulty in inspiring other students with the idea of studying abroad.

1965 will see three language groups become more proficient through studying and conversing with those who speak the language as their native tongue.

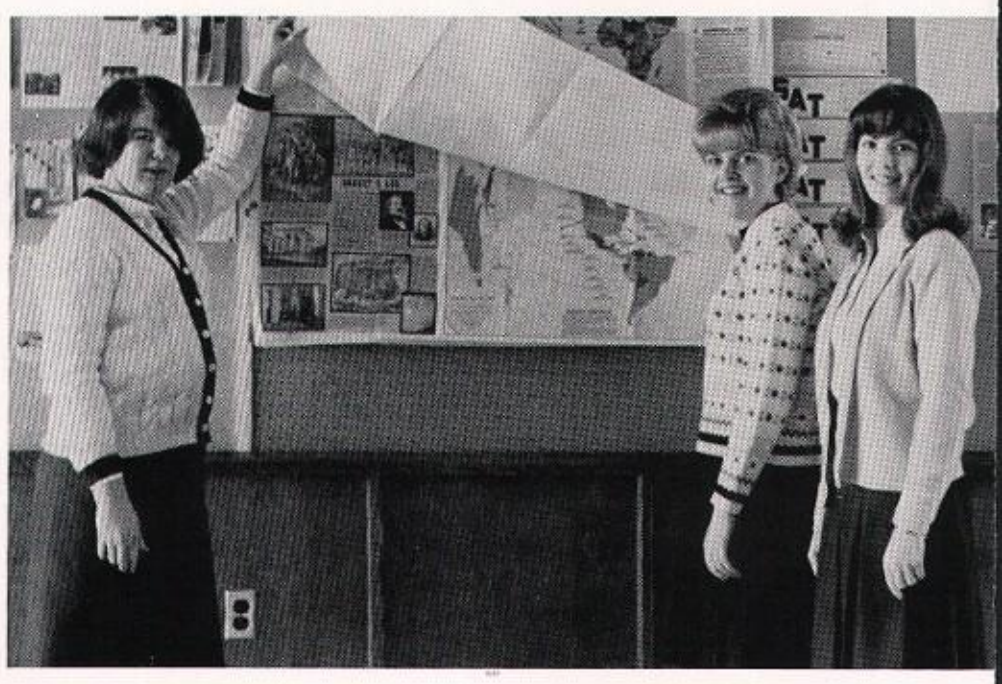
Miss Marybelle Warren will be returning to the campus at Leysin, Switzerland accompanied by several students.

Ciudad Universitaria in Madrid, Spain will host students who wish to become more proficient in the Spanish language. In addition to learning the language, the students will take inspiring tours of different geographical areas of Spain.

Deustch-speaking students will travel abroad from Fairmont West for the first time. Accompanied by Mr Lee Risley, the group will study German at a campus in Austria.

Participation in European adventures is not only beneficial to the student learning the language, but also in the enlightenment of the foreign culture which is dispersed to the remaining members of the student body

Excitement mounts as Linda Fox, Nancy Ridd, and Karen Ritchie anticipate coming trip.



Planning routes for exciting summers abroad are: Betty Ann Hoener, Kay Forstoff and Marilyn Brock.

Seminars stimulate science-minded students

Saturday morning may find Fairmont students involved in many activities. Those who venture into the realm of the science rooms will find forty students pursuing deeper knowledge in the fields of chemistry, physics, and biology.

Under the direction of Mr. Elby Tackett, chemistry seminar students explore unknown quantities and develop better lab techniques. Combining this with quantitative work, students progress toward independent study. As there is no time limit, students work at their own speed.

Plotting graphs of density, speed, and velocity are major projects of physics seminar. Mr. Lauren Kludy's inspirational "egg satellites" are designed to create realistic situations and give insight into man's space problems.

Plant and animal study comprise the two divisions of biology seminar. Research projects provide each student with an opportunity to delve deeper into scientific knowledge of a specific topic. Sessions are headed by Mr. Charles Graves and Mr. Milburn Hinds.

Cheryl O'Hara and Greg Papp prove through experiment that velocity equals distance over time.

Gene Retske develops his technique in chemically identifying unknown elements at the Saturday morning science seminar.

Cooperative Office Education = experience

Mr. Joe Lower demonstrates an office skill for COE girls Carol Garvic, Donna Webb, Linda Koverman, and Judy Price.

Seventeen girls in Mr. Joe Lower's third period class are taking advantage of an unusual opportunity at Fairmont West—Cooperative Office Education. COE's object is to graduate an office worker already adjusted to the demands and tempo of the business world. Students attend regular classes in the morning and serve as salaried clerical workers in the afternoon under teacher-employer supervision.

Before a student is able to participate in C.O.E., she must be at least sixteen years old, have a good personality, be recommended by business teachers, counselors, and unit supervisors, and have developed practical office skills, such as typing and/or shorthand or bookkeeping.

Daily drill enables COE students to polish office skills.

Fairmont West hosts State Convention

Fairmont West's chapter of Future Business Leaders of America strives to create an interest in business on the high school level. During the year, F.B.L.A.'s activities include selling pens, candy bars, and sponsoring a dance after a basketball game.

To become a member, one must earn at least fifteen points by selling pens or candy, making posters for the club, or by helping the club in other ways. Formal induction is held for all students who have obtained fifteen points.

Convention is the highlight of an F.B.L.A. member's year. Fairmont West is hosting the state convention this year. Miss Eleanor Gallagher, Mrs. Lois Hike, Mrs. Jane Nolan, and Mr. Joe Lower are F.B.L.A.'s very interested advisers.

Challenging careers studied by home economists

Kathy Conly and Joanne Garrison point out that West's Home Economics Club is in the public eye.

Fairmont West's Home Economics Club strives to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living. Representatives from different fields of home economics give insight into the role of homemaking in today's world.

Speakers enlightened members at the monthly meetings. Mr. Chester A. Roush, Superintendent of Kettering City Schools, spoke on child development in Russia. Mrs. Jack Blome demonstrated the making of Christmas decorations. Movies on careers in home economics, flower arranging sessions, and speakers from a beauty school provided learning opportunities for club members. Mrs. Bernice Fowler, Mrs. Betty Savage, and Miss Helen Vogelsang advise the club.

Life of dedicated service begins at Fairmont West

F.M.C.'s main purpose is to grant its members the opportunity to become acquainted with the different phases of medicine and medical careers. During the year, members participate in several service projects. At Halloween, members collect and distribute candy to the various children's hospitals. Christmas season finds each member bringing a gift to the annual Christmas party for the children at Barney Children's Hospital. Other fund drives are also collected throughout the year. Members receive points for participating in various service projects. If the required number of points has been earned by the end of the year, a Future Medical Career's Club pin is awarded.

Chess, though miniature in size, is still thrilling for Bob Grimshaw, Donna Ecton, and Bill Gessling.

Wit, wisdom, logic mark Chess and Bridge

When the Chess Club announced plans to add bridge, response was immediate. At the first meeting there were nearly as many "bridgers" as chess players, and several who played both. Amid the "check's" and "mate's" could be heard "four hearts" and more often, the dejected "pass."

Regular activities of the chess team, consisting of the top five players in the club, continued. Fairmont West's team, now in its third year of league play, participated in several matches against greater Dayton-area schools.

Membership is open to everyone who has an interest in quick wit, logical thought, and alertness.

New Thespian Society advances dramatics

Newly organized at Fairmont West this year, the National Thespian Society has attracted many charter members.

Membership is open to juniors and seniors who have accumulated ten points by participation in different areas of dramatic productions, including lighting, make-up, stage-craft, and direction, as well as work done in the glow of the footlights.

National Thespian Society strives to cultivate excellence and interest in the dramatic arts, well guided by the sponsorship of Miss Leah Funk and Mr. Joseph Kuldau.

Beth Nolan, Rick Gross, and Diane Longo practice developing talent for which Fairmont West stage productions are known.

Bob McMurtrey, playing Professor Coquintz and Glenn Ekey, as Tully Bascomb, give near professional portrayals in "The Mouse that Roared."

Wise Fools is the unique name of Fairmont West's literary discussion group. Mr. Stephen Vogler, East Unit English teacher, oversees the club's informal sessions. Many different subjects are discussed; including books, plays, religion, and many other controversial subjects, at the bi-monthly meetings.

Mark Twain's Letters from the Earth prompted lively discussion at one meeting and A Man for All Seasons gave members an outlet for their dramatic talent. Food for thought was also provided by informative speakers such as Mr. Paul Wagner who spoke on the "Non-graded High School."

Wise Fools' motto could well be "I think, therefore, I am."

Joanne Fisher, Denny Herron, and Karen Stahr find club discussion often changes into debate.

Safety Club promotes driver's education

Safety Club is open to all students at Fairmont West. Function of Safety Club is to make students develop proper mental attitudes toward safety at school, at home, and on the road.

During the school year, there are city-wide, area, and state youth meetings for high school students interested in promoting safety among teenagers. Safety Club also invites outside speakers to its meetings, these include law officials, judges, etc.

Safety Club encourages all students interested in the club to enroll in driver education, although it is not a prerequisite. Mr. Richard Hoppe advises the club.

Imaginative skills enliven creative writing

Dave Burns, Vice President; Linda Auwers, Secretary-Treasurer; Doug Hinkley, President; comment on advances made in writing and in appreciation of literature since the club's founding.

Creative Writers Club members desire to develop writing talents, whether it be for recreational or professional purposes.

Members meet twice a month to discuss literary contributions fellow club members have submitted for presentation. Manuscripts are discussed and suggestions made to the authors.

"Spontaneous creativity" is another activity in which members write about a particular subject within a given time allotment. Advisers, Mr. Gary Crawford and Mr. George Tarzinski use these exercises to develop descriptive abilities. As any club member will attest, "to describe a paper clip" one must be a creative writer.

Sherrie Dinsmore, Nancy Gilbert, Les Murray, Jim Edwards, and Dick Brown criticize contemporary styles of outstanding authors and gain a knowledge of basic writing.

Genuine interest in art is evident by Art Club officers Rick Gross, Vice President; Georgie Tobin, Secretary; Dodie Merrill, President; Tom Stork, Treasurer; and Robin Shonsheck, Vice President.

Art club is designed for those students who wish to learn more about art, its appreciation, and related occupations.

Club members have the chance to further their own talents and to profit from them by creating art work for a sale at Christmas and a showing in the Spring.

Meetings range from discussions with past graduates, now studying art, to visiting art galleries and going to the Dayton Art Institute.

Harvest time found art club members decoratively soaping windows in the Town and Country Halloween Art Contest. Members also enjoyed dressing up in outlandish costumes for a Halloween party. A bloody-pumpkin-carving contest was one of the highlights of the evening.

Youth for Christ sets national quiz goal

Y.F.C. Cheerleaders Sylvia Kneiss and Barbara Patrick yell for Teen Olympics.

Youth for Christ promotes spiritual growth, develops Christian leadership, and provides fellowship opportunities for Fairmont West students. Speakers, discussion groups, skits, music, and parties are all part of the bi-weekly meetings.

National conventions, Teen Olympics, speech contests, Bible quizzing, and weekly rallies provide chances for West's members to meet other Youth for Christ members from all over the country.

Being an interdenominational organization, any student interested in Christian fellowship is eligible to join this group. Good athletes are needed to help Ohio keep the State Teen Olympic Championship it has held for eight years.

"To reflect the achievements, activities, and attitudes of Fairmont West students" is the motto newly adopted for Dragon Tales by the '64-'65 newspaper staff. Whether reporting on academic honors, club news, opinion polls, or athletic events, writers tried to make this motto come alive in clear and interesting articles.

Dragon Tales is published bi-monthly by its 27 member staff. Workers of many talents fill the different positions in both editorial and advertising divisions.

$7200 Campaign

Personal experience, academic achievement, social activities, and all areas of competition are chronicled within the pages of the '65 Dragon.

Yearbook provides opportunities for its staff members to become acquainted with the areas of creative writing, photo-journalism, salesmanship, advertising, business management, and artistic design.

Job of creating one of the largest high school yearbooks in Ohio begins in April of the year preceding the publication. During the summer months, staff members spend leisure time selling advertising space to businesses in the Greater Dayton areas, planning pages, and making layouts. Further time is invested in a summer workshop at Ohio University, where the technical knowledge is acquired.

From a journalistic standpoint, the yearbook relives in pictures and copy the school year for every student, faculty member, and organization. In addition to being a personal annual for Westonians the Dragon provides a public relations medium for the school and exemplifies the excellence of achievement which typifies Fairmont West.

Donna Ecton, Sandy Finley, Nancy Giffin, and Judy Fenton, work enthusiastically to portray in word and picture the student life of Fairmont West.

Editors, Phil Brown and Mike Lackey assure the continuity of the Dragon through conscientious effort.

Junior section editors, Margaret Scharrer, Kathy French, and Billie Watson review their yellow pages after most of the work is done.

Mr. Logan's new pictures for the Dragon are the center of attraction for Judy Horstman, Karen Kline, Linda Stine, and Michele Hutton.

Dragon demands on time

Production of the 1965 Dragon actually started in the spring of the preceding year when members of the staff were selected. Several weeks of orientation with trained staff members assured each individual's having the necessary knowledge to complete his assignment efficiently.

Members of the staff were busily engaged throughout the summer selling advertisements. Exceeding the goal of $6500 by selling $7200 in ads made it possible to include in the budget the "extras" which would have been omitted had the community not cooperated so willingly.

Meeting early deadlines allowed the staff to earn the colored end-sheets without charge.

Staff members, Janis Toll and Judy Jordan, appreciate the talents of a good photographer like Dan Allen.

Securing finances for the Dragon is the assignment of Johnell Tobin, Gloria Morningstar, and Beverly Bearzy.

and talent are great — rewards are greater

Senior pictures were taken by Logan Studios during the summer months to assure their being ready for shipment early in the fall.

Miniature dummy sheets were prepared, showing arrangement of pictures and copy. Triplicates were then made for each page. These pages were shipped to the Taylor Publishing Company, Dallas, Texas together with the pictures.

March found staff members with completed sections. However, the work was not finished, as the pages had to be returned, proofread, and again sent to the publisher.

Publication of an outstanding yearbook encompasses varied skills. Each student must be able to give of himself, his talent, his time, and his cooperation.

Beth Nolan, Jim Shepard, Joyce Dicke, and Connie Eaton, spend long hours at the design-o-graph.

Announcements, tardy blanks, directions, scholarship sign-ups, summer school information, duplicated material and transcripts are but a few of the daily tasks of the three unit secretaries.

Each of these individuals capably maintains the records for the 550 students in her unit. As a liaison person between faculty and students, the secretary maintains the efficiency of the unit.

by service staff at Fairmont West

Fairmont West consists of seven modern buildings on a spacious campus which houses over sixteen hundred students. Because of the size of the school, there are many jobs done day in and day out which go unnoticed. People who perform these services often do not receive the credit they deserve.

Custodians are kept busy providing services to keep the large campus running efficiently and making buildings look their best.

Every school day is begun with the school buses driving students to school. Bus drivers, with their friendly and helpful attitudes, help us start the school day right.

Cafeteria workers perform another necessary service daily for the benefit of the student body. Each day finds these employees busily preparing well-balanced lunches for the faculty and student body. Utilizing the small amount of time in which this huge task must be accomplished shows the competency of these cafeteria workers.

Custodians, bus drivers, and cafeteria workers are a vital reason why Fairmont West continues to be an outstanding school.

Foreign students stimulate West's interest

Carmen Noseda and Tony Cramer take part in a favorite American pastime.

Cultural exchange enriches the lives of Carmen Noseda and her American home, the A. W. Pease family.

In the 1962-63 school year the American Field Service Program, commonly known as A.F.S., was initiated at Fairmont West. First foreign student, Carla Fariloi, came from Italy, and last year West hosted Brazilian Carlos Couto.

In the current year Fairmont West is fortunate to have two foreign students. A.F.S. student, Carmen Noseda, hails from Cordoba, Argentina, Randi Aagesen hails from Norway.

Carmen, who resides with the A. W. Pease family, is a pert, petite, brunette who sparkles with enthusiasm. She is eager to see all the things "American" before she returns home this summer. She enjoys football and basketball but wrestling confuses her. She studies hard and can boast of all A's and B's.

Randi, also an active brunette, is very sports minded. She misses the winter sports she enjoys in her native Norway but enjoys such sports as football and wrestling. Although Randi is not affiliated with A.F.S. she is a very integral part of the exchange program. Randi is also an excellent student.

Fairmont West is truly proud to call both Carmen and Randi Westonians.

experiences and bring honors to West

Reviewing subject matter for many weeks, seniors at Fairmont West took elimination tests and were chosen for the scholarship team. Of all those who competed for team positions, only 78 were chosen.

Proving themselves worthy of their positions, the team members placed six members in the District with 31 Honorable Mentions, five members in the County with 49 Honorable Mentions, and two members in the State with 21 Honorable Mentions. Dale Stemple placing fourteenth among the boys and Sharon Dinsmore placing thirteenth among the girls were West's contributions to State winners.

Phil Brown, one of West's outstanding seniors in the field of speech, won the County and placed second in the District in the Voice of Democracy contest.

Placing runner-up in the national English competition, Sue Martin received the highest honor a Fairmont West student has ever accomplished in the National English Council Contest.

Julie Hillgruber and English teacher, Miss Margaret Rooney, discuss a current literary review in the latest issue of Life magazine.

English and speech students attain skill

Mrs. Joan Burn's English class agrees group participation proves to be an effective incentive in providing thought-provoking ideas when reviewing The Scarlet Letter.

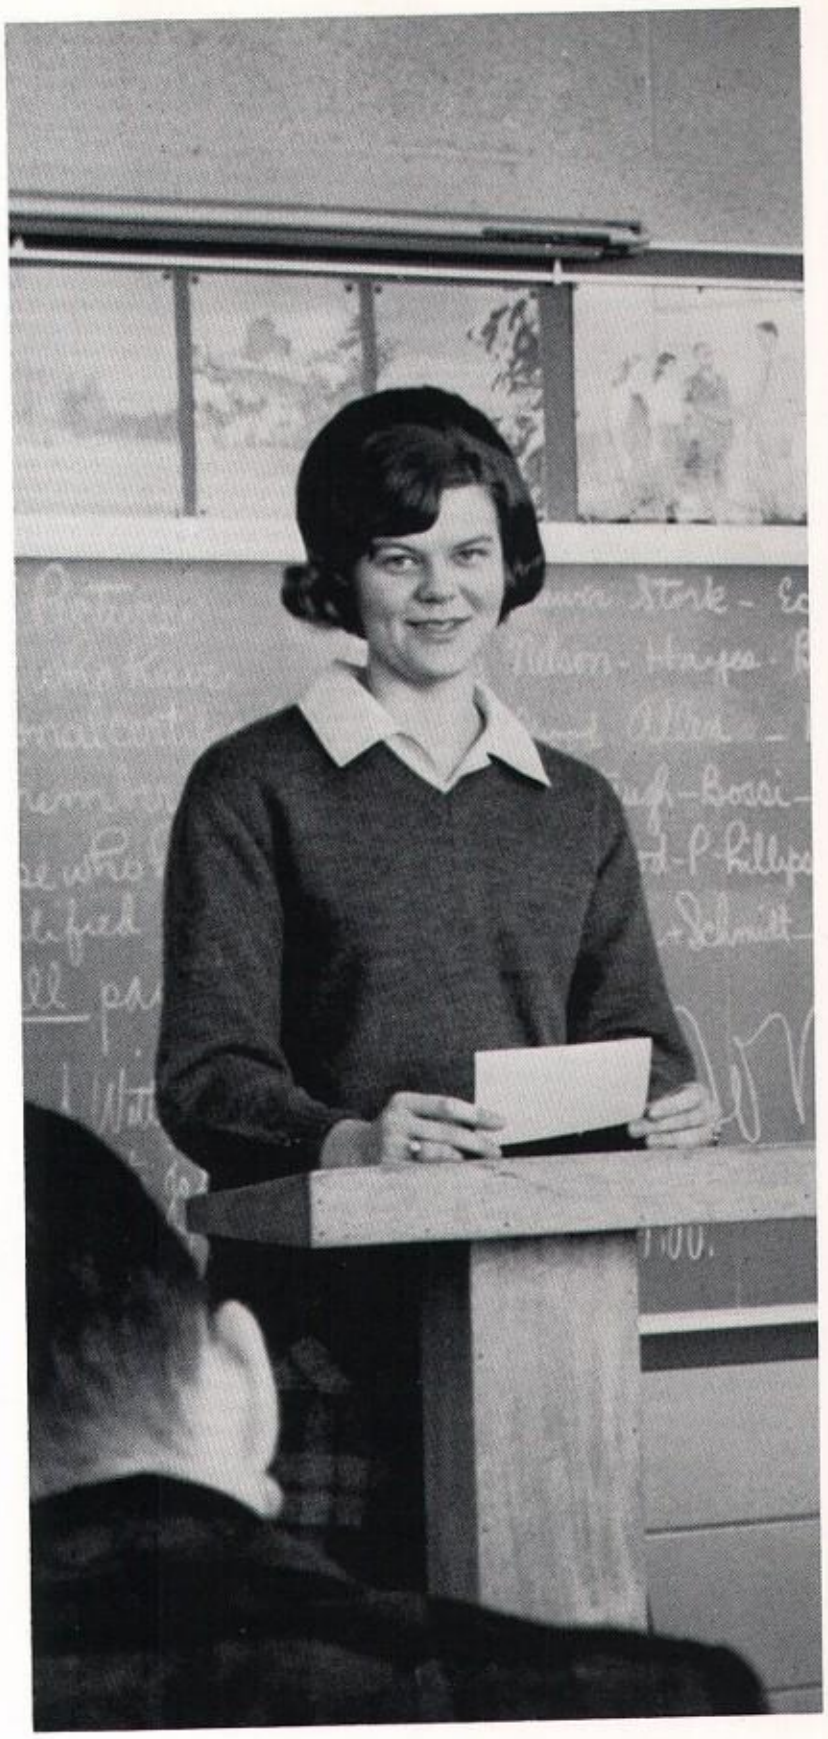
Tears, sobs, laughs, exclamations, and quotes enable speech students to express emotions and ideas. Under the professional guidance of Miss Leah Funk, Mr. Joseph Kuldau, and Mr. Eugene Smith, each student receives individual attention to better his own ability. English-speech and English-debate are available in the junior year; contest speech, debate, and beginning speech are open to all students, regardless of class.

Students not only gain valuable experience in class participation but also meet with competition from other schools in area tournaments. Tournaments give students an incentive to excel in fields of humor, drama, extemporaneous speech, oratory, or debate.

Reading and acting also combine to form an important role in the English program. William Shakespeare's works constitute a large portion of the sophomore and senior year. Sophomores cover a small part of world literature, while American literature is the focal point of all study during the junior year, with the reading of Moby Dick, The Scarlet Letter, The Red Badge of Courage, The Last of the Mohicans, and Walden.

Seniors are required to prepare themselves for college with "Macbeth", Ivanhoe, Lord Jim, The Return of the Native, and Kidnapped, in their course which emphasizes English literature. Each year English composition and grammar are stressed to instruct students in the art of expressing themselves.

Speech and English programs at Fairmont West are truly of great distinction as they offer unexcelled opportunity for expression and preparation for college.



Donna Ecton exemplifies her four years of speech by being the only girl member of the A-Debate Team.

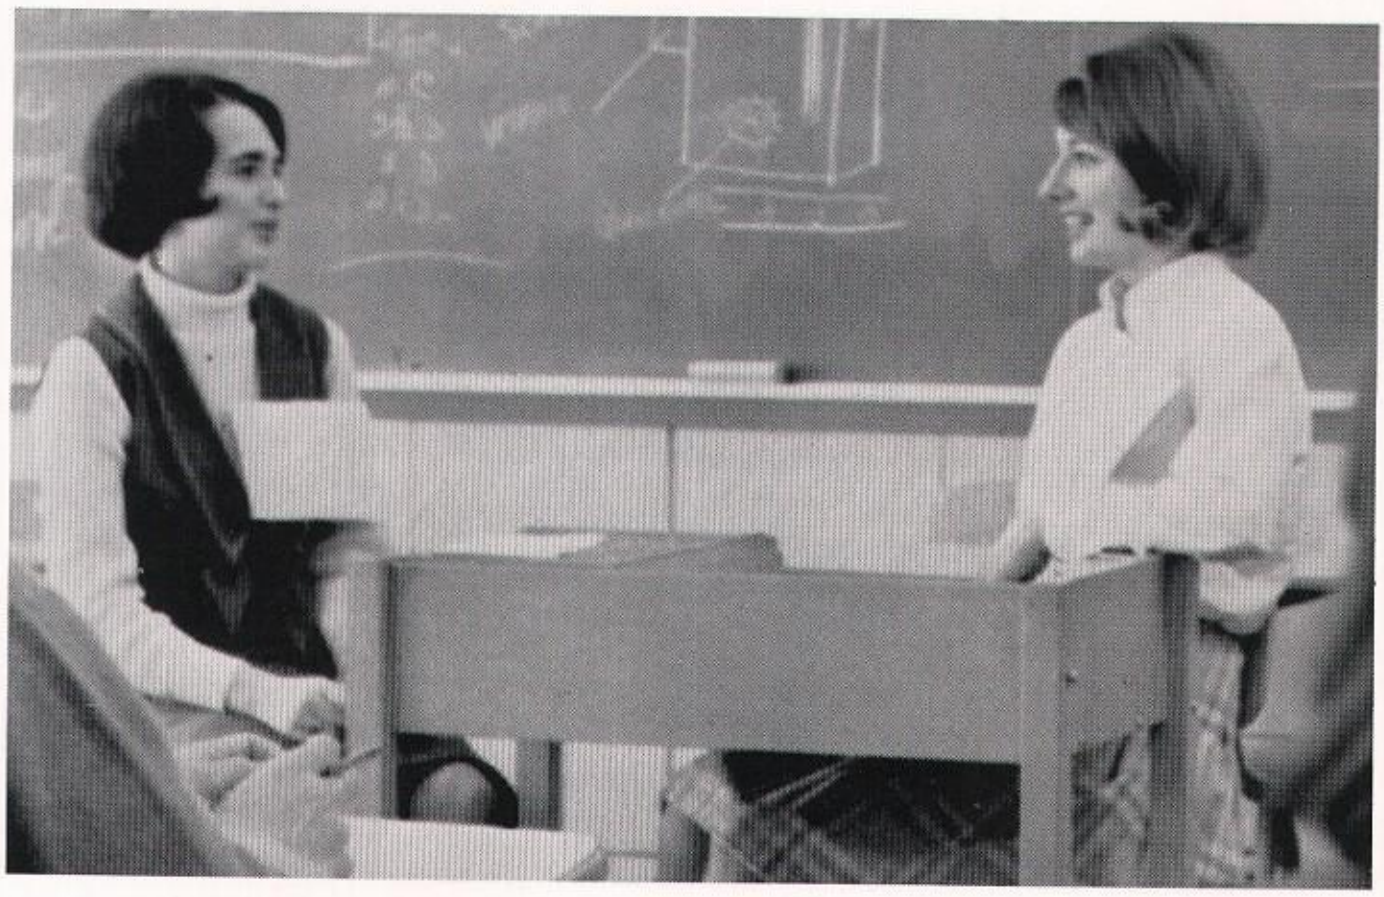
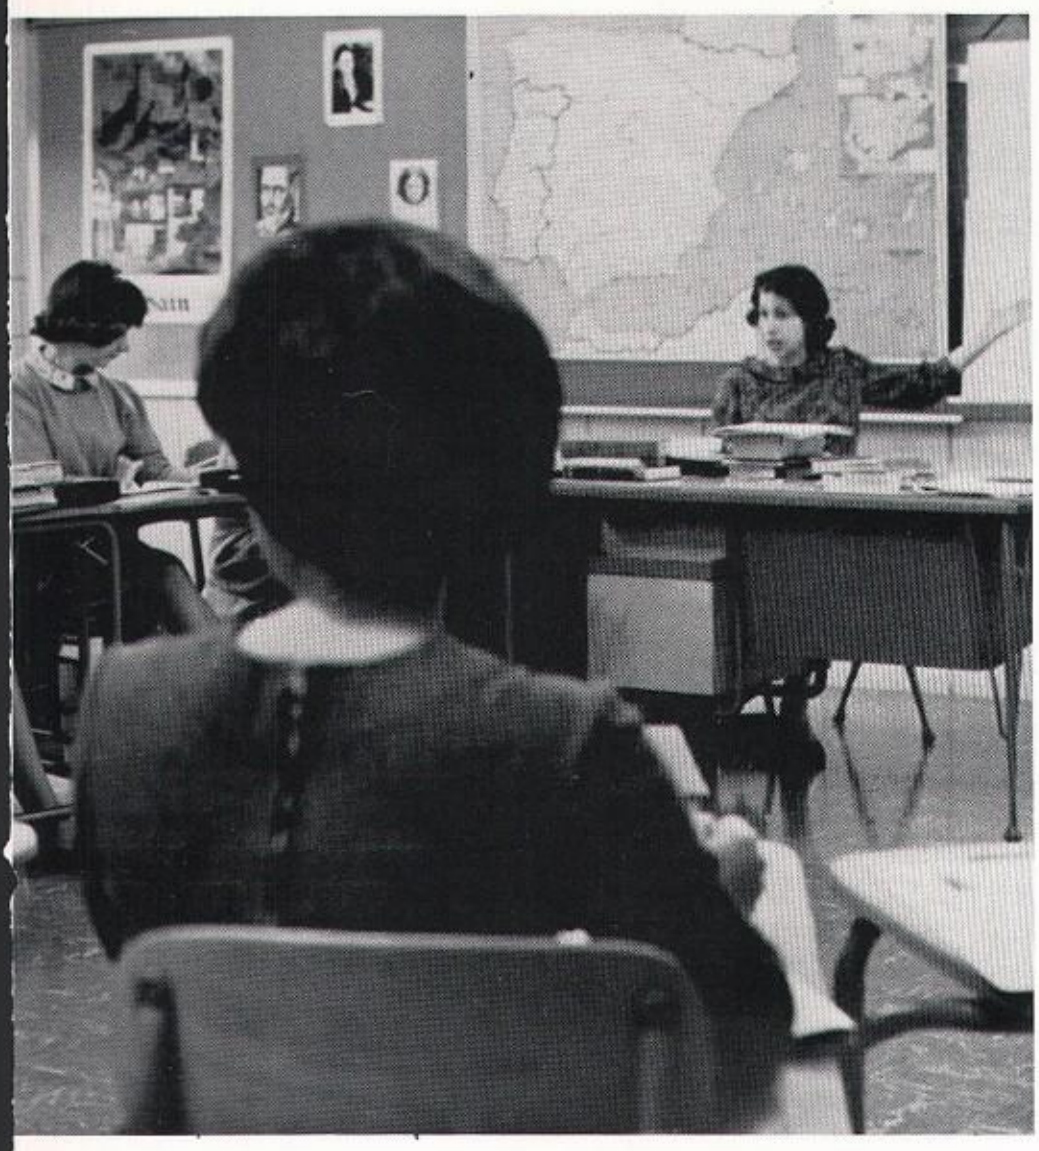
Gene Retske reflects that even a dunce should know English is "verboten" in German III class.

Judy Merrifield, Bob Williams, Charles Sinclair, and John Thomas find that a miniature chariot is worth a thousand laughs in Mr. Frank Monnin's Latin I class.

language classes cultivate internationa

Nancy Ridd and Susan Heinrich improve their spoken language ability in French III by reciting dialogues.





Mrs. Hollis Jump's Spanish III classes provide for extensive research into culture and heritage of the former world-dominating country, España.

With the great amount of Fairmont students participating in the Foreign Language Study Tour, knowledge of some foreign language seems almost compulsory. Fortunately Fairmont West offers many languages.

Ingenuity of mighty Caesar's fighting, the melodic quality of Cicero's orations, and the horrid Trojan War constitute four years of Latin.

Concise study of grammar, reading of Colomba and Fanny, and other great French authors comprise the French program.

In Spanish, students strive for fluency in speaking and writing, and read Don Quixote and other pertinent Spanish literary works.

German students also strive for perfection in everyday conversation and grammar. German III is being offered for the first time and in this class students have the privilege of wearing a "dunce cap" if they speak any English.

In addition to classes, each language has its own club, which meets after school approximately once a month.

Rising tensions in today's modern world make the knowledge of languages more necessary and practical.

through extensive study of social sciences

World events are the focal point in Fairmont's social studies program.

World geography opens to students the wonders of the earth and the measures each country has or has not used to harness the powers of nature.

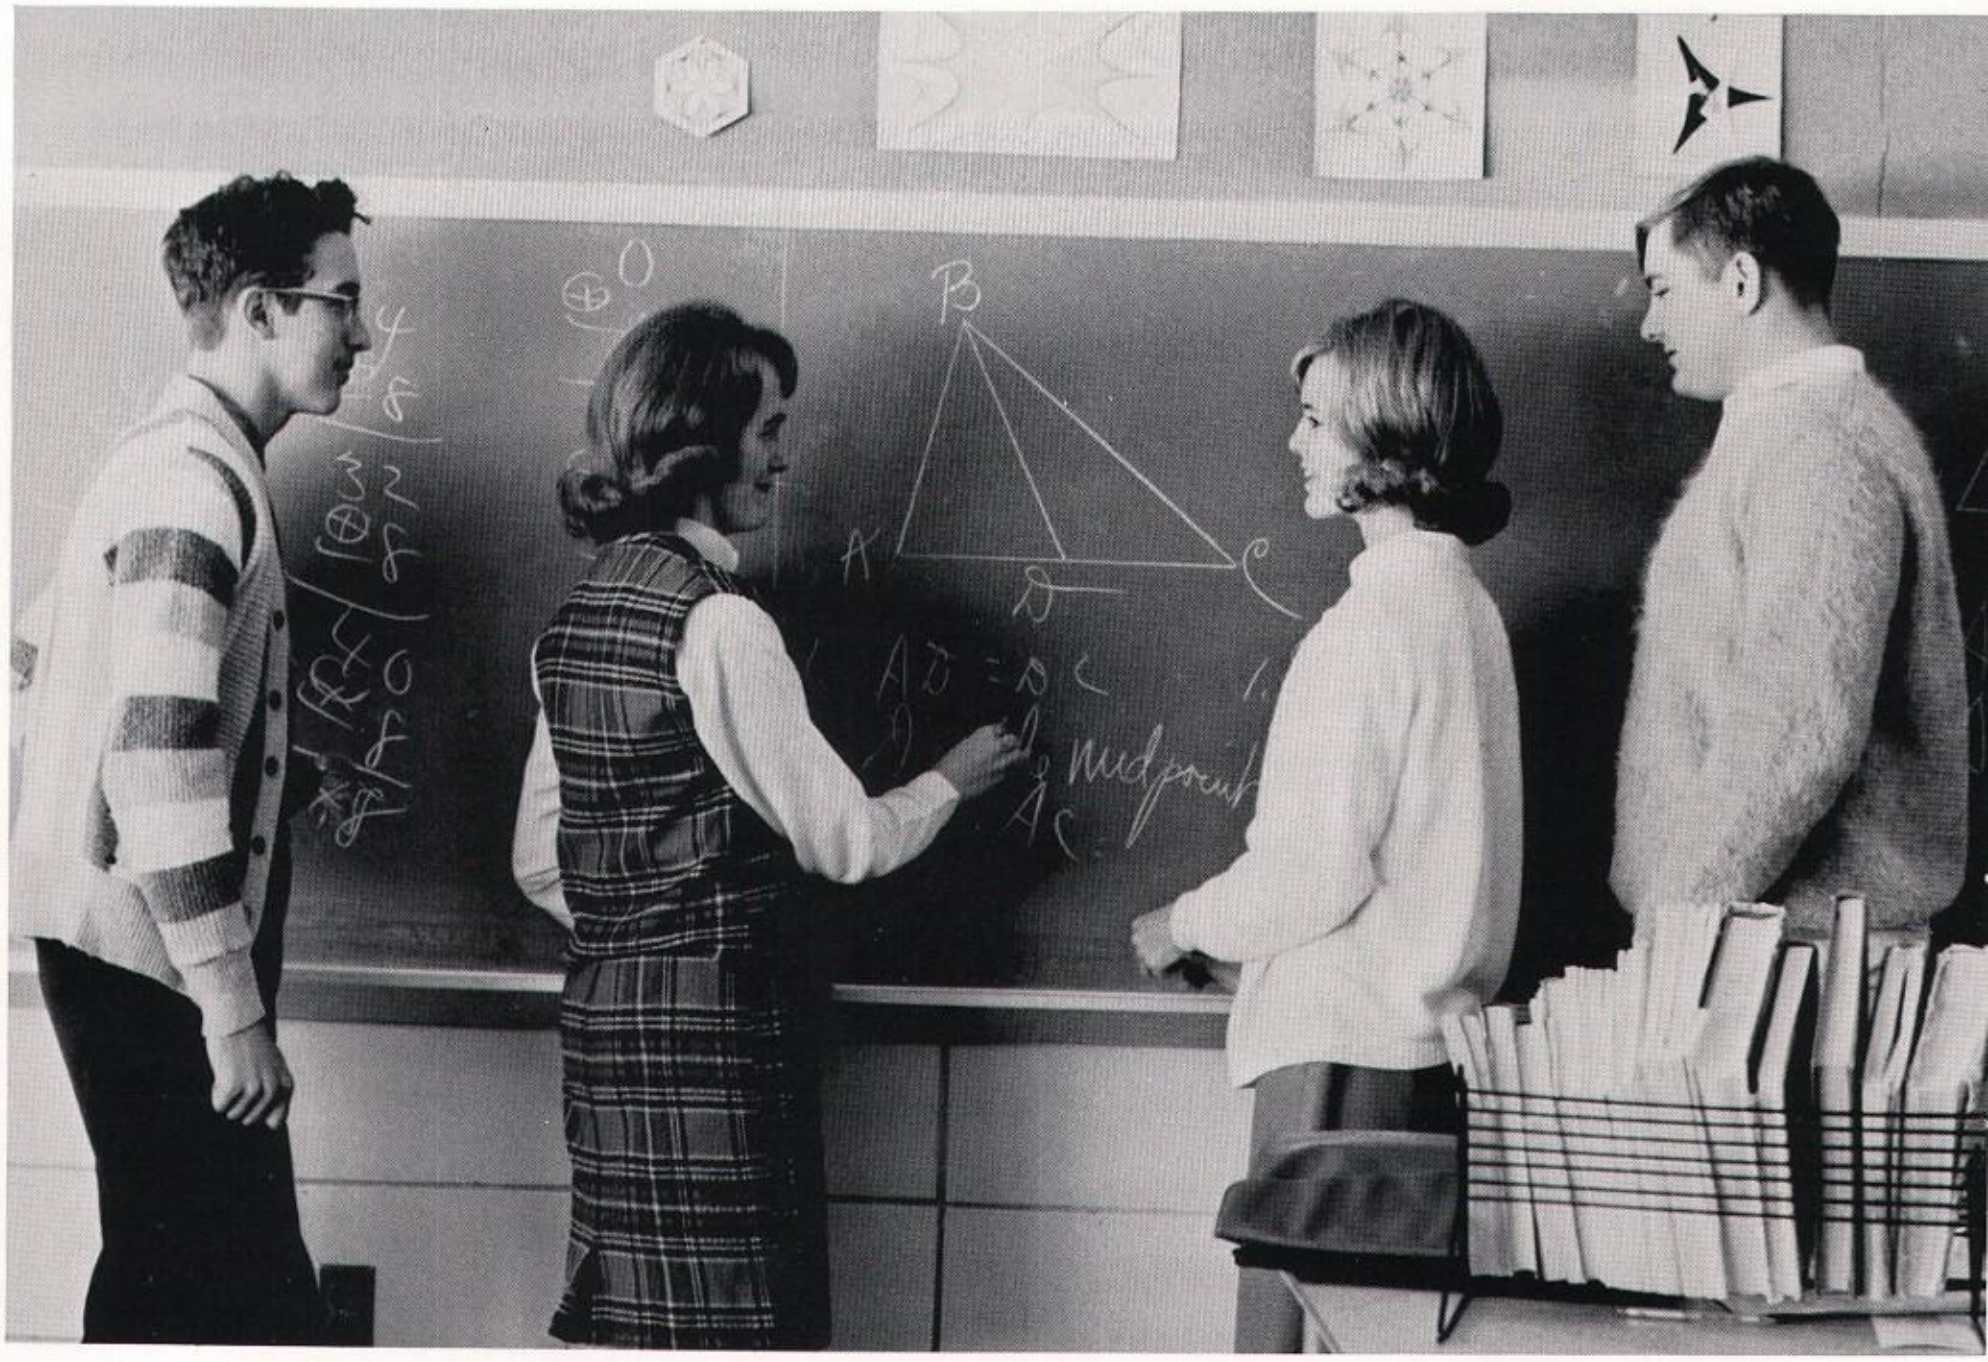
World history brings the glories of Rome, architecture of the Greeks, explorations of the Vikings, grandeur and pomp of the English and French, voyage of Columbus, growth of nationalism, imperialism, colonization, the tragic world wars, and the problems of modern day society vividly alive to students.

American History, a required course for every junior, makes each student realize how America has struggled for its freedom, and how precious this unique freedom is. By studying the lives of famous patriots such as Nathan Hale, Paul Revere, Betsy Ross, Abraham Lincoln, Eli Whitney, Dr. Jonas Salk, and President John F. Kennedy, Fairmontonians receive a true picture of the struggle for American independence.

Senior social studies provides a variety of subjects on the principles of world government and society. Civics, a required class, prepares students to accept the responsibilities of voting by realizing how our government works. Economics not only informs students about production, consumption, exchange, distribution, and public finance, but it opens their eyes to the problems that the modern economy must face each and every day. Sociology prepares seniors for the social complexes of adult life in a changing society. Teen-age problems are discussed and each student participates in trying to find answers.

Social studies is truly a large, encompassing field which enlightens students' minds about the world in which they live.

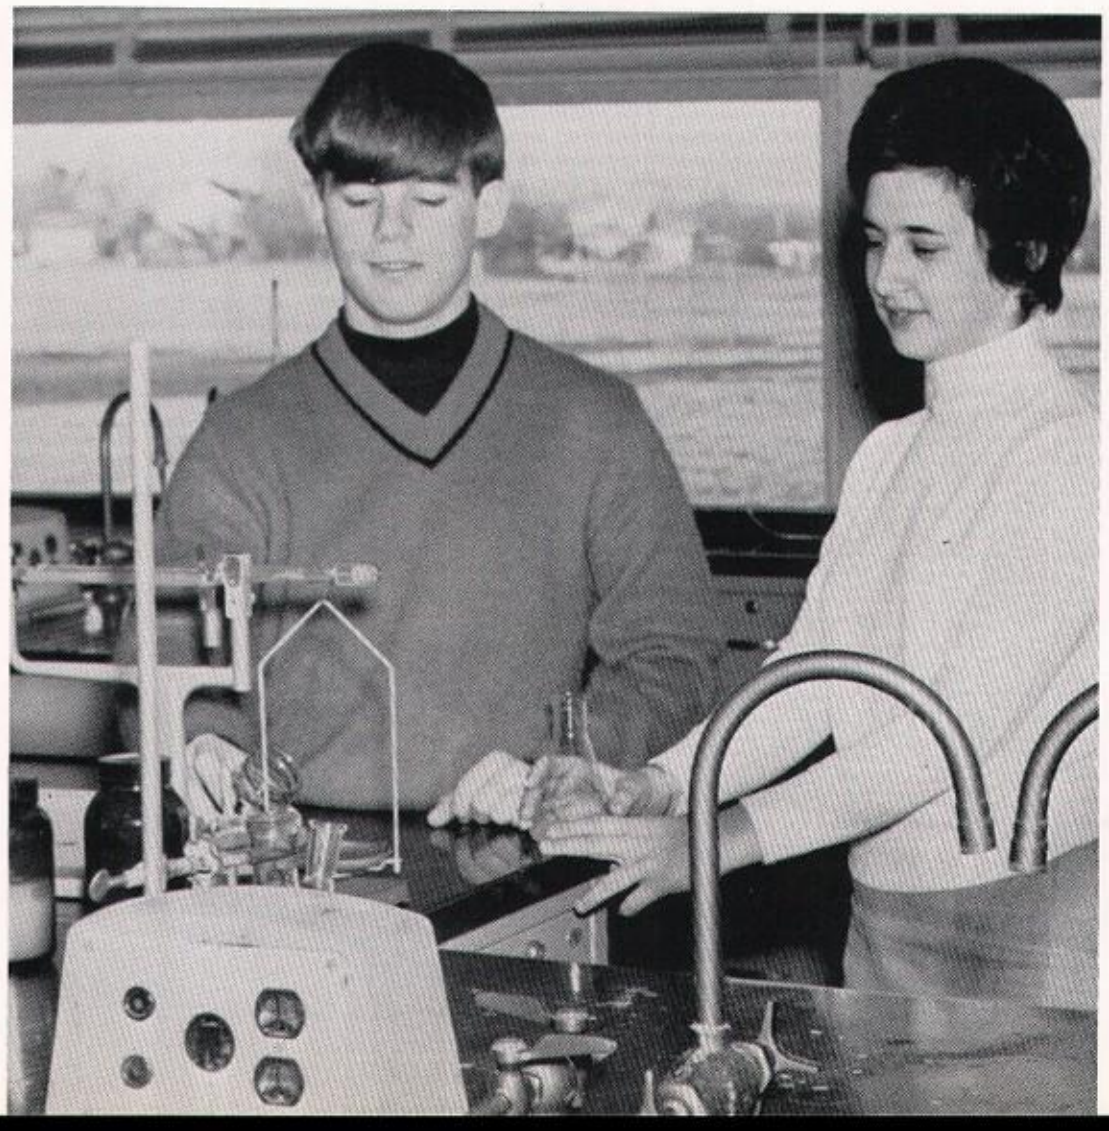
Karen Richie points to territory the United States gained from the Louisiana Purchase.



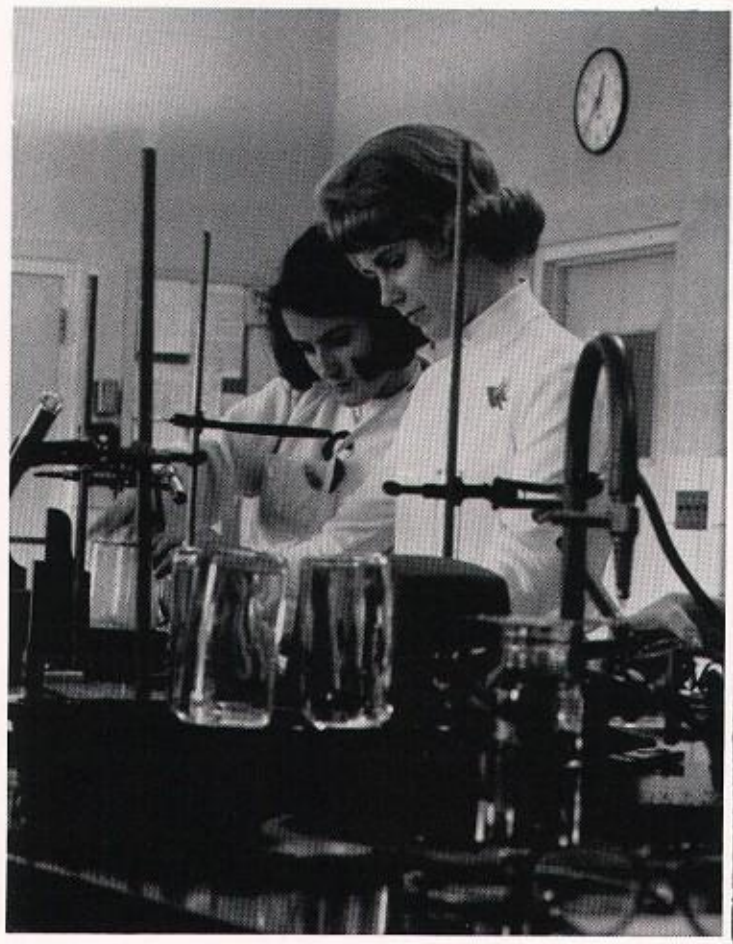
Bonnie Penny explains one of the finer points of a geometry problem to Ralph Pierce, Carolyn Clifford, and Tom Walther.

Math and science promote understanding

Always ready in advance, lab assistants Lynn Girton and Terry Fraze take time to prepare the compounds used in making carbon dioxide.



Chemistry laboratory is a place of new discoveries for Nancy Silas and Linda Williams.



Study of science encourages the development and application of theory in individual laboratory work and experimentation. Ability of students to apply this theory is the greatest measure of what each has learned.

Biology, the study of plants and animals; chemistry, the study of matter; physics, the study of physical forces; Science II, further study in the area of general science; and Biology II, a newly-offered field of study designed to place special emphasis on bio-chemistry, are courses offered to all Fairmont West students. Seminars are made available to all students seeking greater knowledge in the science field.

Good background in math is essential for successful completion of the science curriculum. Math teaches students to think and strive for a solution. Algebra, with its complicated quadratic equations, geometry, with its intricate triangles, and trigonometry, with its numerous sines and cosines present challenging problems for students to solve.

With the power man possesses today, knowledge of math and science is mandatory to increase and broaden one's scope of nature's wonders.

interest, proficiency, and performance

Fairmont West offers a wide variety of vocational courses which are designed to help students develop skills in the areas of business, industrial arts, and home economics. Election of a vocational subject within the extensive curriculum provides the opportunity to gain proficiency in these areas.

Co-operative Office Education, personal and clerical typing, notehand, business law, bookkeeping, shorthand, and office practice enable future secretaries and office workers to gain knowledge that will be beneficial and applicable in an office situation.

Industrial Arts courses train future workers in the fields of mechanics, electronics, printing, drafting, woodworking, graphic arts, and metals. These subjects are valuable in aiding the student to make practical applications in the home, enabling him to enter vocational schools, and preparing him for employment.

Future homemakers learn skills in clothing and tailoring, foods and baking, and home management. Child development includes a three-week Red Cross course in Mother and Baby Care. This extensive program teaches students how to establish more comfortable and happy homes for their families.

Diverse offerings of curriculum in their vocational areas enable students to be prepared to accept any future challenge.

Spirits swing high as junior girls do their tri-weekly exercises in physical education classes.

music, and physical education classes

Fairmont West's curriculum concentrates on developing strong bodies as well as strong minds. Through physical education classes each sophomore and junior receives extensive training in many sports areas.

Both boys and girls participate in volleyball, gymnastics, badminton, softball, tennis, basketball, and track. Other girls' sports include field hockey, table tennis, fencing, golf, and archery. Boys' sports also include soccer, speedball, football, wrestling, and horseshoes.

Although most of the girls' and boys' activities are separated, all sophomores participate in a co-recreational program which includes square dancing and social dancing. For those who wish to strive for certain goals, the physical education department also has testing programs which are very challenging.

Music and art present a chance for creative students to express themselves in a variety of ways. Art classes begin with a general learning of color and design, then students are free to work in areas in which they are most interested. This freedom inspires students by watching others and seeing their own errors and strong points.

Orchestra, marching band, concert band, stage band, girl's choir, and chorus comprise Fairmont West's music program. Marching band performs at all football games and provides an excellent opportunity for students to show their ingenuity in marching and playing simultaneously. This year the band and chorus combined to produce an excellent presentation of the new Alma Mater. West's orchestra works diligently throughout the year to present many difficult and skilled performances. All of these areas require practice, patience, and hard work to develop proficiency.

Clear, rich tones of talented voices are the products of a well-directed chorus.

Sophomore year in any high school is a period of transition for the student. At Fairmont West the transition is a stimulating entrance into a world of higher academics. Coupled with the making of new friends and new social activities, the Sophomores' first year on campus is an enjoyable chapter in his life.

Business is the essence of a community. If the tax-paying businesses described in the following pages were not in the Kettering-Dayton area, not only would goods and services be hard to come by, but such tax-supported institutions as Fairmont West would not have
city progress depends on the expansion of commercial interests, which is indirectly the responsibility of every Fairmontonian, supporting those businesses which support their school.

Dayton and Kettering businesses have proven that progress creates a beautiful sight.

NOTE OF THANKS

Fairmont West's Dragon is compiled like a clock's work, with each section doing its part in the completion of the yearbook. While staff members are the hands of the clock, overt in their actions, there are those who labor quietly within the organization, without whose help the annual would not be possible.

There is Mrs. Jane E. Nolan, Fairmont West's yearbook adviser, who for the past five years has been the main-spring of the Dragon; Mr. and Mrs. Hal Logan of Logan Studios, who did such fine work on the senior pictures; Mr. Bill Maerker, also of Logan Studios, who photographed seniors, as well as took the organizations and informal activity shots; Mr. Jack Molz, Delmar Studios, for the underclass pictures; and Mr. Matt McCormick and Mr. Terry Hirtzinger of the Taylor Publishing Company.

Besides the technical aid of those mentioned above, the yearbook staff is grateful to the administration and faculty of Fairmont West; as well as the administrators of the Kettering School System; our patient custodian, Mr. Paul Arthur, who assisted on shipment nights; Mr. Leland Hall; the many advertisers who invested in the Dragon; and parent, business, and professional patrons; all of whom had a role in the creation of this yearbook.

Most of all, the staff thanks the members of the student body for their support of the Dragon, and for caring enough about Fairmont West to want a pictorial remembrance of their high school days.

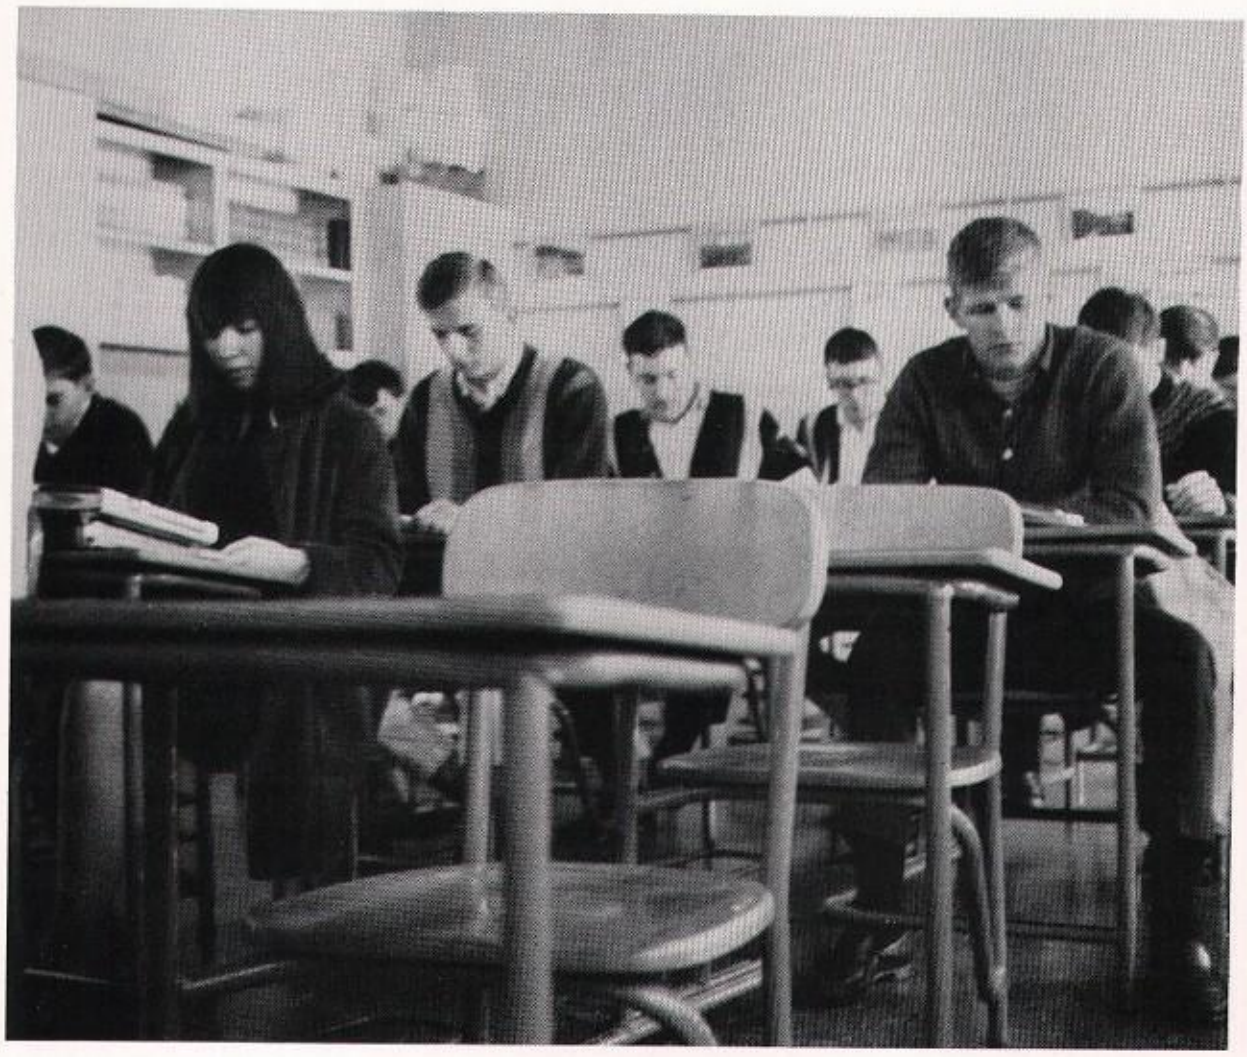
Memories ease sadness at graduation



Under the dark cloud of death, the senior class of 1964-65 began its final year at Fairmont West High School. It was August 18, 1964 when Doug Evans died unexpectedly of pneumonia. Tragedy struck again on September 15, 1964, and once more the senior class was cast in a shadow when a fatal hunting accident took the life of Denny Willis.

Empty desks of these two boys have been a constant reminder of their activities at school and life here on earth. Deep sorrow has drawn the senior class closer together knowing that both Doug and Denny now have the golden keys to the palace of eternity.

Empty desks remind friends of loss of familiar faces.

Fairmont West's 1965 Dragon closes its chronicle with this page; but the year is only physically ended. Stories of high school days in '65 will be retold whenever graduates gather in the future.
Only through reliving memories of the year spent at West can the richness of the experience be fully realized.
Graduates will recall that emotions are mixed as seniors proceed up the steps to receive their diplomas.
They realize that finally they are graduating, yet, feel sentimentally sad as they reminisce over past experiences, never to be repeated. Returning to their seats, the tassels on their mortarboards now turned to the left, seniors' thoughts turn to the future.
Juniors and sophomores, too, sense implications of a year's end at Fairmont West. Underclassmen see the gleam of fulfillment in the eyes of parents, teachers and administrators, for whom this is a time of pride, when years of co-operative effort result in a mature adult.
For themselves, the end of the year means a promotion on the scholastic and social ladder, and a year closer to each one's commencement.
Completion of the school year has a different impact on each individual. But for all, it exemplifies that Fairmont West is opportunity, developed through challenging educational experiences,
so that each student will have the best possible future.
As for Fairmont West, it has seen the beginning of a new tradition of excellence. Diplomas will bear the name "Fairmont West" for the first time. Records achieved in all areas of scholastic, cultural, and athletic efforts, predict outstanding future personal records for those who leave in June.
Accruement of these accolades has been a strenuous, united effort;
and has become a part of every Westonian's life.
Thus, the Dragon, which is a record of the school year, is a year of each student's life between two covers.
1964-65 school year is fading;
but as one generation lives on in the hearts of the next,
so this year will perpetuate so long as there are those who smile when they remember the days they crossed a campus called Fairmont West.

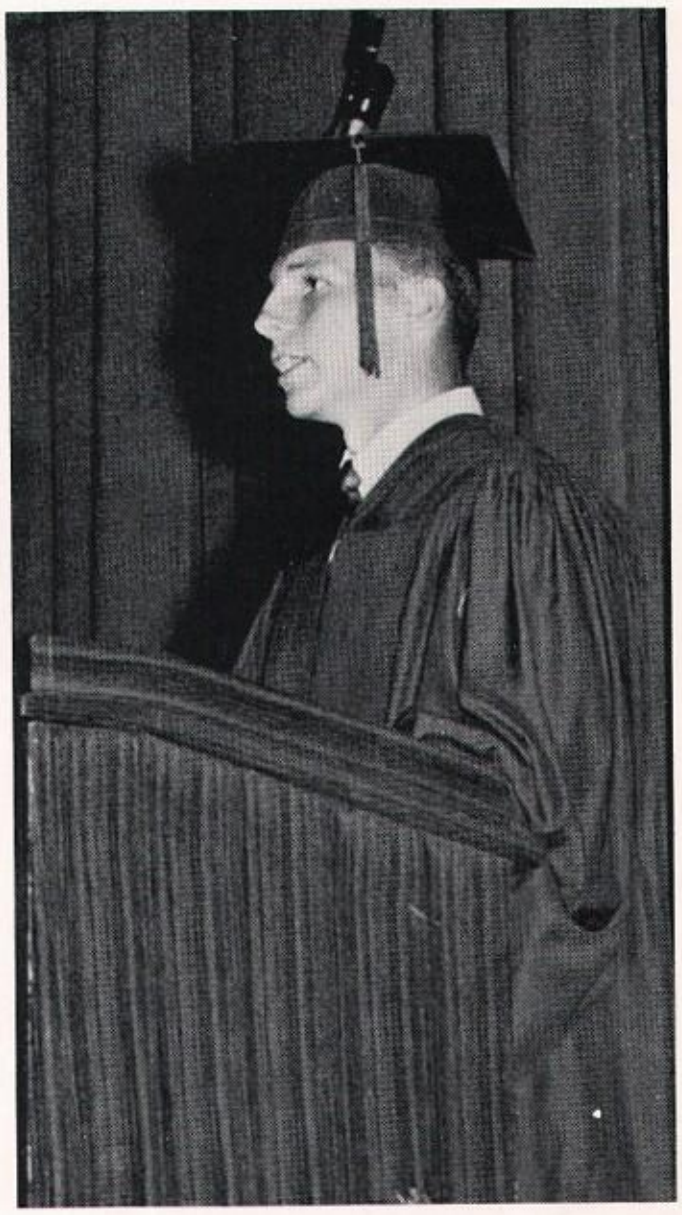
Baccalaureate begins graduation exercises

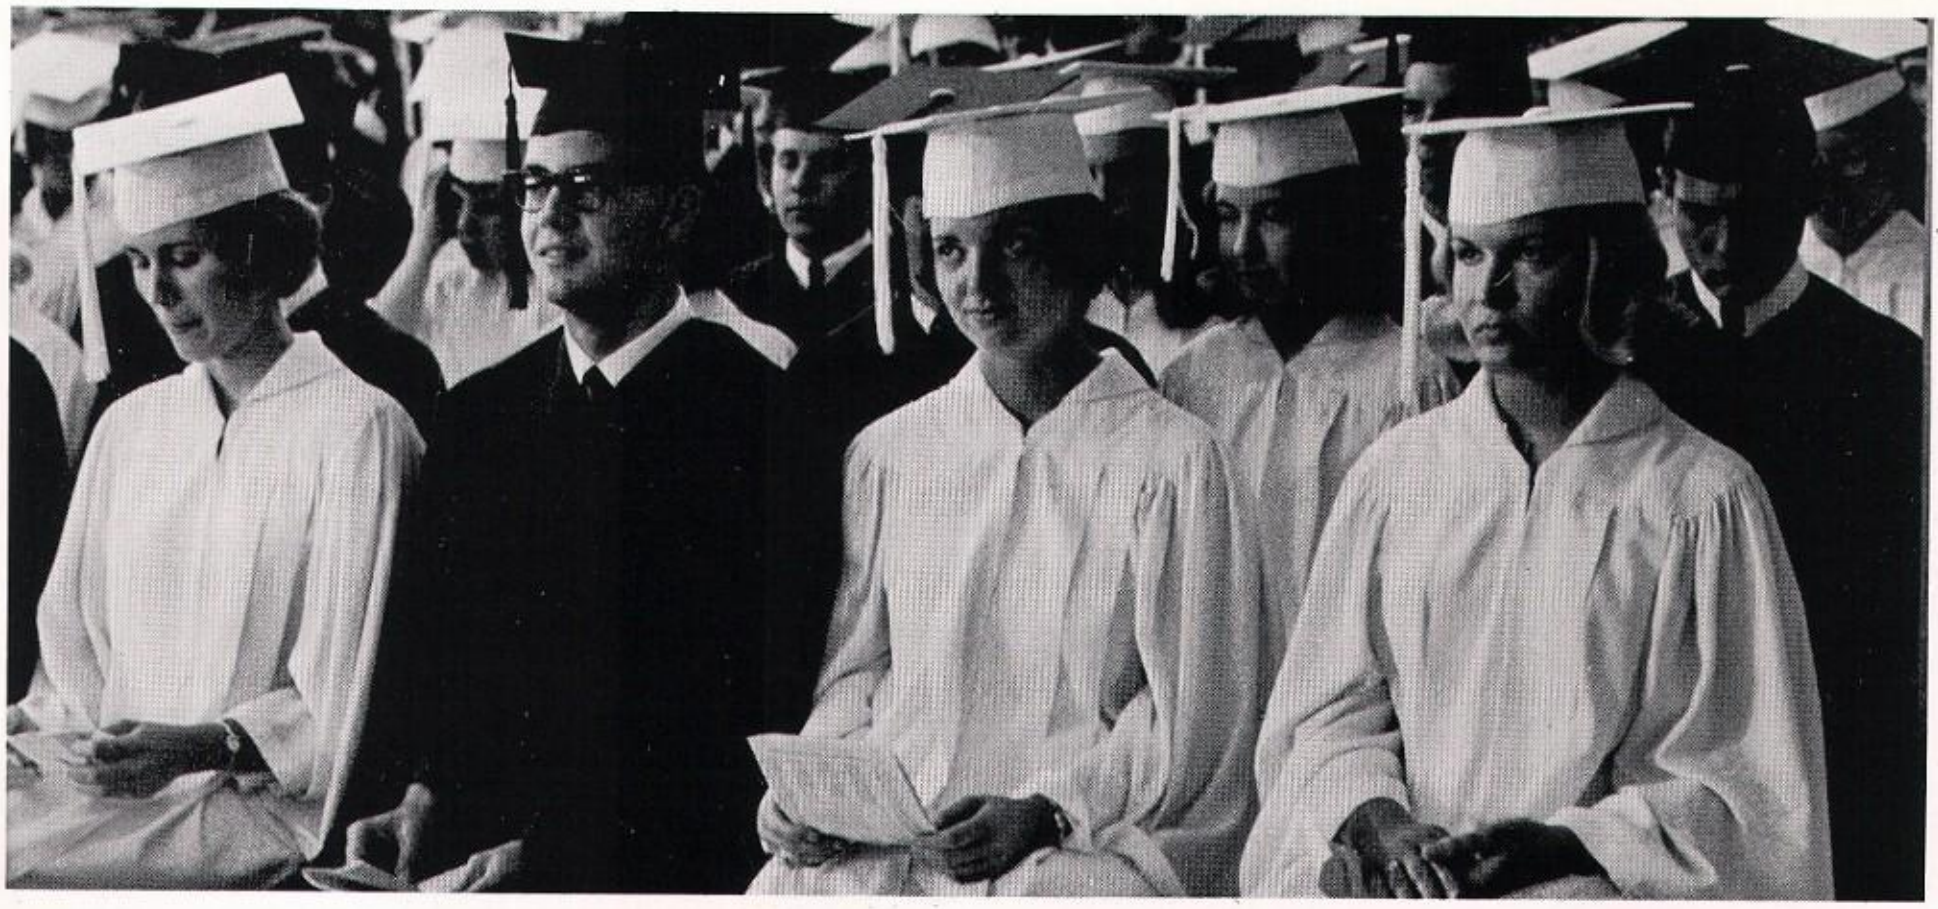
Quietness surrounds seniors as they review the past and dream of the future.

Fairmont West's traditional baccalaureate service was held Sunday, June 6, 1965, at 4:30 o'clock at the National Cash Register Company Auditorium. Reverend Roderick L. King of Christ Methodist Church inspired the 550 members of the Class of 1965 with his sermon "The Tools for Your Transformation."



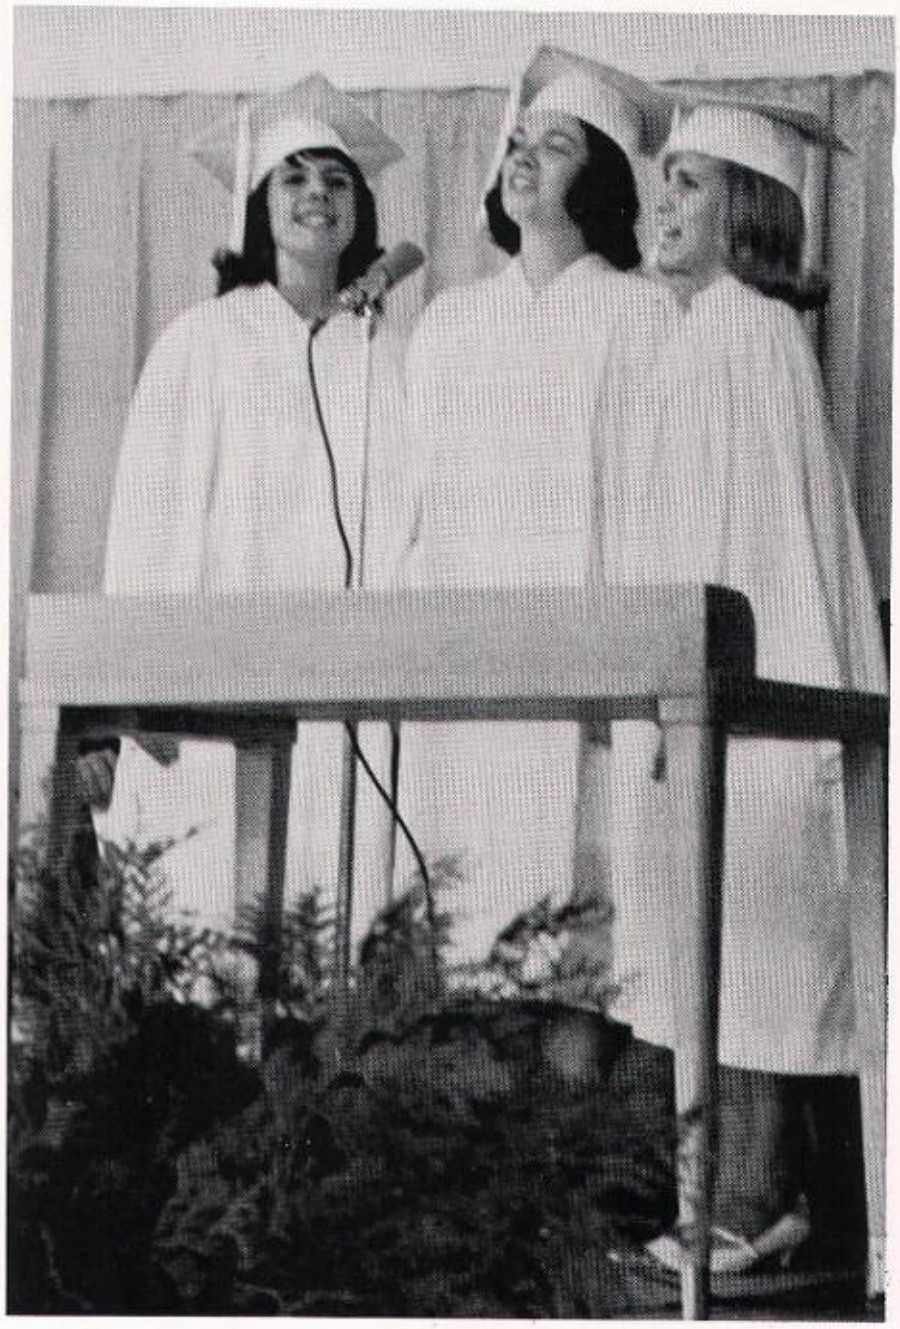
Senior class president Marvin Hill presents guest speaker Rev. Roderick King.

Senior members join mixed chorus for the final performance of their high school career.



Linda Williams, Gary Walsh, Molly Rubin, and Judy Horstman ponder over speeches with varied thoughts and expressions.

First Kettering Fairmont West graduation



Mixed emotions were felt as the Class of 1965 filed up the aisles to receive their diplomas. For some, joy and relief were felt as twelve long years had come to an end. Many others experienced sadness as they realized a part of their life was gone forever.

For all, the commencement program held great significance. For the first time diplomas bore the name "Fairmont West." Likewise, the Alma Mater was sung for the first time at graduation. As the 1965 graduates sang the words closest to their hearts, they knew they would never forget all the wonderful memories of their high school, Fairmont West.

Reflections of joy and pride are found in the voices of Robin Schonsheck, Sandy Hitte, and Cindy Jones.

Solemn Seniors reminisce as 12 years of achievement is brought to a climax.

Friends, family and graduates listen attentively to the timely remarks given by Molly Rubin.

Donna Ecton is speechless after receiving the Mary Elizabeth Jones Speech Award.

Although throughout the year, numerous awards are made to Fairmont West students, there are three honors which the school feels to be the most outstanding and their presentation climaxes the school year. Each of these awards is based upon all-around participation and scholarship, but each centers around one main field of activity. The Mary Elizabeth Jones Award honors a senior who has contributed superior speech work. The Charles Roger Finley Award recognizes the outstanding athlete of the year. The David V. Rayburn Award is presented to the outstanding senior who best portrays many positive characteristics of citizenship.

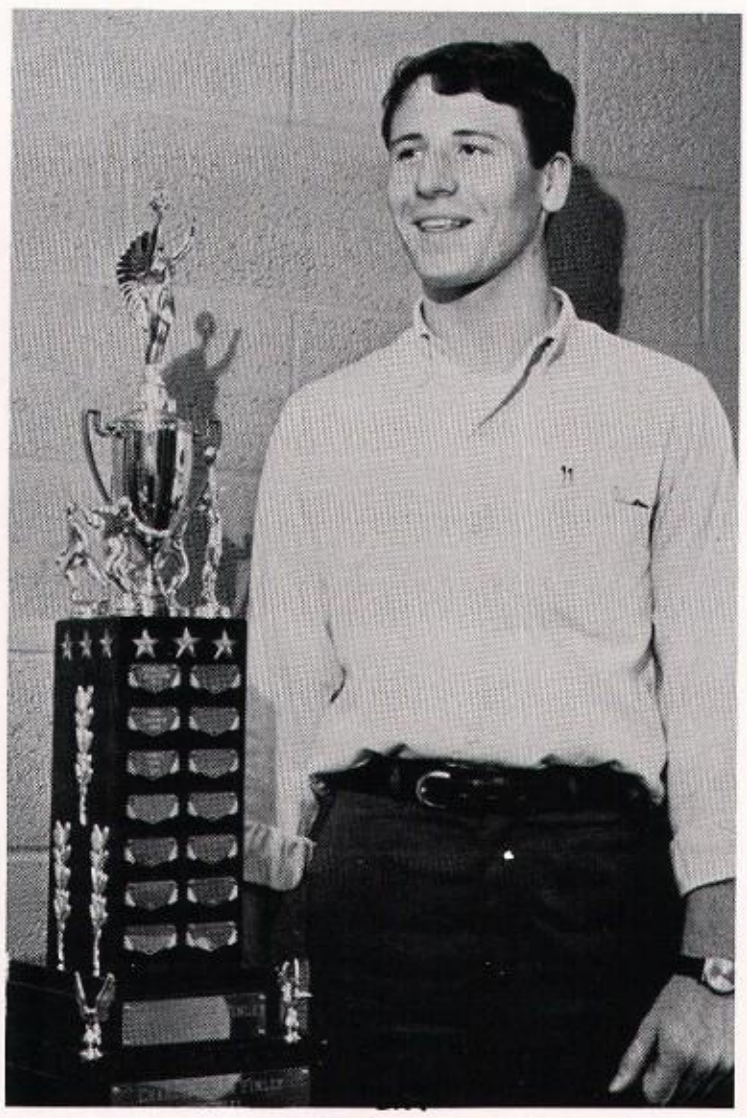
For the school year of 1964-1965, Mike Lackey won the Rayburn Award. Mike was associate editor and sports' editor for the yearbook. He was the motivating factor for West's spirit as he ran down the field recording the plays at all football games. Fairmontonians truly felt that he deserved the award, for he received a standing ovation.

Jim Todd received the Charles Finley Award. In his sophomore year Jim lettered in football and wrestling. His junior year he was third in the district and MVL Champ in wrestling. His senior year he was co-captain of the football team and all-WOL. In wrestling he was second in the district and WOL Champ. He was also selected scholar athlete and president of Varsity "F."

Donna Ecton received the Mary Elizabeth Jones Award. Donna participated in speech and debate for four years; as a sophomore she lost only one debate. Competing in area debate and girls' extemporaneous speech tournaments, she was first in the district in girls' extemp and competed in state finals. Her senior year she was elected vice-president of the N.F.L. She placed second in extemp in district finals and fifth in the state. As a member of the A-debate team she won first in the WOL. She was nominated for national congress. Crowning event of her senior year was to receive her double ruby in N.F.L., which signified 500 points of speech work.

Variety of superior achievement

Mike Lackey, Fairmont West's outstanding citizen, displays his David V. Rayburn Award.



Jim Todd, smiling modestly, has a great deal to be proud of, as winner of the Charles Roger Finley Award.

merits public recognition

Quill and Scroll is the International Honorary Society of High School Journalists, of which Fairmont West has a large chapter. Membership is based on overall scholarship, as well as journalistic activity. New members are inducted in a candlelight ceremony at the annual journalism banquet.

Scholastic effort and service, as well as leadership and character, are further recognized at Fairmont West by initiation into the National Honor Society. West has two tappings a year, for seniors in December, and for juniors in May. Requirements for junior year membership dictate that the student be in the upper twenty per cent of his class, of which no more than seven and one-half per cent may be selected. The junior members of West's Torch and Keystone chapter provide the nucleus for the next year's organization, as well as act as pace setters for the following year's senior class.

Polly Price hands Mary Ann Kowaski her pin of accomplishment.

Trackmen have good year, 2nd in W.O.L.

West competed evenly with the area's best to compile a solid track record. Dual-meet victories over Chaminade and Fairborn were high points. Three times (Oakwood Invitational, Fairmont West-East, and WOL), the last event decided a meet which the Dragons dropped by three points or less.

Individual standout was Steve Lauderback, who broke or tied three hurdle records. Bill Brandt, discus; and the 880-relay team of Dave Mullen, Denny Reed, Wayne Kimbrell and Dave Helm sparkled in the district meet to qualify for regional action.

Dave Mullen and Dave Helm sweep first and second places in the 100.

Dan McGilvery wins the 880 with a final burst of speed.

Steve Lauderback, holder of all hurdle records, takes the lead in the lows against Richmond.

Highlight of the 1965 baseball season was during the rival game with our sister school, Fairmont East. In the last inning of that game with no score for either team, junior Don Harlow hit a home run to win over East, 1-0.

Diamond Men had a 9-10 season this year, yet proved themselves strong in many valuable games. They played and beat Belmont three times, the last two in a double-header on the final day of the season.

In the first year of WOL competition the Dragons had a winning 4-3 record.

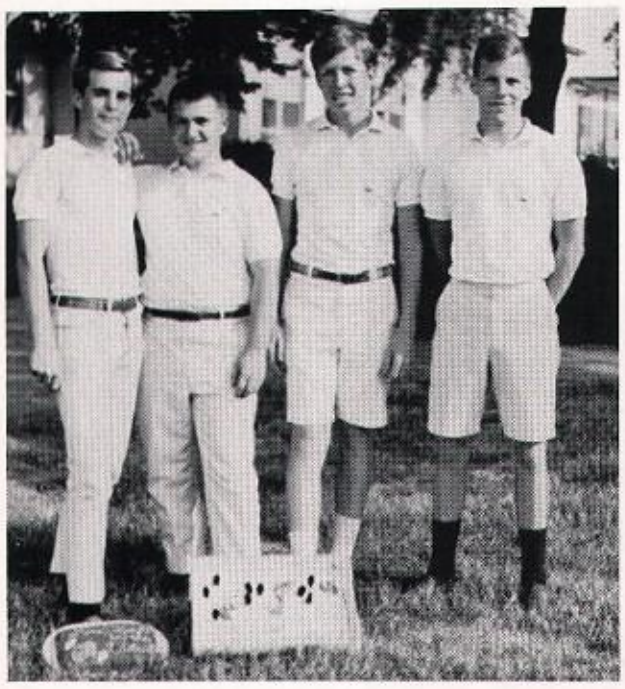
Sudden death gains golfers silver trophy



Cakes and congratulations are in order for varsity foursome Jim Twohig, Tom Bohardt, Steve McCafferty, and Bob Viets after winning district title.

Fairmont West's golf team concluded a very successful season by placing second in the state golf championship at Ohio State's Scarlet and Gray course. After a tie for second place honors, West's tee-men putted to silver-trophy honors by winning a sudden death playoff. Dragon divot-diggers Tom Bohardt, Bob Viets, Jim Twohig and Steve McCafferty finished 20 strokes behind Upper Arlington by carding a total of 644 for the 36-hole course.

Dragon foursome captured the district crown by defeating many perennially tough teams such as West Carrollton and Oakwood. Team total for the district competition was 309 with Tom Bohardt's 73 affording him medalist honors.

Coach John Stuckey's divotmen dominated the local scene as they succeeded in taking the WOL title at the Greene County Country Club. Medalist Bob Viets led the way with a 72.

Experienced "racketeers" are area powerhouse

With a strong contingent of eight seniors, the tennis team won eight in a row to end the season 10-2 in dual competition. Led by three-year lettermen Pete Thompson and Paul Wyckoff, the Dragons were second in the WOL; beating Fairmont East 4-1. Downing Chaminade twice, also added to a great season.

Captain Pete Thompson, named the squad's Most Valuable Player; and Paul Wyckoff, Most Improved; were second in the district as a doubles team and went on to the state semifinals before being bumped by the eventual champs.

Athletes receive well-deserved honors

Styles step into spring

Styles and smiles were mixed as the combined Home Economics sewing classes presented their annual style show. One-hundred clothing and tailoring students turned models for the occasion. Everything from beach-cover shifts to ball gowns was included in the show.

Variety acts based upon the musical interpretation of "Mary Poppins," by members of the speech classes, were interspersed throughout the show. Entertainment for the night was concluded with the history of the modern dance.

Laurie Gumper charmed the audience in her fashionable scalloped skimmer.

Ecstatic smiles reveal the happiness of a moment that Queen Linda Williams and King Larry Dietz will never forget.

"Tahitian Twilight"

"Tahitian Twilight" gently enveloped Wampler's Ballarena May 14, while Westonians danced through the night at the Junior-Senior Prom. Junior class, traditional host of this annual social event, succeeded in creating a most unforgettable evening. Hard work and planning on the part of numerous committees and people resulted in a realistic atmosphere of palm trees, tropical gardens and Tahitian hospitality. Ronnie Meyer's Orchestra provided delightful music. Ancient Polynesian tradition made the colorful ceremonial crowning of the king and queen the highlight of the evening.

Charming Linda Williams and handsome Larry Dietz reigned for the remainder of this gala affair. Twilight faded at midnight when couples sailed from the magic isle of Tahiti to private parties, late dinners, and early breakfasts. Saturday found the more ambitious members of the Senior Class picnicking at Hueston Woods and John Bryant State Park. Seniors all agreed that the 1965 Prom was a great success.

enchants Westonians and makes memorable prom

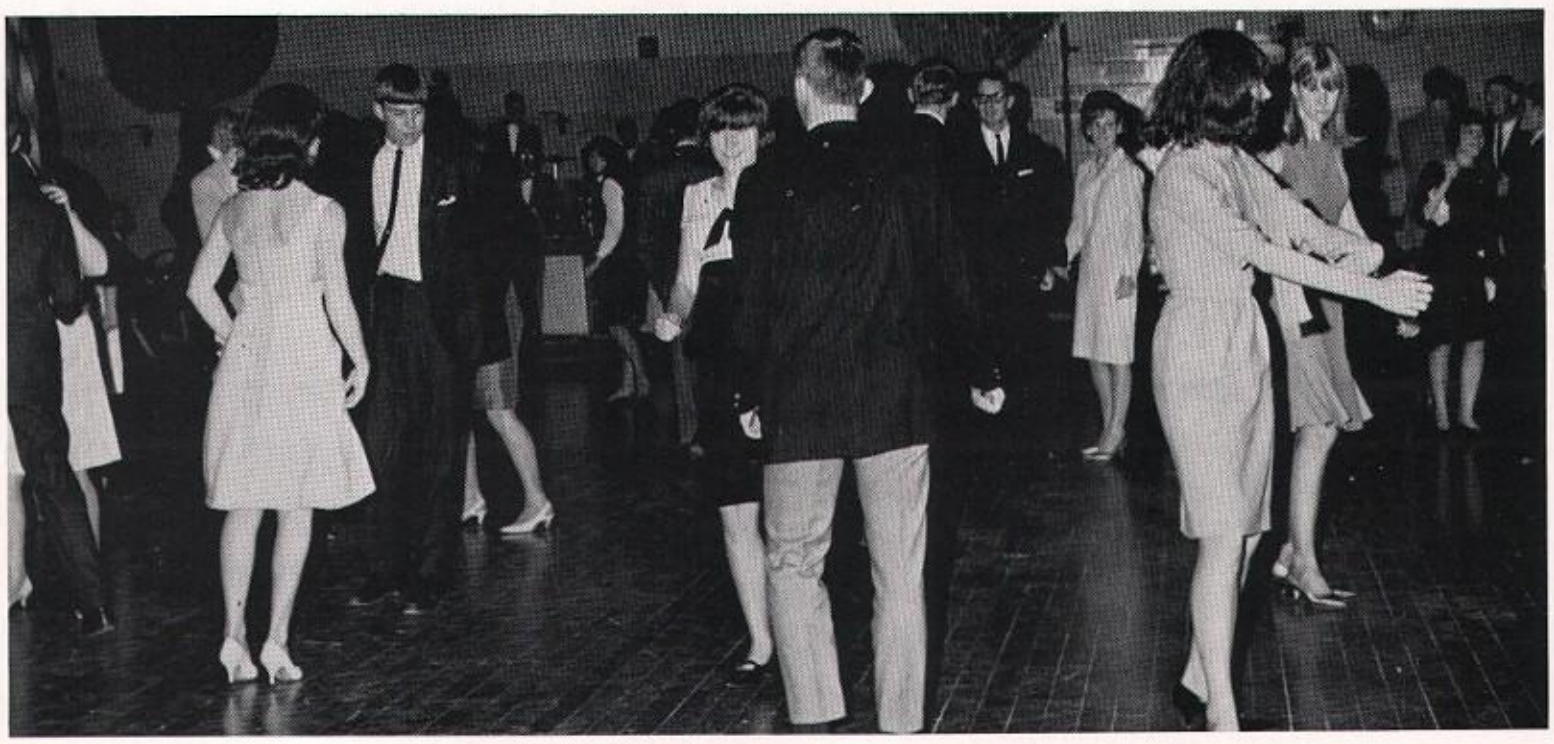
Enthusiastic juniors spend time and energy in decorating for the 1965 Prom.

Mark Sinkhorn adds that extra touch to Leslie Neff's attire.

Lights were dim, scent of flowers was in the air, and moods were dreamy as the dancers swayed gently to the music of the Chandells and Continentals. Magic spell of the "Garden of Eden" was everywhere, from the crepe-paper doorway to the lovely fountain.

Over-all committee chairman, John Bohardt, did a wonderful job in organizing various committees to make the sophomore dance the success it was. Faculty adviser, Mr. Ross Bateson, left no stone unturned in making the dance one of the most memorable occasions for sophomores as well as upper-classmen.

Enchantment prevails in the "Garden of Eden"



Sophomore class's contribution to Fairmont West social life drew a fine group.

All those in attendance at Junior dance experienced an evening filled with much excitement and a touch of royalty.

King and Queen, Joe DeHaven and Judy Stautzenbach, glowing with unexpected thrill of coronation, reign over festivities.

"April in the Orient," sponsored by the junior class, brought mystic enchantment to the west gym. Flowers, lanterns, pagodas, and music by the Cavaliers created an atmosphere for dancing, laughter, and fun. Intermission activities found Joe DeHaven and Judy Stautzenbach radiant with the delight of being crowned king and queen.

Juniors, along with their faculty advisers, spent many long hours working on this dance. Proceeds received from the success of "April in the Orient" were used to help finance the Junior-Senior Prom.

Junior class

Harvey, the Junior Class Play, was a comical sketch of a family and an imaginary white rabbit. Mr. Joseph Kuldau made the play possible by affording his expert direction and supervision. Spontaneous applause for this "hopping-good" comedy proved the play a tremendous success. Humorous characters ranged from a seven foot rabbit to a play-boy bunny. For the cast of over fourteen, the play was a unique experience which will never be forgotten

Production included the efforts of many other Juniors who participated on make-up committees, scenery, and behind stage positions. An organized group of Junior girls performed a Pooka dance while the professor contradicted the existence of a Pooka. Bill Nelson was named "Thespian Actor of the Year" for his outstanding performance as Dr. Chumley.

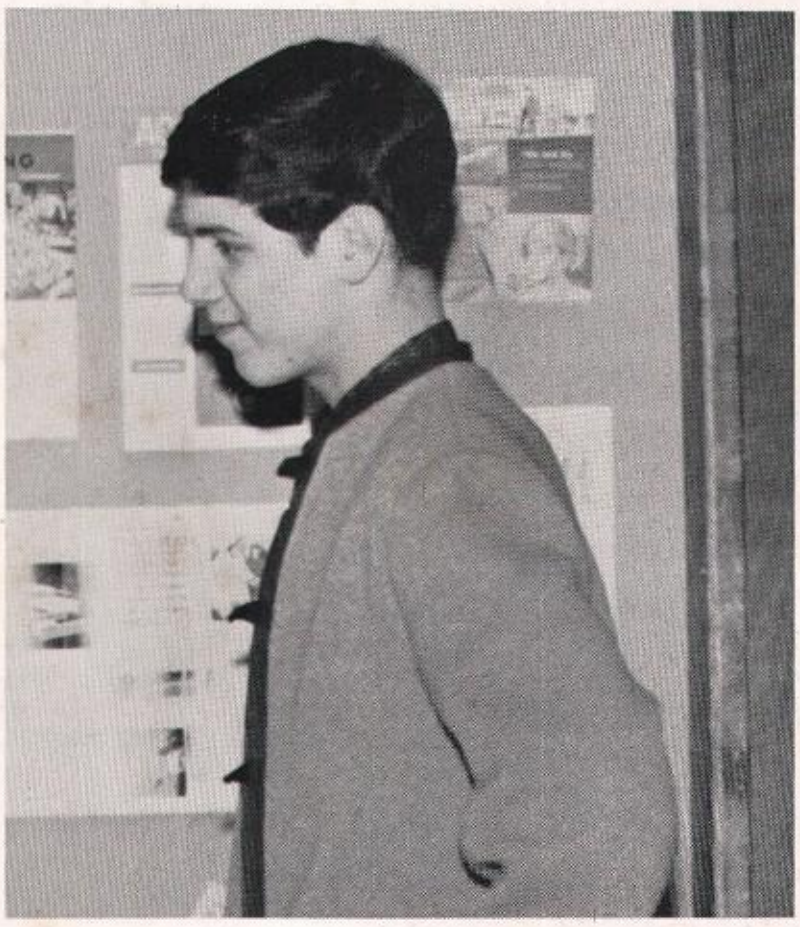
PEGGY COMMON

Peggy Common's enthusiasm glowed in all activities in which she participated.

Doug Heller's outlook on life always kept him looking in the right direction.



Fairmont West, and thus each and every Westonian had to bear up under two more tragic losses this year April 23, 1965, will be remembered as the date that Douglas Heller, a Central unit senior, lost his life in an automobile accident. A scant four days passed before a serious illness snuffed out the life of Peggy Common, a West unit sophomore. The loss of these two vibrant people will leave sad memories for those who knew them well. We are all better off for their having been among us.
